Roller Drama to Present Original Film in Wabeno

Wabeno High School Drama's 2012-13 original film, Until the Stars All Fall from the Sky, will have its world premiere on Monday, June 17th at 7:00 p.m. in the Wabeno High School Auditorium. Admission will be $3.00 per adult and $2.00 per student or child. DVD's autographed by the cast will be available for $2.00 while supplies last. The screenplay for Until the Stars All Fall from the Sky is adapted from the stage play for which WHS Drama received the Critic's Choice award at the 2007 Wisconsin High School Theatre Festival.

Until the Stars... is a comic adventure story for children and adults alike. The film's narrative is framed as a father telling his skeptical daughter the tale as a bedtime story. "That part will remind parents of a well-loved fairy tale movie from the 1980's," says director Nick Lowery. As the child listens to the story, the audience gets a glimpse into seven-year-old Esmeralda's imagination and sees a whole new world. "This is where things get really different from anything we've done on film before," Lowery says. Roller Drama used a very unique process in creating this film. First, the characters' voices were digitally recorded. Later different actors portrayed the characters' movements. The movie is live action but looks similar to a cartoon. The characters wear colorful masks and the scenes were all filmed in front of a green screen and then digital art created by WHS senior Alyssa Mangold was put in as a background. "It gets kind of crazy," comments Lowery. "We're telling a simple comic fairytale about love, faith and family, but the story frame, the green screening, costumes and masks lead to something that feels like a mash-up of The Princess Bride, Blue's Clues and kabuki theatre."

The cast and crew were led by seniors Stacy Roy, Alyssa Mangold and Brandon Oberleitner. Other WHS Drama performers were Christy Mattern, Samantha Exferd, Desiree Marie Meyer, Samantha Lake, Suzannah Diamond, Ian McKenna, Teagen Bodoh, Kaitlyn Ashbeck, Tanesha Burba and Nick J. Lowery. Guest performers were Mike Dailey and Pfeiffer Bodoh. WHS alum AJ Clay assisted on sets and props. Costumes were made by Mary Ellen Keller.

Gardening's an Enjoyable Way to Stay Fit

Warmer weather means it's more pleasant to spend time out of doors. By following these tips you can make yard work or gardening a fitness routine and grow things as well.

With summer approaching in the Northern Hemisphere, the days are longer, evenings stay light for hours, and the garden or backyard is the place to be.

As well as barbecuing and entertaining friends and family, think about how your outdoor space can double as a natural gym.

Gardening or yard work are natural physical activities that stretch and strengthen your muscles and relax your mind, according to Kara Smith, special programs coordinator for the Loyola University Health System's Center for Fitness.

"Working in your garden is a great way to exercise. Whether pulling weeds or spreading mulch you are using major muscles all over your body and you're sure to break a sweat," Ms Smith said

There's also the pleasure of seeing vegetables growing, trees and shrubs blooming, and many birds and insects.

Cooler Weather Yard Work is Healthy too

In the Southern Hemisphere, the days are getting shorter, with the evenings drawing in.

But there is still plenty that can be done in the garden to work the muscles and build up a sweat.

Sweeping and raking up leaves, pruning shrubs and trees, mulching plants, turning over the compost, and of course, pulling out the last of weeds - all use major muscles and burn kilojoules/calories.

Tips to Keep Fit in the Yard as You Work

Ms. Smith warned that it's easy to overdo the exercise in the garden, especially if you haven't done any for a while.

As with any exercise program, check with your physician first, and don't overtax your body.

She offered these gardening exercise tips:

- Don't make it a marathon: keep a regular gardening routine. Instead of trying to do everything over the weekend, schedule at least 30-60 minutes of yard work two to three times per week.

- Warm up your body by taking a brisk walk around the yard before any vigorous work.

- When raking, change the movement and alternate the sides of your body to ensure you are working them both equally.

- When digging, switch hands often so you are using both arms. This helps prevent muscle imbalances, repetitive motion injuries and blisters.

- Bend at your knees and keep your back straight when lifting heavy items.

- Don't Forget to Stretch after Gardening

"As with any good exercise program, be sure to cool down with these stretches to help alleviate post yard work aches and pains," she said.

Hamstring stretch: Stand with feet shoulder width apart and slide one foot in front of the other. Gently sit your hips back and support your upper body on the leg you did not move. Hold for 15-30 seconds and switch legs. Lower back stretch: Stand with feet shoulder width apart. Bend knees slightly and bend at the hips. Support your upper body with your hands on your thighs. Gently round your back so it arches like a cat.

