2013 Deer Hunter Wildlife Survey begins

MADISON -- The opening of the archery deer season on Sept. 14 marks the beginning of the 2013 Deer Hunter Wildlife Survey.

"Deer hunters often ask if there is a way they can tell state wildlife officials what they are or are not seeing from their deer stand, this survey provides them with the means to do that" said Jay Watson, wildlife survey technician with the Department of Natural Resources.

"With the Deer Trustee report recommending more input from the hunting public on herd status, this tool provides the hunter with an excellent way to communicate their sightings," Watson said. "All they need to do is record the date, number of hours, county, deer management unit, weather conditions, and the type and number of animals observed each day of deer hunting. Hunters can also enter their email address along with their observations and I will send them an email summary of their hunting activity at the end of the survey period."

Hunters can find survey instructions, record sightings, and view survey results online at the Wisconsin Deer Hunter Wildlife Survey page by searching the DNR website for "deer hunter wildlife." A tally sheet is also available for times when hunters do not have access to a computer.

The Red Light Saloon at Holt & Balcom

The cast is revved up and ready to present "The Red Light Saloon" on October 5 at the Townsend Town Hall, on Highway 32 in Townsend. Two shows will be staged; a matinee at 2:00 p.m. and an evening show at 7:00 p.m. The doors open one hour before each show.

Written and narrated by director Kathleen Marie Marsh, this original music and comedy revue will pay tribute to the glory days of railroading. A terrific group of local singing talent will be entertaining by impersonating characters that railroad crews might have encountered during a Saturday night in town. Be ready for two hours of frisky, frolicking fun sponsored by the Holt & Balcom Logging Camp Museum. Caution: due to adult content, no one under 18 will be admitted.

Admission is $8.00, at the door only, but come early as both shows sold out last year. Beer, soda, sarsaparilla sodas (root beer floats) and light snacks will be available. All proceeds will go to the Holt & Balcom Logging Camp Museum Restoration Project. Call 715-276-6515 for more information.

Town of Lincoln opens roads to all-terrain vehicles

By Boyd Monte

The Town of Lincoln adopted an ordinance to establish all terrain vehicle routes in the town and to regulate the operation of all terrain vehicles in the town.

While operating an all terrain vehicle, no person may operate an all terrain vehicle on the roadway portion of any highway in the town except on roadways that are designated as all terrain vehicle routes. Operation of all terrain vehicles on a roadway in the town that is an all terrain vehicle route is authorized only for the extreme right side of the roadway except that left turns may be made from any part of the roadway that is safe given prevailing conditions.

All roads in the Town of Lincoln will be open as access roads to the main mapped and signed routes. All main mapped routes shall be marked with uniform all terrain vehicle route signs in accordance with s.NR 64.12(7), Wisconsin Administrative Code. The balance of the town roads will be open as access roads to the marked routes.

No person may intentionally remove, damage, deface, move or obstruct any uniform all terrain vehicle route or trail sign or standard or intentionally interfere with the effective operation of any uniform route or trail sign or standards if the sign or standard is legally placed by the

Art in the Square Crandon

Crandon, Wisconsin – It's that time of year when the air gets a little crisper and leaves start to turn-- yes, autumn is 'in the air'. It is also time for the annual "Art in the Square" taking place on Saturday, September 21, from 10:00 a.m. till 4:00 p.m. The Forest County Courthouse Square, located on Crandon's main street, provides a beautiful backdrop for this popular autumn event sponsored annually by the Forest County Chamber of Commerce.

Over 100 artists and crafters spaces have been reserved for this event. Participants from all parts of Wisconsin, as well as Michigan and Minnesota, will set up booths with fine quality items for show and sale including: Water color, acrylic, and oil paintings, framed wildlife prints, photography, pottery, wood carvings, chain saw carvings, fine wood furniture, wood crafts, lawn ornaments, basket weaving, jewelry, handmade soaps and candles, leather, metal works, quilting, blown glass, and much more. Original arts and crafts will be juried and prizes will be awarded. The First Prize winner will be awarded $150.00, Second Prize, $100.00, and 3rd Prize, $50.00.

