Crandon gets some BIG new jumps!

Things just got a bit more interesting for the upcoming short course World Championships at Crandon International Off-Road Raceway. Veteran track builder Cliff Flannery had the dozer out this week, putting the blade to the rich northern Wisconsin clay loam and crafting several new jumps into the legendary Crandon track all under the watchful eye of TORC's Menzies Race Team and defending PRO 2WD champ Bryce Menzies (Red Bull/Ram/Mopar/KMC Wheels).

"We're still tweaking the jumps a bit from the way I first envisioned them, but the Menzies Team has been here to give their input and I think we'll come away with some pretty neat features that the fans and drivers will enjoy," said Flannery.

The most noticeable feature will be the new Skybox Jump sending racers 100-150 feet through the air down the 80-90 mph straight-away right in front of Crandon's VIP seating section on the east side of the track. According to Flannery the drop-off tabletop-style jump was requested in the past by TORC PRO 4x4 drivers Johnny Greaves (Monster Energy/Toyota/Maxxis) and Ricky Johnson (Red Bull/Ram/Mopar/KMC Wheels) as a way to ratchet up the excitement even more on the fastest portion of Crandon's track.

"You're pretty much wide open there, flying all the way down to flat," said Menzies, the test driver for Crandon on the new Skybox Jump. "It's going to be pretty insane when you get three trucks side-by-side hitting it at speed. But it all adds to the show for the fans and will play a huge role racing." Menzies went on to say that drivers are going to have to finish their turns sooner on the top of the hill leading into the Skybox Jump. "You're normally still sliding (sideways) in the area where the new take-off is for the Skybox Jump. And if you do that now it could be disastrous."

Added Flannery on the Skybox Jump: This is going to prove to be interesting. Spectators will be counting the blocks (the eight-foot long blue concrete blocks that line that portion of the track) to see how far the trucks are flying."

Also new for Crandon's Labor Day Weekend is the redesign of the finish line jump below the Red Bull arch. The tabletop area of the jump has been extended back to the north some 100 feet, which means the trucks will be landing in the area where they used to take off from giving spectators on the hill and in the grandstands a better view of the airtime. Busy on the dozer, Flannery also put a new jump in the area by the timing stand, while also removing the pond in the center of the track and replacing it with a rock wall.

Humane Society desperately needs your help

For nearly 17 years the Forest County Humane Society has provided safety and protection to the abused and neglected animals of the county through the Forest County Humane Society/Animal Shelter. The Humane Society is a non-profit organization which relies totally on the goodwill of the citizens of Forest County in the providing of donations and time to assist this very worthwhile effort.

Nearly every year the Humane Society finds it necessary to plead to the citizens of Forest County for help. This year is no different. The leadership staff of the Humane Society needs your help to continue operating the Animal Shelter. We are desperately in need of donations and volunteers to help take care of the animals. Without the support of the public, we may have to close this very worthwhile facility. None of us wants to see the shelter closed, so if you are concerned about the future of the Forest County Animal Shelter we encourage all citizens to attend a general membership meeting of the Society at 6:30 pm on the 20th of August, 2012 in the Crandon City Hall.

Please don't let this valuable service close.

"It's Daylight in the Swamps!" A Musical Tribute to the Lumberjack

The Forest County Historical Society is excited to welcome Michigan based filmmaker/historian Bill Jamerson to Crandon on Wednesday, August 15th at 6:30 p.m. With guitar in hand, Jamerson sings traditional lumberjack songs, tells stories and tale tales about life in the lumber camps. He takes his audience on a musical journey with songs about working in the woods, living in a bunkhouse, the hardships of river drives, the importance of camp food, and going into town in spring. This hour-long, outdoor program will be held on the front lawn of the Forest County Historical Society museum. Participants should bring their own lawn chairs or blankets.

Jamerson's programs contain stories of strength, wit, and charm - they are as entertaining as they are informative, as honest as they are fun. His programs are appropriate for people of all ages.

To find out more about his performance please phone 478-3784 or visit Bill's website at billjamerson.com.

NOTE: In case of inclement weather the program will be moved to the lower level of the Crandon Public Library.

Brass takes Jake Mullins Memorial Race

It was an emotional night for Argonne's Todd Brass Saturday at Three Lakes TNT Speedway. Brass took home over $950 in cash and prizes as the winner of the third annual Jake Mullins Memorial WISSOTA AMSOIL Dirt Track Series Street Stock special, but the significance of the victory meant so much more.