Chest opening: Stand tall and relax your shoulders down your back. Reach hands back with thumbs pointing up. If this is uncomfortable, grasp hands behind back and lift your chest.

Upper-back stretch: Stand with your feet shoulder width apart. Bring palms together and reach arms away from body. Feel the stretch between your shoulder blades.

Remember Basic Precautions when Outdoors

- Lastly, don't forget your hat, sun protection and gloves - even in autumn.

- Wear sunscreen, long-sleeved shirts, pants and a wide-brimmed hat to limit sun exposure.

- Drink plenty of water to replace the sweat.

- Use gloves to help prevent blisters and splinters to your hands.

- Use a kneeling cushion to support your knees.

Vet's Corner Vietnam Vet's Honor Flight

After transporting more than 1,500 World War II and Korean War veterans to visit the national memorials built in their honor over the past four years, Old Glory Honor Flight is embarking on a different mission this summer.

As part of the daylong "Salute to Veterans" celebration at EAA's AirVenture, this honor flight is dedicated solely to Vietnam veterans.

"It's definitely going to be special," says Old Glory Honor Flight board member Diane MacDonald.

In an effort to say thank you to all the Vietnam vets who've supported Old Glory Honor Flights in recent years, and to mark the observance of the 40th anniversary of the end of hostilities in Vietnam, the Yellow Ribbon Honor Flight will depart Wittman Field in Oshkosh and transport 100 Vietnam Veterans to Washington D.C. on August 2nd. A welcome home concert will feature actor Gary Sinise and the Lt. Dan Band.

"I would expect there will be a lot of emotion that day, I think for many of our Vietnam veterans they haven't been acknowledged or properly thanked, and to have 100 of them on an airplane and surrounded by people that really appreciate and value what they did I would expect a lot of tears and I would expect a lot of stories," says MacDonald.

Because Old Glory expects many more applications than the plane can hold, a random drawing will determine the 100 veterans selected.

Applications must be in prior to July 1st.

• Yellow Ribbon Honor Flight details from EAA AirVenture Old Glory Honor Flight's motto is that 'it's never too late to say thank you' and we are excited to turn those words into action for this very special group of heroes during this one-time-only event on August 2."

Early that morning, a special American Airlines yellow-ribbon 737 aircraft, Flagship Liberty, will fly 100 Vietnam veterans from the AirVenture grounds to Washington, D.C. After a reception greeting them at Reagan National Airport, the veterans will embark on a day-long tour of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Wall, the Smithsonian American History Museum, and Arlington National Cemetery.

"American Airlines has helped host numerous Honor Flights carrying WW II veterans to our nation's capital. On the 40th anniversary of the end of hostilities in Vietnam, it is an absolute honor for us to partner with Old Glory Honor Flight on this 'historic first' to take 100 Vietnam War veterans to Washington, D.C., to give them a proper welcome," said Capt. Jim Palmersheim, who leads American's Military and Veterans Initiatives.

The veterans will return to AirVenture on Friday as the finale of the day's air show. Upon arrival on Phillips 66 Plaza they will be greeted by thousands of AirVenture attendees, receiving the welcome home reception they deserved so many years ago. A very special ceremony will be held immediately after the veterans' arrival, and an evening concert by Gary Sinise and the Lt. Dan Band ends the Salute to Veterans daylong celebration. The Lt. Dan Band concert is hosted by the Disabled American Veterans and the EAA Warbirds of America.

"EAA is proud to host the Old Glory Honor Flight for the fourth consecutive year in what has become a vital part of our annual Salute to Veterans at AirVenture Oshkosh," said EAA Chairman Jack Pelton. "We are honored to play a key role in this special Yellow Ribbon Honor Flight for Vietnam veterans."

The Old Glory Honor Flight, Northeast Wisconsin's hub of the Honor Flight Network, recognizes WWII and Korean War veterans for their service and sacrifices by providing a memorable, safe, and rewarding tour of Washington, D.C., memorials at no cost.

Vietnam veterans who wish to participate in the special August 2 Yellow Ribbon Honor Flight need to complete an application. As this is a one-time-only event for Vietnam veterans, applications received by July 1, 2013, will be entered into a random drawing. For privacy purposes, and to allow Old Glory Honor Flight to continue to concentrate on our most senior wartime veterans, all applications received but not selected will be shredded.

Old Glory says honor flights for World War II and Korean War vets will resume this fall.