A variety of great fall home made foods will be available to delight all tastes in the center food court. The increasingly popular Flea Market section will be set up along Polk Street once again. Brandt's horse and wagon rides will be back for nice leisurely rides around the courthouse square. "Lovin' Country" will perform throughout the day on the grounds.

The 3rd Annual Pie Baking Contest will be back with judging taking place on the courthouse square beginning at 1:00 p.m. Kids will have plenty to do at the south section of the courthouse square, with a bounce house, pumpkin painting, and lots more. Don't forget to check out the creative scarecrows placed around town, as the business community competes in the "Best Scarecrow" contest throughout the week leading up to this event.

The Forest County Historical & Genealogical Society will be sponsoring demonstrations of Antique Crafts on the porch and lawn at the museum at 105 W. Jackson in Crandon. Demonstrations will include Native beadwork, several weaving techniques, spinning, knitting, crocheting and many other crafts that early settlers created to decorate their homes and keep themselves warm and stylish.

Chairman, Bruce Walentowski, invites everyone to attend (admission is free) and enjoy Art in the Square in beautiful downtown Crandon. For further information, for a pie contest entry, or to reserve a space at this event, contact the Forest County Chamber of Commerce at visitartinthesquare.com, (715)478-3450, or email .

Fall wild turkey, ruffed grouse seasons set to open

MADISON – Biologists with the state Department of Natural Resources have noticed a large increase this year in the number of applications for the fall turkey hunt. One likely factor is that those individuals who purchased a conservation patron license were able to apply online and were not required to file a paper application as in the past. However, there has also been a significant increase in applications from individuals who did not purchase the broadly inclusive conservation patron license. Fall turkey hunting permits are awarded by lottery for each of seven turkey hunting zones.

"It just seems there is more interest this fall in turkey hunting," said Scott Walter, DNR upland wildlife ecologist. "Some hunters may have had more difficulty in drawing a preferred tag in some zones."

Lumberjack Memorial Trails Snowmobile Club has new groomer

By Mike Monte

Some fellas from the Lumberjack Memorial Trails Snowmobile Club stopped by the office to show off the new groomer they were hauling back to their headquarters in Wabeno. The Arrowhead groomer, built in St. Germain, will be pulled by a new New Holland tractor bought in Coleman, Wisconsin.

This winter, which will hopefully be filled with snow, the new groomer and tractor will be keeping 94 miles of trails smooth and bump-free for you snowmobilers. And, yes, you are thinking it is too early to think snow, but it is coming whether you like it or not!

Good luck with the new equipment!

Although dried and canned apricots are available year round, fresh apricots with a plentiful supply of vitamin C and are in season in North America from May through August. Any fresh fruit you see during the winter months have been imported from either South America or New Zealand

Relatives to peaches, apricots are small, golden orange fruits, with velvety skin and flesh, not too juicy but definitely smooth and sweet. Some describe their flavor as almost musky, with a faint tartness that lies somewhere between a peach and a plum.

Protect Your Eyesight:

Your mother may have told you carrots would keep your eyes bright as a child, but as an adult, it looks like fruit is even more important for keeping your sight. Data reported in a study published in the Archives of Ophthalmology indicates that eating 3 or more servings of fruit per day may lower your risk of age-related macular degeneration (ARMD), the primary cause of vision loss in older adults, by 36%, compared to persons who consume less than 1.5 servings of fruit daily.

In this study, which involved over 100,000 women and men, researchers evaluated the effect of study participants' consumption of fruits; vegetables; the antioxidant vitamins A, C, and E; and carotenoids on the development of early ARMD or neovascular ARMD, a more severe form of the illness associated with vision loss. Food intake information was collected periodically for up to 18 years for women and 12 years for men.

While, surprisingly, intakes of vegetables, antioxidant vitamins and carotenoids were not strongly related to incidence of either form of ARMD, fruit intake was definitely protective against the severe form of this vision-destroying disease.