Brass was close friends with Mullins, also of Argonne, a well-liked racer at TNT Speedway who died in a passenger automobile accident in August 2010. "I almost starting crying," Brass said of his emotions after taking the checkered flag in the 25-lap feature. "I wanted to win it for Jake and his family. If (Jake's brother) Jeff (Mullins) couldn't win it, I wanted to. Our families are so close, you know. I miss the little guy, as we all do."

The victory was even more poignant for Brass, who had his own brush with death earlier this year, surviving a passenger auto accident in Sugar Camp that led to an extended hospital stay.

Brass was the class of the field, in just his second start at TNT Speedway since the accident, leading the final 20 laps. He passed Jordan Kurtti of Bruce Crossing, Mich. on lap six and opened up a full straightaway lead on Tigerton's Gary Kasperek and Sugar Camp's Ben Pitlik by the time the race's second and final caution flag flew on lap 19. Brass felt the heat over the final six-lap dash, but slowly edged away from Kasperek and Pitlik, who finished second and third. "I knew Kasperek was there. I knew Pitlik was there. I just ran my own line," Brass said.

After doing donuts on the front stretch, Brass got out of his car and climbed on top of it, to the delight of the packed house. But Brass was more reflective than jubilant after the race. He recalled how often he thought about Mullins while lying in the hospital bed earlier this year. "A lot actually, because that could have been me too," he said. "I was very fortunate, to be out here three months after crushing three vertebrae. You know, it's very emotional."

Watch for blue-green algae before jumping in the water

Public health officials are reminding families and pet owners to watch for blue-green algae in area lakes this summer. Blue - green algae are not new to our area, but with the warmer temperatures this year is being seen much earlier than usual. "It's great to have fun in Wisconsin waters, but swimming in or swallowing water with high levels of blue-green algae can make you sick," said Jill Krueger, Forest County Health Officer. "People and pets should avoid drinking or swimming in bodies of water with high levels of blue-green algae." "You should also avoid high speed boating through the waters because high speeds cause water spray which could be inhaled or cause eye irritation."

Blue-green algae may bloom in lakes, rivers and ponds, and some blue-green algae produce toxins. Exposure to these algae can cause illness in people and has caused death in animals. Individuals can protect themselves, their family, and their pets by avoiding contact with water containing visible amounts of blue-green algae. Algal blooms can form a thick, foul-smelling scum on the water's surface that can look like paint or pea soup. Algal blooms range in color from green and fluorescent blue to brown. Most adults will avoid entering water with an algae bloom, but kids and pets can be hard to keep out of the water no matter how it looks or smells.

Many water-loving dogs will swim and drink from water regardless of smell or appearance. It is important to remember that dogs exposed to algae should be rinsed off following contact with waters experiencing a bloom. Dogs often lick their fur after swimming and rinsing pets helps decrease the chance of ingesting algal materials. Seek immediate veterinary care if your pet develops any signs of illness after swimming in a lake, river or pond.

If you come in contact with a blue-green algae bloom, you may experience eye, throat, nose or skin irritation and gastrointestinal problems, such as vomiting or diarrhea. Symptoms typically appear a few hours after exposure, but occasionally people feel ill several days after exposure. Contact a physician if you experience muscle cramps, respiratory difficulties, nausea or vomiting following swimming in a lake or river. "It's a good idea to wash with clean water after playing or swimming in any lake or river, and, as always, to wash hands before eating," Krueger said.

Headache Relief Naturally

Most headaches involve abnormal nerve activity within your brain. Common triggers are stress, alcohol, lack of sleep and a variety of foods and environmental factors.

Fortunately, we have several mind-body therapies and self-care techniques that can often help calm the affected nerves so you have less pain. Research suggests these methods may be helpful for migraine, tension-type and chronic headaches.

Test your knowledge:

- Which is not a common headache trigger?
  - Bright lights
  - Strong odors
  - Walking or jogging
  - Stress and worry
- What self-care technique may relieve a headache once it's started?
  - Sit quietly or lie down
  - Relax your body from head to toe
  - Take slow, deep breaths
  - All of the above
- Stress management is effective for tension headaches.