FYI, On June 20, 2013 there is welcome home for Old Glory Honor Flight at Outagamie County Airport (Appleton)

WELCOME HOME INFORMATION: Arrive at 7:30 for the 8:20 return flight. Free parking at the airport, SwingTime band will perform. Please wear your red, white and blue! Make a sign, bring a flag and a friend. T-shirts and Old Glory Honor Flight merchandise will be available for purchase. <http://www.wbay.com/story/22409177/2013/05/23/old-glory-to-honor-vietnam-veterans-with-flight-to-dc>

Breaking Sugar Addiction

Most people have a sweet tooth and have cravings for sugar. Sugar is as addictive as other drugs. Have you experienced withdrawal symptoms?

Sugar addiction is very common and the manufacturers of sweet foods and drinks cater openly to this demand. There is a huge market created solely to cater for the sweet tooth. We are constantly bombarded with advertisements for high sugar foods and drinks and rarely do we visit a supermarket for the weekly shopping without loading our trolley with sugary treats. Sugar addiction is real and the consequences of it can damage our health. Withdrawal symptoms signal us to reach for another sugar hit to appease the negative sensations we experience with prolonged periods without it. The addiction to sugar has been scientifically studied and the results are thought provoking. This article discusses the negative side effects of sugar addiction, the withdrawal symptoms and how you can break the habit of feeding your body with too much sugar.

The Side Effects of Sugar Addiction

Sugar activates opioid receptors in the brain in a similar way that illegal street drugs and medicinal opioids do. When opioid receptors in the brain are stimulated it can kill pain like an analgesic does. It is also has been shown to alter the brain chemistry. When we consume a sugary food or drink, it triggers a quick release of insulin from the pancreas. Insulin is required to move sugar molecules in the blood into cells to be used for energy. If you are continuously consuming sugar throughout the day it can desensitize the cells so that they do not absorb the sugar. It can also overwhelm the pancreas causing it to restrict the amount of insulin being released. When blood sugar levels are high, it is destructive to the blood vessels, nerves and glandular tissue. It also causes fat to be stored which leads to obesity and the associated negative health effects of being obese. Sugar is also acidic which can promote the growth of bacteria, leading to frequent infections. It also reduces the effectiveness of the immune system. Sugar also activates the reward centers in the brain making you feel good temporarily which sets up a pattern of returning to sugar to reward yourself frequently.

Withdrawal Symptoms

Typically if you are craving a sugary treat and it is not available to you, you can experience many withdrawal symptoms. These include headaches, depression, anxiety, anger, sleeplessness and musculoskeletal aches and pains. These withdrawal symptoms can be severe. Sugar addicts typically have frequent cravings for sugar and tend to uncontrollably binge on sugar when they do give in to their craving. Apart from sugar addicts many people reach for a sugar hit in the afternoons when fatigue and tiredness often plagues us. Initially the sugar hit does give a temporary mental boost but it is not sustained and we quickly crash again.

How to Break the Sugar Habit

To avoid the withdrawal symptoms, one needs to slowly cut down on the amount of sugar being consumed each day. You need to admit to yourself that you do have a sugar addiction and that you know it is detrimental to your health. Replacing sugar cravings with fruits can help satisfy your sweet tooth and is a healthier option. Using artificial sweeteners in teas and coffees can offer sweetness without the calories and weight gain. Stevia is a plant based sweetener that is several times sweeter than sugar, is very low in calories, is not acidic and does not cause a spike in blood sugar levels. Switch to diet sodas, sugar free drinks including water, sports drinks and diabetic cordials. Simple carbohydrates can cause sugar cravings also. Avoid white breads, starchy foods, baked goods and potato chips. Even though they don't taste sweet they are packed with sugar.

To lessen or avoid the withdrawal symptoms from reducing sugar intake, there are several herbal remedies you can use. These herbal remedies can have a relaxing effect on the body and help alleviate symptoms of anxiety, moodiness, disrupted sleep and nervousness. Try Valerian root, Chamomile, Passion flower or St Johns Wart. These herbal remedies can interact with your current medication and may cause an allergic reaction in some sensitive people. It is therefore recommended to talk to your doctor before commencing on any herbal supplement.

Read the labels on foods that you buy for their sugar content and avoid those with a high amount of sugar. Choose a food that is low in sugar or no sugar that you really enjoy and use this food to reward yourself when you have a sugar craving. Make use of distractions when you have sugar craving like having a massage, a manicure, a bubble bath, any activity which gives you pleasure.

In conclusion, breaking the sugar addiction can be a habit as hard to break as any other drug addiction. It is not easy to break the habit but with time and effort you can change your cravings for sugar. Sugar addiction leads to obesity and diabetes. You will not only reward yourself with better health by breaking the habit, you will also save yourself a lot of money.

