Wabeno Area District Receives $13,774 for Energy Upgrades

Wisconsin Public Service (WPS) along with Focus on Energy, Wisconsin's statewide program for energy efficiency and renewable energy, presented the School District of the Wabeno Area a check for $13,774.80 after instituting several energy savings measures.

The School District of the Wabeno Area has been working with WPS and Focus on Energy for the past several months to install variable speed drives on their hot water heating systems and to upgrade parking lot and auditorium lighting at the high school.

"I'm impressed with how the school district is committed to making energy saving upgrades," said Mark Hannon, WPS Account Executive. "For several years now, they have partnered with WPS and Focus on Energy to determine what product is right for their needs, as well as find incentive opportunities, like the multiple project bonus program that WPS offers its commercial customers."

"The District's Building and Grounds Supervisor Laurie Pries has been working with WPS and Focus on Energy for several years on other lighting and boiler projects. The Focus on Energy incentives, combined with projected energy savings make these upgrades a smart investment for the district," said Kim Odekirk, District Administrator.

Focus on Energy's purpose is to help businesses and residents across the state identify and evaluate energy-saving opportunities, provide specific recommendations, develop energy management plans, and arrange technical training opportunities about energy conservation. For more information, call 800-762-7077 or visit www.focusonenergy.com

Crandon Police Department participates in Homecoming rituals

This is what happens when the Crandon Police Department is cruising around looking for high school kids doing the annual rites of Homecoming; 'decorating' the town with toilet paper. We are sure Chief Packard will have this cleaned up in no time flat, but in the meantime, your home might have been saved from the dreaded TP rituals! Actually, the cleanup will likely take place after the rites of Homecoming have passed.

Jamie's Second Chance Bikes

Jamie and his brother Jesse pose with some of the refurbished bikes
By Boyd Monte

Eleven year old Jamie Sears told his father that he wanted to learn how to fix a bicycle this summer. His father, also named Jamie, found some bicycles that were well past their prime and started to teach his son some basics of bicycle repair.

The father also called Police Chief Dan Packard to see if the department had any unclaimed bicycles, Chief Packard had many bikes, all needing a little work. Chief Packard suggested that when Jamie was finished refurbishing the bicycles, if he could help out children that could not afford a brand new bicycle. Jamie agreed and Jamie's Second Chance Bikes was started.

Over the rest of the Summer, Jamie learned how to fix, handlebars, frames, chains, seats, cranks, pedals, derailleurs, tubes and tires. Jamie also took parts from bikes that were to far gone and put them on bikes that needed the part.

Jamie asks for a small donation for the refurbished bicycles, but will help those who need the help. The money goes to buy parts for other bicycles. He will also take donations of bicycles to fix and use for parts. He works on all sizes of bicycles and is happy to see the bicycles go to a new home and that they are treated with care.

Jamie is happy that he is learning a great skill and that his family is helping him. If you would like to donate a bike not being used you can call 715-784-6024. Please leave your name and message and they will get back to you.

Wind" from Disney's Pocahontas. As a painter, his work has been featured in the Smithsonian's National Museum of the American Indian, the Trickster Gallery in Chicago, the Barbara Able Gallery in Santa Fe, and the American Indian Community House Gallery in New York. Miller is also a highly sought after public speaker who has been asked to address executives at AIG, MTV, FDIC and the Environmental Protection Agency.

Taking his own personal observations and experiences and creating art that is universal in its ability to strike people in the heart--that has long been Bill Miller's gift. Whether the medium is painting, music or the spoken word, Miller is a communicator. It's his heritage and his future, intimately intertwined, and rarely has someone used that gift more passionately or effectively than this Native son.

Also performing at the concert will be the FLPPC Praise Band and the Ecumenical Puppet Choir. The puppets had to change their name because they're not all Presbyterian anymore!

Please join us for an afternoon of spiritually enriching music and fun. Refreshments will be served by the Awesome Christian Youth during intermission. A Love Offering will be received.