True or False
- Which alternative technique has not been shown to help headaches?
  - Chelation therapy
  - Biofeedback
  - Guided imagery
  - Hypnosis
- What is the best place to start for headache relief?
  - Web sites
  - Primary care provider
  - Neurologist
  - Occupational therapist

Answers:

- c. Regular exercise can reduce headache frequency. Physical activity stimulates the release of endorphins that may also ease early headache pain.
- d. Also, try a warm shower, apply a warm or cool compress, or massage your scalp or neck muscles. The key is to ease the muscle tension causing the pain.
- True. If you can reduce or control emotional stress before it causes muscle tension, you can reduce the frequency or severity of your headaches.
- a. Other approaches that may be therapeutic over time include meditation, relaxation training, cognitive behavior therapy (counseling), yoga and tai chi.
- b. Talk to your provider about your treatment options. With the right guidance, self-care and mind body therapies may be just as beneficial for chronic headaches as taking medications.

(American Family Physician, 11/15/07)

When to consult your provider: Your headaches persist, are severe, frequent, unusual or new, or you develop fever, visual problems, or other symptoms. By: Elizabeth Smoots, MD, FAAFP

Relay For Life

By Boyd Monte

The Lake Lucerne Advancement Association Family Fun Day and Auction was held at the associations grounds on County W this past Saturday, August 4.

The Family Fun Day and Auction is held to help raise funds for restocking the lake with walleye and also to help by donating to area organizations like Newcap. Money from this event will also be used to make the grounds more user friendly. The event has brats and burgers, refreshments and more. The auction got under about 10:30. Many different were auctioned off. There was everything from antiques to mountain bike and furniture. One nice person donated an old safe and left a dollar in it to offset the cost. Paddle wheels were under the pavilion for those who were not fans of auctions and the children had a bouncing room, golf putting, ring toss and other games to keep them occupied.

Winners from the event were; Len Koch won $1000, Jeanne Schneider won $350, Tony and Dawn Swiontek shared $150, Sharon Halsted, Jim Hammond, Ducks Bar and Mark Orlovsky each pocketed $50 and Keith Collins, LeRoy and Rosalie Kalata, Lawrence Laubenstein and Lynn Ebben collected $25.

Winners from the boards were; Rick Garrity took home the lounge chair, Johnny Doane has a new 32 inch T.V., Dorothy Kegley won a bicycle, Tom Baehman won an underwater camera, Karla Harminath wheeled the dump cart home, Bob Nack is the proud new owner of a grill and Bruce Desotelle and Gregg Bender each won $300.

Jim and Kim Odekirk and Monica Conway speak about how cancer has affected their Lives

The Honor Guard raises the colors

By Boyd Monte

The Relay for Life is an all night event where people raise money to support cancer research so hopefully one day the world can cure the terrible disease.

This year the Honor Guard raised the colors and made a lap around Cardinal Park. The cancer survivors then made their victory lap and Gregg Tallier volunteered his excellent DJ services for the evening.

Kim Odekirk and her husband Jim gave a passionate speech about having been diagnosed and their time in treatment. They thanked everyone for the prayers, love and hope that they have shown them by participating in the relay. Monica Conway has a son, Jude, that was diagnosed with cancer at three years old. Jude has leukemia and will continue with treatments for the next two and a half years. Monica read a letter she wrote about how Jude is her "super hero." Jude has been a brave little boy battling this terrible disease. "A little chemo never slowed Jude down."

The Relay for Life has raised about $40,000 this year in Forest County. Cancer is not biased, it does not discriminate and does not care about gender or age. The Relay For Life is a fun event and it also fights cancer.

Ken Winkelman earns Distinguished Insurance Agency

Madison, Wis. August 7, 2012 Ken Winkelman, an American Family Insurance agent in Crandon, WI, has been recognized for providing outstanding customer experience under the J.D. Power and Associates Distinguished Insurance Agency Program. SM Ken joins other American Family agents who have demonstrated the highest level of commitment to outstanding customer service.

Ken has earned this award for 8 out of the 8 years the program has been in place. Ken has been an agent for American Family since September 1977. His office is located at 202 N Lake Ave in Crandon.

"Consumers expect value from insurance agents, as they do from any other service providers," said Dan Schultz, American Family president and chief operating officer. "This award helps consumers to identify the best of the best, with respect to customer service and customer satisfaction."