Three servings of fruit may sound like a lot to eat each day, but by simply tossing a banana into your morning smoothie or slicing it over your cereal, topping of a cup or yogurt or green salad with a half cup of berries, and snacking on an apricot, you've reached this goal!

How to Enjoy:

- A few quick serving ideas:
 - Add sliced apricots to hot or cold cereal.
 - The next time you make whole grain pancakes add some chopped apricots to the batter.
 - Give a Middle Eastern flavor to chicken or vegetable stews with the addition of dried, diced apricots.
 - Serve fresh apricots in your green salad when they are in season.

School supplies for Wabeno kids

Prospect Lodge and their patrons had a very successful August School Supply Drive! The Wabeno Elementary received many large boxes of most everything on the student supply list. Prospect Lodge organized the drive, collected the items, and then delivered those supplies to school in time for Open House.
 Students who were lacking items on their list were able to choose items ranging from pencil erasers to backpacks and complete their supply needs.

Around the Area

De Temps Antan

The Three Lakes School/Community Arts Association is proud to bring De Temps Antan to the Three Lakes High School auditorium on Thursday, October 3rd at 7:30pm.

Each of these men is an accomplished musician in his own right. Andre Brunet has toured more than 15 countries over the course of 10 years and won top honors at the Grand Masters Fiddling Competition (an event showcasing more than twenty violinists from across Canada). Pierre-Luc Dupuishes wowed audiences from Dublin to Porto and Budapest to Melbourne with his unique humour and warmhearted charisma. Finally, Eric Beaudry's passion for music helped foster an interest in song, which led to winning several awards and teaching traditional music at Joliette's CEGEP regional de Lanaudière.

Tickets are $20 per adult and children under 18 are admitted free. Tickets are available at the BMO/Harris Banks in Rhineland, Three Lakes and Eagle River or at the door the evening of the performance.

Wabeno Band Student Selected for Award and Scholarship

This summer, Wabeno Junior High Band percussionist Aidan Lowery attended the Summer Music Camp at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay. During the closing night of concert, Aidan, an incoming seventh grader, was announced as one of two "Outstanding Campers" in the 130-member X-Band. Aidan received the honor—and a full-tuition scholarship to attend the camp next year—in front of a packed Weidner Center in Green Bay. The director of his orchestra praised his musicianship, hard work and especially his willingness to help other students.

"I was really kind of surprised to get the award, because there were so many good musicians in X-Band," Aidan said. "Mrs. Boor had already taught me some of the things we covered in classes, so I helped Mr. Geerey show the other percussionists. I just worked hard all week and enjoyed my chance to play music. I guess they liked my attitude."

Making A Farce Of Wisconsin's Managed Forest Law

How many of us hunt on open Managed Forest Lands in Wisconsin? How many of us fish, hike, sight-see or cross-country ski on these lands? As of June 2013, our state had approximately 1.1 million acres of open managed forest lands - open to us all.

Yet in less than two weeks, our State Senate may be asked to vote on a bill that will deny us the privilege of accessing these open lands if the lands are within a proposed iron mining site. Senate Bill 278, authored by State Senator Tom Tiffany, will make a farce of a well-respected program that was created in 1985 to promote sound forestry practices and open more land to the public for recreation.

According to our current law, the purpose of the Managed Forest Land (MFL) program is to "encourage the management of private forest lands for the production of future forest crops for commercial use through sound forestry practices, recognizing the objectives of individual property owners, compatible recreational uses, watershed protection, development of wildlife habitat and accessibility of private property to the public for recreational purposes." Wis. Stats. s. 77.80.

Landowners with at least 10 contiguous acres, of which 80 percent or more is forested, can apply to have their property placed in the Managed Forest Lands (MFL) program. The advantage to the landowners is that they pay a substantially lower tax rate on their land per acre.

Landowners can choose to have their land closed or open to the public. If they choose to "close" their land, they cannot close more than 160 acres per municipality. Landowners who close their lands pay a higher tax rate than landowners who choose to have "open" lands.