This event is sponsored by Wabeno Lions Club, Weber-Hill Funeral Home, Crystal Bell Bed & Breakfast Inn, Laona State Bank, Nicolet Pharmacy, Peterson Trucking and Select and Better Hardwoods, Nu-Roc Community Healthcare, and Big Easel Gallery & Bistro.

Seventy-nine veterans from all parts of the state participated including Bernie Miller, Bud Kuhrasch, Dan Buschatz, Art Winkelman, Bob Baltus and Don Bartels who served our country during World War II. Many participants who had not seen their comrades for many years made the day special. A highlight of the day was when veteran Tom Berghaus made a hole-in-one on hole 18 and treated everyone to free beer!

The tournament is held as an early Veteran's Day event. The tourney was sponsored through the generosity of the Wabeno American Legion, the Laona VFW, the Wabeno Lions Club, Mick Gifford, Ken Winkelman Insurance, Potawatomi Casino in Carter, Nicolet Country Club, T-Bob's Sports Bar Laona, Lakewood Supervalu and Backhaus Sportsman's Retreat in Wabeno.

What Are The Federal Poverty Levels For 2013?

When applying for many public benefits, often eligibility is based on income and sometimes on assets. The income guidelines follow certain federal poverty levels (FPL) depending on the particular program you apply for. Here is a table of federal poverty levels for 2013. Take a look at these and compare what your monthly income is. Keep in mind that all sources of income will be included when applying for benefits, regardless if the income is taxable or not. Income reported must be the gross amounts, (before any deductions are withheld).

	100% FPL	120% FPL	135% FPL	150% FPL	160% FPL	200% FPL
Individual	$958/mo	$1,149/mo	$1,293/mo	$1,436/mo	$1,532/mo	$1,862/mo
Couple	$1,293/mo	$1,551/mo	$1,745/mo	$1,939/mo	$2,068/mo	$2,522/mo

For an example: There is a program available for those on Medicare to get their Part B premiums paid for. There are 3 different levels of the Medicare Savings Program and each level specifies a different federal poverty level for eligibility. The qualified Medicare Beneficiary (QMB) level uses the 100% FPL as the income guideline. The other two levels would include persons in the 120% and 135% FPL's.

When applying for the Medicare Part D Extra Help, income eligibility is based on the 150% FPL or less. There again are 4 different levels based on the different levels of FPL that would determine what percentage of the Extra Help Subsidy you would receive. Sounds pretty complicated but we receive up-to-date and tables that give us excellent resources when counseling individuals on the various programs.

The SeniorCare program begins at the 160% FPL and has 4 levels up to 240% FPL. Actually this program is very unique in the fact that there really is no income limit, but depending on the cost of your prescriptions in comparison with your income, you may not use the program. However, it is creditable coverage, you don't have to enroll in a Part D plan for your prescriptions, and your cost is only $30 per year if you are not taking any prescriptions. It saves you from a penalty!

Food Share is based on the $200% FPL or less. The Wisconsin Home Energy Assistance Program (WHEAP) accepts applicants who are at or below 60% of the State Median Income Level and not a federal poverty level. The Homestead Tax credit program has an annual income limit of $24,680 for 2012. Your refund is calculated by comparing tables with income and the amount of property tax or rent paid.

These are all beneficial programs to consider when economic and financial stress occurs on household budgets. The Benefit Specialists in the Aging and Disability Resource Centers of Central Wisconsin are available for private consultation by appointment to provide you with assistance. Kathy Schultz, Elder Benefit Specialist - Aging & Disability Resource Center of Central Wisconsin.

We are also excited to share with the patrons a new addition to the library. Recently a display case was purchased and will provide unique information and/or artifacts of interest to the public. Our first display will be ready the first week of October and will feature artifacts and information about the school fire that happened in 1985. The display case is completely enclosed, so items will be protected. Also, we are looking for more items, pictures, stories and so forth to put with the school fire display. You can also drop off pictures and/or items at the library, but please make sure your name and phone number are attached to them somehow so we can make sure they get returned to you.