The service excellence distinction was determined through an evaluation process conducted by J.D. Power and Associates. The process consists of a customer satisfaction survey which measures customers' overall experience with their current American Family agent. Agents must meet or exceed the standards measured on a national benchmark established by J.D. Power and Associates' annual auto and home insurance customer satisfaction studies. Only agencies that perform in the top 20 percent of all insurance agencies nationwide based on customer satisfaction surveys are eligible to become a Distinguished Insurance Agency.

field and would not request a prepaid card payment. If customers have been approached in this manner, WPS requests that customers inform the Customer Call Center at 1-800-450-7260. In addition, the customer should report the activity to the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection at 1-800-422-7128. So far, it seems the fraud is being perpetrated in the Green Bay area and primarily trying to take advantage of the Hispanic community. That does not mean, however, that the parties trying to prey on unsuspecting customers will not branch out to other customers and other locations. Again, customers should report suspicious attempts to collect money by someone purporting to represent WPS, please confirm it is not a fraud by calling 1-800-450-7260 and by then reporting to the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection at 1-800-422-7128.

Get Your Garden Ready For Winter

If you get your garden ready for winter properly, it will make a big difference next spring. Instead of playing catch-up and fixing winter's damage, you'll be ready to enjoy your garden when the first spring bulbs come up.

Leaf cleanup is one of the key jobs of late fall. Protect young trees with guards: Put plastic or wire mesh (hardware cloth) tree guards around the slender trunks of any new trees and shrubs to protect them from gnawers such as rabbits and mice, and make sure the tree guards go high enough, over the snow line.

Continue to water trees, especially evergreens, until the ground freezes. Evergreens need a good store of moisture going into winter because they don't lose their leaves, which means they continue to transpire (give off water vapor) through the cold months. More information on winter care for your trees and shrubs.

Use your yard's leaves: Consider shredding fall leaves and using them as winter mulch on flower beds. You can also add shredded leaves to the compost pile. In a season or so, they'll make the best treat your garden soil can have. You can use a chipper shredder, if you have one, or just run your lawn mower over the leaves. Read more about easier ways to clean up fall leaves.

Clean up fallen leaves from your lawn each week instead of leaving the job until all the leaves have fallen. In fall, lawn grass still needs sunlight as it is creating sugars to store in its root system for good growth next spring. Leaving the leaves on top of the lawn can smother the grass and weaken it. However, there is an easier way than raking to deal with leaves on your lawn: just chop them up with your mower, and leave them on the grass to break down. You will probably have to run over them a couple of times. Research at Michigan State University has found that turf grass benefits from chopped up leaves left on the lawn instead of being raked off.

Control lawn weeds: If you spray your lawn to control broadleaf weeds, the month of October is the most effective time for this job.

Apply lawn fertilizer. A lawn fertilizer application made in the late fall encourages increases winter hardiness and promotes quick greening in spring. For more information on this, see low maintenance lawn care.

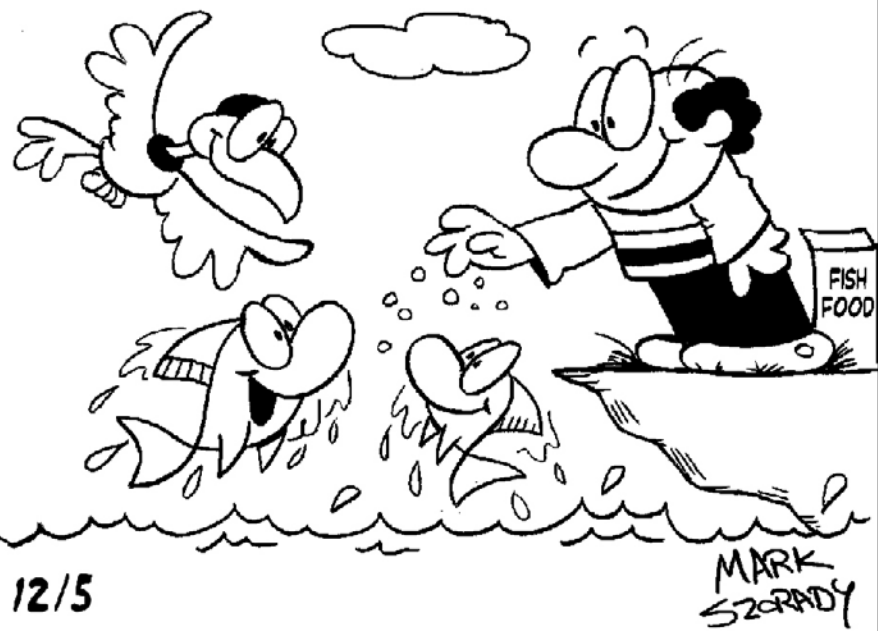

Cut the lawn one final time: After you are finished, why not get your mower serviced and its blade sharpened now so it will be ready for spring?