"Open" lands require the landowner to permit public access for hunting, fishing, hiking, sight-seeing and cross-country skiing.

Under the Managed Forest Law, landowners commit to a 25 or 50 year sustainable forest management plan. Pursuant to the law, landowners can voluntarily withdraw from the program at any time prior to the expiration of the plan. At the time of withdrawal, the landowners are assessed a withdrawal tax and withdrawal fee.

The withdrawal tax is the higher of either the amount the landowner would have paid in taxes over the previous years the land was in the MFL program or five percent of the stumpage value of the merchantable timber on the land. The taxes paid already by the landowner, under either option, are subtracted from the higher amount. Wis. Stats. s. 77.88 (a).

Senator Tiffany authored SB 278 in order to promote the interests of one out-of-state mining company, Gogebic Taconite (GTAC), over the interests of the public. According to its Preapplication Notice to the DNR, dated June 17, 2013, GTAC's proposed mining site boundary along the Penokee Range encompasses 6,744 acres. These lands are owned by RGGGS Land & Minerals, LaPointe Iron Company, and Chester Co. Limited. These lands are in the MFL program and are designated "open."

Under the ruse of drafting legislation that will protect workers on the mine site from protestors, SB278 will allow GTAC to close to the public these legally mandated "open" lands.

Our government seems insistent on taking away privileges we share as citizens of Wisconsin by drafting new laws that benefit special interests. If GTAC is sincere about protecting its workers at the potential mine site, the solution is simple - voluntarily withdraw the lands from the MFL program. Then these private lands will be closed automatically to the public.

Of course the company landowners would be responsible for deferred taxes on the land withdrawn from the program. News sources indicate The Town of Anderson in Iron County could receive as much as $400,000, for example, if the land were withdrawn from the MFL program. And the landowners would have to begin paying regular property taxes.

Rather than follow Wisconsin law, however, GTAC once again has lobbied our legislators to change our laws to its favor and our detriment. The public will lose. The municipalities will lose. But GTAC will get what it wants - "open" MFL lands closed to the public while the landowner companies continue to reap the benefits of the lower tax rates.

If you hunt, fish, hike, sight-see or cross-country ski on open Managed Forest Lands, become informed. Then contact each of our State Senators and let them know your position on SB 278. Do it soon. Your privilege to access open managed forest lands is at stake.

COULD A PET AND LIVESTOCK FEED & SUPPLY STORE BECOME A REALITY IN FOREST COUNTY?

At the price of fuel, it certainly becomes more and more expensive for pet-friendly families and owners of hobby farms to take the trek outside the county to purchase supplies for their pets and livestock.

A local entrepreneur is considering locating such a business in Forest County. Such a business may also offer scheduling of veterinary services as well. If you own a pet or livestock, you are encouraged to attend an "INFORMATIONAL/EDUCATIONAL MEETING" on Monday, September 16, at 6:30pm at the Crandon Town Hall, 601 West Washington Street, Crandon, WI.

There will be a Guest Speaker, "Bob Sipiorski, A Purina Mills Dealer Development Specialist."

The local entrepreneurs are simply seeking your feedback right now and welcome suggestions you might have so that we can develop a supply store that meets the needs of the local community.

Please attend but if you cannot, please e-mail Amanda at gesiorskia@ripon.edu She will e-mail you a short survey for you to provide your feedback and suggestions.

Mother Nature returns for her annual fall foliage tour – and it'll be a stunner!

MADISON -- Mother Nature is back for her compelling annual fall color tour, starring one of the state's fiercest economic powerhouses – the tree. And the best part is the admission – free!

"This is one of the most popular science shows running -- from curtain up to standing ovation," said Carmen Hardin, a forest science specialist with the Department of Natural Resources.

While the annual fall color show is always a huge attraction for the thousands who flock to Wisconsin, and contribute to the state's strong tourism industry, Hardin says it is the state's forest industry that is the basis of the show.

"It's all orchestrated by Mother Nature using the state's 16 million acres of forests. When they're not turning colors for all to 'ooh and aah' about, the trees help contribute $2.6 billion annually in forest industry wages," Hardin said.