Letters to the Editor

We welcome letters to the Editor; however the letters should be legible, in good taste, not libelous, and pertinent to current issues. Dear Editor,

Several veterans and I attended a City Council meeting in May, when we had heard that the city was not going to renew our lease. It expired after ten years. It is the Northwoods Veteran's Memorial located in the old library building at 104 South Lake Avenue.

We have been paying the rent on time and have been keeping the building up to date. Now, it seems that the mayor doesn't approve of us having it anymore.

I can't believe that the City of Crandon would put our veterans out just for a few that are interested in selling it.

Mrs. Hobbs had wrote the city a letter in 2002, saying the city should give the building to the vets. She invested a large amount of money in getting the new library for the city and wanted the vets to have a place to keep their memories too.

I had a son who enlisted at age 17 because he loved this country and wanted to go to Vietnam and keep our country safe. Six months later, the dreaded news came that he was killed in action over there.

We have a special room made from the big vault, and it contains pictures and memorabilia from all wars. It is a K.I.A. and P.O.W. room.

Many people have visited our museum and have enjoyed it, including school children, Red Hatters and the elderly.

Many vets have donated their valuables to be displayed and some are in glass cases and some are plaques on the wall.

When we went into the building in 2002, we painted everything, installed a full carpet, two large ceiling fans, a sink, cupboards and refrigerator so the vets could come in and enjoy it. Not only the vets, but everybody is invited.

I am writing this to let the people know what is taking place between the city and the veterans who have kept all of us safe so we can enjoy it. I think it is necessary for the people of Crandon to let their council members know that this a great thing for Crandon and all towns near by.

The towns have so generously donated each year to keep us going. After all, Crandon is the county seat, and we all support Crandon in all their doings.

It was asked; "Do you pay taxes?" Come on! What do you call it when you put your life on the line so the rest of us can stay free?

Please help us to renew our lease again so everyone (including our children) can see just what our veterans have done and still do for each and everyone of us.

We are asking the city to renew our lease again, and they said they would decide on it. If this doesn't happen, where do we go with all the precious things that have been donated to make this a beautiful memorial for the City of Crandon.

staffing, with a decrease of 1.4 full time positions. Since 2010-11, the college has reduced staffing by the equivalent of 22.2 full-time positions while at the same time making advances in several key academic areas, said Nicolet College President Elizabeth Burmaster.

"Nicolet has been especially competitive in securing new private, federal and state grant funding which has helped fund new initiatives at a time of levy freezes and state general aid reductions," Burmaster reported to the board.

The most significant of these were grants totaling more than $1.3 million to boost manufacturing training. Nicolet is using this money to expand its Welding program by 30 percent and also create a series of academic credentials in manufacturing that culminates in the new, two-year Industrial Mechanical Technician associate degree, Burmaster reported.

"Even in these continued tight economic times the college has been able to find ways to expand key academic programs," she said. "The advanced training these graduates bring to the workplace will contribute to the overall economic development of the region." She also noted that the college's occupational/technical programs posted an average job placement rate of 90 percent in 2012-13.

Another highlight of the past budget year was the historic partnership the college formed with the Lac du Flambeau tribe to deliver dental instruction at the new Peter Christianson Dental Clinic in Lac du Flambeau.

"This partnership was the first of its kind in the nation and one that will have long-lasting benefits to Northwoods residents," Burmaster said.

What is Aloe Good For?

For thousands of years, aloe vera has been used as a natural medicine. No other natural product contains such a large number of properties useful to humans.

Though the aloe vera plant looks like a cactus, it is actually a member of the lily family. There are more than five hundred different species of this commonly known household plant. Known by many other scientific-sounding names, such as Curacao aloe, Barbados aloe, and even lily of the desert, most of us just call it aloe. Below are some of the more common uses for aloe vera:

- Soothes skin injured by burns, irritations, cuts and insect bites.
- Relieves itching, swelling, and irritated skin.
- Improves the effectiveness of sunscreen products.
- Eases digestive complaints.
- Heals skin conditions such as eczema, psoriasis, or acne.
- Aids musculoskeletal conditions such as arthritis or rheumatism.

Many of the skin care products containing aloe vera are also fortified with Vitamin E and collagen to keep the moisture in and help maintain the skin's elasticity and suppleness. Today, aloe vera and skin care products seem to go hand in hand. Commercial products containing aloe vera are used by millions of people worldwide.

How to Grow Your Own

Aloe plants make for great houseplants. If you live in a warm climate, you could put them on a deck or even plant them, however they are extremely frost tender.

For outside: Plant in full sun or light shade.

Inside: Keep the plant in its own container and place near a sunny window.