Weeding: Do one last weeding and discard any weeds that have seeds on them in the garbage instead of the compost. You don't want those pesky seeds sprouting in your garden later.

Explore a bachelor's degree at Nicolet's Transfer Open House

Do you see a bachelor's degree in your future? See how you can turn that dream into a reality at the University Transfer Liberal Arts Open House from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. Monday, Aug. 13, in Northwoods Center 209 on the Nicolet Campus.

"This will be the perfect opportunity for people to learn more about the Transfer program," said Rose Prunty, dean of Nicolet University Transfer Liberal Arts program. "Those attending will be able to meet instructors and advisors, learn about the many four-year campuses that accept Nicolet credits, and also learn about Nicolet's admissions process."

Fall Semester classes start Sept. 4. Prunty noted there is still time for students to enroll but anyone thinking about doing so will need to act promptly.

Nicolet offers three different two-year transfer associate degrees; an Associate of Arts, an Associate of Science, and an Associate of Science with a Natural Resources emphasis.

Over the years thousands of students have started their bachelor's degrees at Nicolet, attracted to the program by the high quality of instruction, small class sizes, and the cost savings that comes with starting at Nicolet, Prunty explained.

"Tuition at Nicolet is roughly half of what students pay at a four-year college or university," she said. "This means students who complete their first two years at Nicolet save thousands of dollars when compared to the cost of starting a bachelor's degree at a four-year campus."

She noted that many Nicolet Transfer students also live at home, resulting in even greater savings since they don't incur the cost of room and board.

Information about online classes, financial aid, and scholarships will also be available at the open house.

The Nicolet Campus is located one mile south of Rhinelander just off of Hwy. G. The Northwoods Center is the first building on the right when entering campus. Parking is across the street on the left.

For more information about the transfer program or the open house, contact Prunty at (715) 365-4481, 1-800-544-3039, ext. 4481; TDD (715) 365-4448; or by email at rprunty@nicoletcollege.edu.

Vet's Corner

On Saturday, May 26th, the Riders for Vets came through Crandon and stopped at the Courthouse Square Veterans Memorial for a picnic. They had provided the majority of the food ahead of time from donations of meat and buns for BBQ, chips, etc., and members of the local Veterans organizations prepared and served it as they came in. On Sunday July 22, 2012 the Riders for Vets out of Kingsford MI returned to Crandon to present donations to the organizations that participated at the May 26th picnic. Their fund raiser, Riders for Vets raised $19,000. They requested the organizations who assisted the riders, with food, water, etc. at designated stops to send a letter explaining the needs of the organization.

The Riders who came for the presentation were MC Bill Bailey & Vickie, Gary Burke, Mitch Leinen, Randy Piatti, Brett & Shiela Ayers, John Knapp, Randy & Denise Foltz, Mike Lequia, and Terry and Keri Nyland. MC Bill Bailey presented a check for $1000 to Dean Van Zile representing the Mole Lake Veterans for their building fund, a check for $1000 to the Crandon Patsy Shay VFW represented by Bill O'Shaunnessy for their needed building repairs, and a check for $160 to Ron Lemieux, President of the Forest County Veterans Memorial Association and Shirley Mills, Treasurer/Secretary.

While Ron accepted the smallest check graciously, the Riders started chuckling and explained the new sound system they had brought and were using to make the presentations was also part of the donation. One of the Riders went to the Music Tree in Iron Mountain, MI and the $1300 Passport Pro 300 Fender Sound System was purchased at cost, and the balance of a $1000 donation was a check for $160. After the presentations everyone was invited to the Ron Lemieux home for Indian Tacos, fry bread and beverages.

The Riders were invited to return for other Veteran related events and the organizations were very grateful for the donations.