New fall color social media events

But the color show doesn't stop with the forest line. This year, the DNR Facebook page will host a fall color photo contest and the DNR Twitter account will issue periodic messages about where tree colors can be found along with some science facts on. People can look for the rules of the photo contest, Wisconsin's Color Contest, on the DNR Facebook page and the DNR Twitter messages to start around September 12.

"We'll help you find the best color – and you can share your finds with everyone on the DNR Facebook page," said Trish Ossmann, DNR social media coordinator.

What about that science: When do trees turn and why?

In late summer, broadleaved trees respond to lengthening nights and cooling temperatures by reducing levels of a green pigment known as chlorophyll that is used in photosynthesis -- the production of sugars in the leaves. When the trees reduce their green pigment, the oranges and yellows in the leaves come through.

Red and purple fall colors have a different origin, and are due to anthocyanin pigments that are actively produced in late summer at the same time as the green chlorophyll deteriorates.

The brightest red and purple colors appear when autumn days are bright and nights are chilly but not freezing. These are the conditions which increase production of the red and purple pigments. Orange and yellow colors tend to be fairly constant from year to year because the orange and yellow pigments are always present in the leaves.

But some people reported they were seeing trees turning color early and dropping their leaves in August.

DNR Forest Health Specialist Bill McNee says this was due to last year's drought and the dry summer some areas of the state experienced again this year.

"Trees without enough water started to shut down early to reduce further water losses. This meant they went through the color change earlier than they normally would," McNee says.

Trees are starting to turn in the northern areas and it will take about a month or so for the color to spread south. Roughly speaking, you can look for the color season to run from about September 10 to October 10.

The DNR's EEK! – Environmental Education for Kids! website has more information on fall tree color. A state with a view

"People often ask us where to go to see the best colors," Hardin said. "The answer is anywhere in the state. It's all a matter of keeping track where the color is traveling."

Hardin says Wisconsin's State Forests – Black River, Brule, Flambeau, Governor Knowles, Havenwoods, Northern Highland-American Legion, Point Beach, Peshtigo River and Kettle Moraine's six units -- are great for viewing.

State parks and natural areas also offer great viewing. In fact, Wisconsin state parks, forests, recreation areas, trails, and wildlife areas provide more than 2,730 miles of hiking trails. To learn more about these areas search the DNR website for "public lands." The Ice Age National Scenic Trail, with about 600 of an eventual 1,000 miles completed, and about 75 miles of the North Country National Scenic Trail are in Wisconsin.

People can also track the color changes and plan sight-seeing trips by following DNR tweets or by visiting the Wisconsin Department of Tourism website's fall color report (both links extit DNR).

"Remember when you head out to also take your camera," adds Ossmann, the agency's social media coordinator. "You can enter the DNR Facebook Wisconsin's Color Contest! You also can enter a great photo from past Wisconsin falls, too."

Grouse and turkey hunters must wear blaze orange clothing during any gun or muzzleloader deer season. A hat, if worn, must be at least 50 percent blaze orange.

Grouse hunters encouraged to "Be HIP!" certified if they also plan to pursue woodcock, mourning doves or other migratory game birds

Upland hunters that may harvest woodcock are subject to the federal requirement to be registered with the Harvest Information Program (HIP) before hunting these and other migratory game birds. Registration is free and is available through all license vendors as well as online; hunters will only need to answer a few short questions.

Child Passenger Safety Week, September 15 to 21

WisDOT video shows how to use child safety seats properly

Motor vehicle crashes are a leading cause of death for children ages 1 to 13, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA).

During national Child Passenger Safety Week from September 15 to 21, the Wisconsin Department of Transportation (WisDOT) and the State Patrol will remind parents, grandparents and caregivers that consistent and proper use of child safety restraints in vehicles can be a matter of life or death.