The display will change every month and we look forward to community input as to other ideas to display. If you have something of interest that you think you would like to display, please contact Ruby Westmayer at 715-674-2008.

State Patrol warns of phone scam

Caller asks for money to pay for repairs after traffic crash

Wisconsin State Patrol officials are warning about a phone scam in which a caller identifies himself as a sergeant from the State Patrol Green Bay office and asks for money to resolve a car crash involving a relative of the person called.

The State Patrol has received information that people on at least two occasions were called by a man who identified himself as "Sergeant Walker of the State Patrol office in Green Bay." The fake sergeant asked for $900 to pay for damages caused by the person's child or grandchild in a crash. The fake sergeant said the money, which needed to be wired immediately, would fix the damages so the other driver would not press charges.

"The phone message is a scam, and the State Patrol under no circumstances would contact anyone with such a request for money," says Maj. Brian Rahn, director of the Bureau of Field Operations. "If you receive a scam phone call like this, please notify the State Patrol Northeast Region—Fond du Lac Post at (920) 929-3700."

The State Patrol has investigated the calls, and the scam likely originated in Montreal, Canada.

More information about this type of scam is available online from the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade & Consumer Protection at <http://datcp.wi.gov/uploads/Consumer/pdf/SeniorsGrandparentsScam464.pdf>.

What Are The Federal Poverty Levels For 2013?

When applying for many public benefits, often eligibility is based on income and sometimes on assets. The income guidelines follow certain federal poverty levels (FPL) depending on the particular program you apply for. Here is a table of federal poverty levels for 2013. Take a look at these and compare what your monthly income is. Keep in mind that all sources of income will be included when applying for benefits, regardless if the income is taxable or not. Income reported must be the gross amounts, (before any deductions are withheld).

	100% FPL	120% FPL	135% FPL	150% FPL	160% FPL	200% FPL
Individual	$958/mo	$1,149/mo	$1,293/mo	$1,436/mo	$1,532/mo	$1,862/mo
Couple	$1,293/mo	$1,551/mo	$1,745/mo	$1,939/mo	$2,068/mo	$2,522/mo

For an example: There is a program available for those on Medicare to get their Part B premiums paid for. There are 3 different levels of the Medicare Savings Program and each level specifies a different federal poverty level for eligibility. The qualified Medicare Beneficiary (QMB) level uses the 100% FPL as the income guideline. The other two levels would include persons in the 120% and 135% FPL's.

When applying for the Medicare Part D Extra Help, income eligibility is based on the 150% FPL or less. There again are 4 different levels based on the different levels of FPL that would determine what percentage of the Extra Help Subsidy you would receive. Sounds pretty complicated but we receive up-to-date and tables that give us excellent resources when counseling individuals on the various programs.

The SeniorCare program begins at the 160% FPL and has 4 levels up to 240% FPL. Actually this program is very unique in the fact that there really is no income limit, but depending on the cost of your prescriptions in comparison with your income, you may not use the program. However, it is creditable coverage, you don't have to enroll in a Part D plan for your prescriptions, and your cost is only $30 per year if you are not taking any prescriptions. It saves you from a penalty!

Food Share is based on the $200% FPL or less. The Wisconsin Home Energy Assistance Program (WHEAP) accepts applicants who are at or below 60% of the State Median Income Level and not a federal poverty level. The Homestead Tax credit program has an annual income limit of $24,680 for 2012. Your refund is calculated by comparing tables with income and the amount of property tax or rent paid.

These are all beneficial programs to consider when economic and financial stress occurs on household budgets. The Benefit Specialists in the Aging and Disability Resource Centers of Central Wisconsin are available for private consultation by appointment to provide you with assistance. Kathy Schultz, Elder Benefit Specialist - Aging & Disability Resource Center of Central Wisconsin.