AARP Driver Safety program

AARP Driver Safety is celebrating teachers and school personnel this summer through its educator appreciation promotion allowing AARP to recognize educators for their commitment to teaching and serving the community. In recognition of their generosity in teaching and helping others, active and retired educators and school personnel can take the classroom driver safety course for just $5.00 on Thursday, Aug 23. The class will be held at the Crandon Masonic temple from 12:30 to 4:30 PM. Registration begins at 12:00. Non-educators are also welcome to take this classroom course, but the normal charge will apply. $12.00 for members and $14.00 for non-members.

This promotion is being offered to any educator, or person who has worked for a school district or university in any capacity. It includes janitors, secretaries, aides, pre-school teachers, college professors, and even parents who home-school their children. It does not matter how long someone was an educator, or if they have a teaching degree.

There will be a similar recognition of Veterans and their dependents on Nov 8th. If you are a vet or dependent of a vet save that date.

You may call John Gregg, 715 850 0744 to enroll.

96 percent of public water systems met health standards for drinking water.

MADISON -- Ninety-six percent of Wisconsin's public water systems served drinking water that met all health-based standards in 2011, a year also notable for a doubling in the amount of financial help provided to upgrade infrastructure and for small systems to address nitrate standards violations.

"Once again water utilities, water associations, laboratory staff, state staff and others did an exemplary job of providing water that meets safe drinking water standards," says Jill Jonas, who leads the Department of Natural Resources drinking water and groundwater program. "We're also happy to report that during these tough economic times we were able to provide more financial aid to communities to help them address contaminant problems and build capacity for the future."

Ninety-six percent, or 10,951 of 11,439 systems, served drinking water that met all health standards, the same proportion as last year and above the federal goal of 95 percent.

Also of note in 2011, 18 communities received a total of $36.5 million in financial aid from DNR, most of which was low interest loans. Such loans can provide a cost savings of up to 30 percent to communities, enabling them to address challenges more quickly and cheaply, she says. That compares to the $18 million provided to 14 communities in 2010.

These and other details summarizing Wisconsin's public water systems' performance as a whole between Jan. 1, 2011 and Dec. 31, 2011 were submitted to EPA earlier this month in the "2011 Annual Drinking Water Report [PDF]."

Wisconsin has more public water systems than any other state except Michigan, ranging from utilities serving the state's largest communities, to churches, restaurants and taverns. About 4.9 million of Wisconsin's 5.6 million residents get their drinking water from community public water systems while the rest tap private wells, according to the report.

Of the 4 percent of Wisconsin public water systems reporting at least one violation of health-based standards, their elevated contaminant levels did not mean that people who drank the water got sick.

The second most common violation was elevated levels of nitrate, a pollutant largely resulting from fertilizer application to crops, and the third was elevated levels of arsenic, a naturally occurring contaminant. Forty water systems had water samples in which nitrate levels exceeded the standards in 2011 and 18 systems had arsenic violations.

As radium violations were addressed by dozens of communities, DNR staff were able to spend more time in 2011 working to address nitrate problems. DNR staff have been working with day cares, schools and factories -- so-called nontransient noncommunity systems -- to reduce nitrate levels in the wake of a new evaluation of the risk the contaminant poses, Boushon says.

Federal standards set the permissible level of nitrate in drinking water to 10 mg/l, but transient noncommunity public water supply systems -- those which serve at least 25 people at least 60 days of the year - can operate with levels of up to 20 mg/l if the state agrees. Transient noncommunity systems do not serve the same people water every day -- unlike community water systems that provide drinking water to homes for daily use -- so the exposure to contaminants would be less.

Concerned that federal nitrate standards were not protective enough of the general population, however, DNR asked the state Department of Health Services to review the scientific evidence. Nitrate levels that exceed the federal standard for drinking water have long been regarded as an acute risk for infants and pregnant women because the contaminant interferes with the oxygen-carrying capacity of blood and can cause infants who drink water or formula with high nitrate levels to get seriously ill and die. Some scientific studies have found evidence suggesting that women who drink nitrate-contaminated water during pregnancy are more likely to have babies with birth defects.

State health officials concluded in 2009 that long-term exposure of a year or more to nitrates in drinking water could have adverse health effects even in adults. So DNR has notified nontransient noncommunity water systems that they must reduce nitrate levels in water to below 10 mg/L. About half of the systems that had violations now comply with the standards through taking actions including drilling new wells or installing water treatment equipment. DNR staff are working with the remainder to correct the problem.

pay at a four-year college or university," she said. "This means students who complete their first two years at Nicolet save thousands of dollars when compared to the cost of starting a bachelor's degree at a four-year campus."