Watering: Remember Aloe Vera is a succulent, which means it doesn't need a lot of water. It actually stores water in its leaves and roots. In the winter, Aloes go through a dormant stage and won't require a lot of water. In the summer, wait until the soil is dry, then completely soak the plant. Allow it to dry out before you water it again.

How to Use It

When you find yourself in need for some aloe, break off a lower leaf and apply the gel to the affected area. If necessary, use a knife to cut the leaf open.

Forest County CAN! Announces Summer's Season of Health: make your move!

Have you seen these signs and stickers around the county? That's because the Seasons of Health campaign is continuing! This is the fourth of a series of county-wide quarterly campaigns are focused on providing YOU with more opportunities to be healthy. Summer's campaign, "make your move!" is focused on getting all ages more involved in physical activity.

These campaigns are guided by our community health plan's health priorities for 2011-2015. One of these priorities is increasing physical activity levels of Forest County residents by 2015. Why do we need to be active? Physical Activity strengthens your bones and muscles, provides energy balance and weight control, improves your mental health and mood, lowers risk of heart disease, diabetes, and high blood pressure and increases your chances of living longer. Children and adolescents need 60 or more minutes of physical activity per day and adults should have at least 150 minutes per week.

You don't need to join a gym to be physically active. Start slowly to prevent injuries if you have not been active for a while. For example, take a brisk 10-minute walk twice a week to begin. Join a softball or bowling team. Grab some friends and go walking a few days/week. Take the stairs instead of the elevator at work. Walk down the hall to talk to a co-worker instead of sending an e-mail. Add a 10- or 20-minute walk during lunch.

Some activities are already planned. June 22nd there will be a bicycling awareness event at Cardinal Park. July 6th is the Run for the Paws 5K. July 27th is the Moonshine Run. August 4th is the Laona Souper Run. Stay tuned for more community events focusing on increasing activity. Check out the new community calendar at www.goforestcounty.com for family friendly events. Interested in hiking, biking and canoeing? Check out www.forestcountyywi.com for maps and information on trails. You can also print a brochure of the commonly used trails at our website.

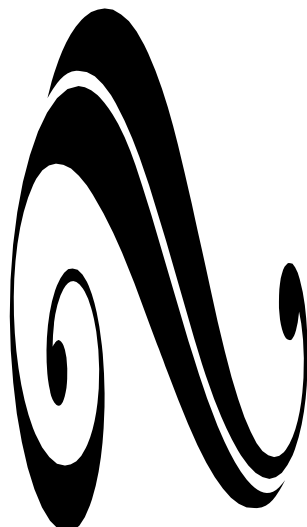

Get excited about "make your move!" this summer, and keep an eye out for a new season of health this fall! Check our website for more information and contact us if you would like to host an event or volunteer. www.forestcountycan.org or 715-478-3371 majority of these pieces throughout his high school career. The collection includes an attractive set of nesting bowls as well as a blue ribbon piece that includes a teapot with cover and a cup to match decorated with a serpentine style of design. Many of the ceramics are colored in deep amber tones which are rich in color and lend to these ceramic pieces. There are a few bowls and some of Ron's earliest works which were given as gifts to his Grandparents. These gift-pieces consist of a rich green, stamped pot and a mauve colored rose. The group also contains a small serpent holding a mouse, which is quite unique, so you don't want to miss this month's collection. We thank Ron for sharing his work with us and wish him good luck in his future endeavors this fall.

designed post cards or letters informing the recipient that "an approved senior final expense program is now available, to help pay for the senior's final expenses." (aka funeral expenses)
The card also mentions that the program could get the qualifying seniors up to $15,000.00. The mailing will then tell you that it is your legal right to get this money and asks you to complete the request form and return it within 5 days.
What Sheriff Dennee states is the most dangerous part of this is that it not only requests a "small application fee", but also that the seniors give their personal information.
Sheriff Dennee wants to again warn the public that, this like many other scams are, occurring more and more each day. He reminds everyone that when they receive this or other requests for their personal information, that it is a scam and should be ignored. The Sheriff also wants to remind anyone that has questions about mailings or phone calls that they feel could be a scam not to hesitate and contact Law Enforcement

The Wabeno Rain Garden

By: Aria Demerath

This years Environmental Science class went to the school board and proposed a new idea of a rain garden that would be located in front middle of the Wabeno High School. A rain garden is a hole that allows rainwater runoff from driveways, walkways, and parking lots, the opportunity to be absorbed. This reduces rain runoff by allowing storm water to soak into the ground. We want a rain garden so we can stop pollution getting into the Oconto River. Stopping runoff would help clean up our river. Going to the school board was a success; they voted that Wabeno High School would benefit from a rain garden and realize we have a problem with run off.