Awards given for economic development in Forest County

[Crandon] – Chuck Brys, Business Counselor for the UWGB Small Business Development Center, Steven Nelson, Community Development Educator for UW-Extension, are recipients of the 2013 Award for Excellence in Community Engagement and Jim Schuessler, executive director for Forest County Economic Development Partnership (FCEDP) is the recipient of the Friend and Advocate Award from the University of Wisconsin Colleges and University of Wisconsin-Extension.

UW Colleges and UW-Extension Chancellor Ray Cross presented the awards at the institutions' Chancellor's Awards Reception, September 12, in Madison. The annual Chancellor's Awards recognize UW Colleges and UW-Extension partners, supporters and employees for their outstanding contributions to the quality of life in Wisconsin.

In giving the awards, Cross praised Nelson for "leadership [that helped] bring together a rare combination of tribal leadership; town, city, county, state and national resources; education at local and state levels; local libraries and the county health department; chambers of commerce; and various business sectors." He went on to acknowledge Brys for "critical business counseling services to those starting and growing businesses." Cross then cited accomplishments from the past year—"The 2012 result of their groundwork, along with the Partnership led by Jim, includes more than 135 jobs created just in the manufacturing sector alone, totaling a payroll well over $5 million. Nearly $7 million in capital was raised in these projects in Forest County."

Forest County Board Chairman Paul Millan attended the event. Chancellor Cross made reference to Millan's sentiments noting "[Paul Millan] credits the three of you for your skills and teamwork leading to 'incredible' results in the first two years of the partnership."

For the September 12 event, the Wisconsin Legislature also presented a citation congratulating the 41 employees and four partners receiving awards, commending "their commitment to Wisconsin by providing valuable services that keep its citizens thriving and our great state moving forward."

Chuck Brys, a graduate of UW-Whitewater, has over thirty five years of management experience, virtually all in manufacturing environments including process manufacturing, design and build, machining, and fabrication in both job shop and product line environments. A CPA, he has strong financial background but also considerable experience in all organizational disciplines including sales management, marketing, operations, and product development. In accepting the award, Brys stated "It is most gratifying to be a resource that professionals like Steve from UW Extension and Jim from Forest County Economic Development Partnership can use to positively impact their communities. The work that has been done over the past few years in Forest County serves as a model to what can be accomplished by individuals that truly care about the sustainability of their communities and are willing to work to secure the future.

The UW – Green Bay Small Business Development Center is very proud to have played a role in helping them make progress toward that mission."

Steven Nelson holds a bachelor's degree from Michigan State University and a Master's degree in Public Administrative Services from Northern Michigan University. He is a retired Associate Program Leader at Michigan State University Extension and has over 25 years of community development experience. After his retirement from Michigan State University in 2009 Steve joined the University of Wisconsin Extension to follow his passion for synthesizing local knowledge and aspirations with University based research, knowledge and applications. In accepting the award, Nelson credits the many leaders in Forest County for their vision for change and their realization that in the end they are the ones that need to roll up their sleeves and do the work to build communities that are great places to live, work and raise families." "It is rewarding to be able to tell their story so that others can learn how they found their way in fulfilling their expectations and aspirations."

Jim Schuessler, a graduate of UW-Platteville with a double major in Television Advertising/Management and Television Production and a minor in Business Administration, retired from a successful television career in 2003 after successfully overseeing the sale of the television group. He has over 30 years of entrepreneurial experience and joined FCEDP in 2011 as a way to give back after a successful business career in his own right. In accepting the award, Schuessler cited "the hard work of individuals and organizations that went through the difficult steps to build a strong economic development organization from the ground up. These stakeholders were not willing to just accept things in Forest County as they were; upon the foundation of their hard work success is being achieved." He also acknowledged Brys and Nelson, "both of whom have been 'invaluable' to the process of Forest County economic development excellence."

UW Colleges is the third largest institution of the UW System and includes 13 campuses and UW Colleges Online. UW-Extension, which receives the third largest amount of federal grants in the UW System, serves Wisconsin families, businesses and communities