She noted that many Nicolet Transfer students also live at home, resulting in even greater savings since they don't incur the cost of room and board.

Information about online classes, financial aid, and scholarships will also be available at the open house.

Results available from survey on turkey management plan revision

MADISON — Results from a recent survey on turkey management in Wisconsin show strong support of current practices, with 80 percent of respondents indicating they believe the current seven turkey management zones provide good hunting opportunity, and over three-quarters of respondents favoring the six separate time periods of the spring hunting season.

"While there's a lot of information yet to comb through, our initial summary provides unique insight into how hunters view various aspects of Wisconsin's turkey season framework," said Krista McGinley, assistant upland wildlife ecologist for the Department of Natural Resources.

The survey showed strong approval of the current permit drawing process for the spring season, but also suggested that it might be time to make some changes to the fall permit drawing process.

"Over half of the survey takers indicated that they'd support the elimination of the fall permit drawing in favor of over-the-counter permit sales," McGinley said. "We greatly appreciate the time folks took to participate in the public input process. Thanks to this input, we'll be able to develop a plan that continues to reflect the desires and concerns of our state's hunters."

Following their successful reintroduction to Wisconsin in the 1970s, wild turkeys have expanded their range so that they now occupy all counties in the state, and spring and fall turkey hunting have become very popular outdoor activities.

DNR biologists believe the current Wisconsin Wild Turkey Management Plan, written in 1996, is in need of revision in order to remain pertinent to contemporary issues related to turkey management in the state. A critical part of the revision process includes soliciting, gathering, and analyzing input from the public regarding challenges and opportunities in turkey management and hunting in Wisconsin.

During late April and early May of 2012, 11 public input sessions were held around the state, during which attendees were presented with background information and asked to complete a survey that addressed important issues related to the future direction of turkey management. The survey was also available online through the end of May. Information from this survey will help all of the partners involved in managing our state's turkey flock in developing a plan that protects the turkey resource, but also optimizes recreational opportunities for outdoor enthusiasts.

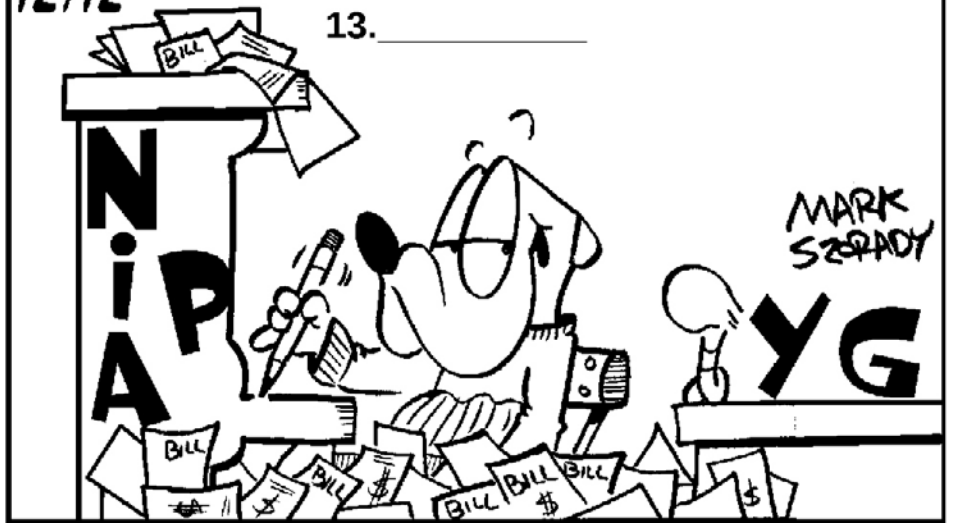

"There's no question that the DNR and the Wisconsin Chapter of the National Wild Turkey Federation have done a masterful job restoring wild turkeys back to Wisconsin," says Cory Catlin, president of the federation's Wisconsin chapter. "This was particularly evident a couple of years ago when our state led the nation in spring harvest. Now that we've seen those numbers level off a bit, it's time to move forward with management changes that improve habitat, hunting opportunities, and the overall health of our sport." People can review the survey results by going to dnr.wi.gov and searching for "turkey management".