Congratulations Wabeno Elementary Students

The staff at Wabeno Elementary would like to commend its students on achieving the PBIS School of Distinction honor from the Wisconsin RTI Center. The school was notified this summer of the award and the staff was honored at the state-wide PBIS conference this summer. Wabeno Elementary has been implementing PBIS for the past three years. During that time they were also recognized as a School of Merit.

PBIS stands for Positive Behavioral Interventions and Supports. Schools across Wisconsin have created a more positive environment for students and staff by establishing clear expectations for their students and taking active steps in teaching, modeling and reinforcing appropriate behaviors school wide.

A Whisper of Appreciation

"I Would Highly Recommend This Excellent Facility"

In addition, the State Patrol will begin delivery of child safety seats to approximately 25 hospitals, clinics and child passenger safety technicians for distribution to eligible low-income expectant mothers and families. The 500 infant safety seats and 400 booster seats for statewide distribution were purchased with federal funding.

"The best way to protect children in vehicles is to put them in the right seat, at the right time, and use it the right way," says David Pabst, director of the WisDOT Bureau of Transportation Safety.

To help determine the proper safety seat (based on a child's age and size) and how to use it, WisDOT offers an instructional video available on its Zero In Wisconsin program web site at www.zeroinwisconsin.gov/ChildSafetySeats/.

"For many parents, grandparents and caregivers, the installation and proper use of child safety seats can be confusing. And the types and placement of child safety seats change as your child grows. The Zero In Wisconsin video on 'How to Properly Use Child Safety Seats in Wisconsin' provides easy-to-follow and comprehensive instructions so you can protect your child in your vehicle. This video also will be a great child safety seat reference resource as your child grows," Pabst says. Turkey & Grouse Cont. from pg. 1

Prospects are good for both the fall wild turkey hunt and for the ruffed grouse season in zone A, both of which open with the start of shooting hours on Saturday, Sept. 14. The fall turkey season runs through Nov. 21 statewide. The extended fall season runs Dec. 2-31 in turkey zones 1-5, which cover the lower two thirds of the state.

As during the past two seasons, hunters may use dogs statewide to hunt wild turkey this fall.

The grouse season in zone A runs through Jan. 31, 2014. Hunters interested in pursuing grouse in southeastern Wisconsin, in zone B, have a short season that opens a month later on Oct. 19 and runs through Dec. 8.

Overall, Wisconsin's statewide wild turkey population remains strong.

After 30 years of sustained population growth and expansion across the state, wild turkeys are now found statewide, and overall their numbers remain strong this year. Local populations fluctuate as weather affects survival and reproduction rates.

"Of course we had a late winter and cold wet spring," Walter said, "and this probably led to relatively low production. There were many field observations of late broods; even into August we had people reporting quail-sized turkey poults. This is very small for this time of year."

This is an indication that first nests failed, prompting hens to start a second nest later in the spring, according to Walter. Even with a late start, these young birds grow very quickly, he adds, and as long as they are able to find sufficient food, they should be fine going into the winter, which is still a couple of months away.

"The flip side of the weather coin is that 2012 was a fantastic production year," Walter said. "This should mean more adult gobblers are available to hunters."

Biologists closely monitor harvest during the either-sex fall season, as excessive hen harvest can affect turkey populations. Recent hen harvests in Wisconsin have been very low, however, and hunters can enter the woods comfortable with the knowledge that current hen harvest rates do not play a significant role in the dynamics of Wisconsin's turkey flock.

Turkey hunters are subject to the blaze orange requirement for ground blinds erected on DNR lands during any gun deer season. Ground blinds on DNR lands left unattended during legal hunting hours must also have the owner's name and address or DNR Customer ID Number attached near the door opening. Ground blinds may not be left out overnight and must be removed entirely from the property at the close of hunting hours each day.

These ground blind rules do not apply to ground blinds being used for hunting waterfowl or to blinds built only out of natural vegetation found on the DNR property, except that all waterfowl blinds situated on state-owned property and used in hunting waterfowl must always bear the name of the owner affixed permanently to the blind in lettering one-inch square or larger, even when a person is using the blind.

to school before they arrived they certainly were after the rally. The district's Cardinal mascot was out in full force, parading around in the beautiful school colors as he careened up and down the gym floor, stopping to meet and greet the students as they arrived to take part in the morning's festivities.

The band played the school song as well as many other toe tapping, hand clapping tunes which helped pump up the Cardinal Pride excitement. Other activities included a pseudo kick-off with footballs and goal posts and the administrative team was introduced to the students. The main event was the celebration of student achievement from the 2012-2013 school year. Students with perfect or outstanding attendance from fourth quarter of 2013 were also commended by their principals, superintendent and teachers for their great success at improving their attendance.

It appears that the 2013-14 kick off was a tremendous success due to the Cardinal Pride team, the administration, teachers, support staff and of course the students!

Deer Survey

Wildlife officials ask that hunters record all of their hunting activity throughout the deer season, even if no wildlife sightings were made during a hunt. The survey period ends January 2014. These observations have provided the DNR with an index to abundance for many wildlife species.

Many other states in the Midwest and around the country use these types of surveys to gather hunter input into deer and other wildlife abundance.

This is the fifth year of the survey and deer hunters are asked to report their field observations of a variety of wildlife species, hunting conditions and hours spent pursuing game. This year 17,000 deer hunters were selected at random and sent a letter inviting them to participate in Deer Hunter Wildlife Survey. However, if you were not one of the hunters selected to participate we still encourage your participation to help provide insight into Wisconsin's deer herd.

"Whether you hunt opening weekend or all season long, this extra monitoring of our state's wildlife provides us with thousands of observations," Watson said.

The Deer Hunter Wildlife Survey overlaps another citizen-participation survey. Operation Deer Watch started Aug. 1 and runs through Sept. 30. The primary objective of Operation Deer Watch is to determine trends in deer reproductive success by reporting does and fawns seen together during the late summer and early fall.

Trail Camera Photos Wanted

The wildlife surveys program is also interested in photographs of rare or endangered species hunters may have captured on their trail cameras. Photos can be emailed to DNR Wildlife Management. This information will help document their existence and location within the state. Trail camera photos can be viewed the DNR online trail camera gallery.

Questions about the Wisconsin Deer Hunter Wildlife Survey, accessing the tally sheet, reporting your observation, or the results of the survey, can be referred to Jay Watson at 608-221-6360.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY!

STILL A FASHION TREND SETTER AFTER ALL THESE YEARS!

HELLO EVERYONE!

Special thanks to these two ladies, Jean and Rita, and to all of you who have made for a wonderful time and life at the Crandon Vision Center. From Wisconsin Ernie to Little Eddy I have met thousands of wonderful and entertaining characters in the almost 32 years of practicing Optometry in beautiful downtown Crandon. You have shared many stories and laughs with me that I'm sure I will remember when all else fails me, 30 years from now, as I await my next adventure at the nursing home.

So, as most of you are aware, I am going to put a little less time at the office and spend a little more time enjoying my life. I will no longer have an office in Crandon and will now be solely in Antigo. I know this will create some problems for many and I apologize for this. My best wishes for health and happiness to all of you. I look forward to seeing you around and at the Antigo Eyecare Center.

Bill Becker, O.D.

13 Reasons Tea Is Good For You

Put down those saucer cups and get chugging - tea is officially awesome for your health. But before loading up on Red Zinger, make sure that your "tea" is actually tea. Real tea is delivered from a particular plant (Camellia sinensis) and includes only four varieties: green, black, white and oolong. Anything else (like herbal "tea") is an infusion of a different plant and isn't technically tea.

But what real tea lacks in variety, it makes up for with some serious health benefits. Researchers attribute tea's health properties to polyphenols (a type of antioxidant) and phytochemicals. Though most studies have focused on the better-known green and black teas, white and oolong also bring benefits to the table. Read on to find out why coffee's little cousin rocks your health.

- 1.) Tea can boost exercise endurance. Scientists have found that the catechins (antioxidants) in green tea extract increase the body's ability to burn fat as fuel, which accounts for improved muscle endurance.
- 2.) Drinking tea could help reduce the risk of heart attack. Tea might also help protect against cardiovascular and degenerative diseases.
- 3.) The antioxidants in tea might help protect against a boatload of cancers, including breast, colon, colorectal, skin, lung, esophagus, stomach, small intestine, pancreas, liver, ovarian, prostate and oral cancers. But don't rely solely on tea to keep a healthy body - tea is not a miracle cure, after all. While more studies than not suggest that tea has cancer-fighting benefits, the current research is mixed.
- 4.) Tea helps fight free radicals. Tea is high in oxygen radical absorbance capacity ("ORAC" to its friends), which is a fancy way of saying that it helps destroy free radicals (which can damage DNA) in the body. While our bodies are designed to fight free radicals on their own, they're not 100 percent effective - and since damage from these radical oxygen ninjas has been linked to cancer, heart disease and neurological degeneration, we'll take all the help we can get.
- 5.) Tea is hydrating to the body (even despite the caffeine!).
- 6.) Drinking tea is linked with a lower risk of Parkinson's disease. When considered with other factors like smoking, physical activity, age, and body mass index, regular tea drinking was associated with a lowered risk of Parkinson's disease in both men and women.
- 7.) Tea might provide protection from ultraviolet rays. We know it's important to limit exposure to UV rays, and we all know what it's like to feel the burn. The good news is that green tea may act as a back-up sunscreen.
- 8.) Tea could keep waist circumference in check. In one study, participants who regularly consumed hot tea had lower waist circumference and lower BMI than non-consuming participants. Scientists speculate that regular tea drinking lowers the risk of metabolic syndrome (which increases the risk of diabetes, artery disease and stroke), although it's important to remember that correlation does not equal causation.
- 9.) Regular tea drinking might also counteract some of the negative effects of smoking and might even lessen the risk of lung cancer (good news, obviously, but not a justification for cigs).
- 10.) Tea could be beneficial to people with Type 2 diabetes. Studies suggest that compounds in green tea could help diabetes better process sugars.
- 11.) Tea can help the body recover from radiation. One study found that tea helped protect against cellular degeneration upon exposure to radiation, while another found that tea can help skin bounce back postexposure.
- 12.) Green tea has been found to improve bone mineral density and strength.
- 13.) Tea might be an effective agent in the prevention and treatment of neurological diseases, especially degenerative diseases (think Alzheimer's). While many factors influence brain health, polyphenols in green tea may help maintain the parts of the brain that regulate learning and memory.

Though most research on tea is highly positive, it's not all definitive - so keep these caveats in mind before stocking up on gallons of the stuff:

- 1.) Keep it cool. Repeatedly drinking hot beverages may boost the risk of esophageal cancer. Give tea several minutes to cool off before sipping.
 - 2.) The studies seem convincing, but a rat does not a human make. Chemicals in tea may react differently in the lab than they do in the human body. Tannins (and other good stuff in green tea) may not be bioavailable for humans, meaning tea might not always benefit human health to the same degree as in lab studies suggest.
 - 3.) All tea drinks are not created equal. The body's access to the good stuff in tea might be determined by the tea variety, canning and processing, and the way it was brewed.
- The takeaway: at the very least, tea should be safe to consume - just not in excessive amounts. So brew up a batch of the good stuff - hot or cold - and enjoy!

STROKE STOPPED

THE REVOLUTIONARY TELESTROKE SYSTEM GOT BILL ROESLER BACK ON HIS FEET AND BACK TO HIS PONTOON BOAT.

Through the telestroke system, my doctor was able to video conference with a neurologist in Marshfield. Based on his assessment, I was given life-saving stroke medication and recovered fully in just a few days. Now I'm back on my boat with my sea legs as solid as ever.

Town of Lincoln receives new American Flag

The Forest County Potawatomi recently donated a beautiful new flag and pole to the Town of Lincoln. The flag pole was delivered, installed and a brass plaque was attached to commemorate the dedication. The town recently opened their new town hall and garage and the old flag pole was taken down for construction.
