County Forestry Committee meets to discuss matters on ORV park and discuss a referendum

By Mike Monte

Last Tuesday, on August 5th, the Forest County Forestry Committee met to discuss the ongoing debate on the proposed Off-road Vehicle Park and to educate county board members and citizens attending on the state regulations pertaining to county forest lands, stewardship loans and grants, and meeting and maintaining environmental standards on said lands.

On hand to explain how these processes work were Joe Schwantes, a DNR specialist on the subject; State Forester Craig Williams; Jane Severt, Director of the County Forest Association; and County Forester Dave Ziolkowski.

The meeting began with a power point presentation of the land on County G, east of Argonne and west of Cavour, that is desired by the Wisconsin Off-road Vehicle Park Inc. (WORVPI). A timber-type survey on Power Point was presented by Craig Williams. The

Crandon International Off-Road Raceway welcomes the W.E. Rock Dirt Riot series to the Big House, August 8-10

Crandon International Off-Road Raceway's big summer of 2014 just got a whole lot wilder as the world's premier short course off-road facility has added another weekend (Aug. 8-10) of extreme powersports action with W.E. ROCK's (World Extreme Rock Crawling Championship) Dirt Riot Series joining the stars of Midwest Off-Road Racers (MORR/TORC Series Sportsman Truck and Buggy Division) and the world of the side-by-side high horsepower blower & injected mud drag racers for one MASSIVE weekend of racing action at the Big House!

Central to the theme of the Aug. 8-10 event will be Crandon Raceway's new off-road "Playground," a 70-acre 4x4 designated area located on the famed raceway's grounds that features a natural stadium-style setting back behind the legendary race course, dotted with numerous massive boulder climbing and crawling obstacle sections for the Pro Ultra 4-style vehicles, along with a de-tuned course where the amateur weekend warriors can give the sport of rock crawling a shot.

And it's here that the W.E. ROCK Dirt Riot Series will open the weekend's competition, with a grassroots endurance contest featuring the top amateur rock crawlers from W.E. ROCK's Mid-States Series in three trail classes (Unlimited Buggies, Modified & Stock Trail Rigs), along with a popular UTV class.

"Everyone at Crandon is geared up to try out our new Playground 4x4 off-road terrain park with these rock crawlers from W.E. ROCK's Dirt Riot Series," said Cliff Flannery, President of Crandon Raceway. "We've worked hard to get the Playground ready for an event like this, and look forward to the Mid-States Dirt Riot Series opening the door for this new type of off-road competition here at Crandon."

Depending on the facility, W.E. ROCK Dirt Riot Series race courses are four to eight miles of rugged terrain where you'll find various obstacles of rock, concrete and wood, high-speed sections, natural climbing sections, trees and frame/body-twisting sections. The Crandon event, which will have the Dirt Riot vehicles running on the short course race track as well as in the Playground, is the final event of a three-event series that includes similar events in Pennsylvania and Kentucky.

"Everyone at W.E. ROCK and the Dirt Riot Series are pumped to open new courses and introduce new spectators and new competitors to our style of off-road racing," added W.E. Rock Events founder Rich Klein. "Crandon is a legendary facility with roots dug deep in the sport of off-road. Our Dirt Riot Series competitors were beyond thrilled when we told them of our partnership with Crandon Raceway for 2014 and beyond. So expect a big turnout at Crandon this August 8-10th and be ready to

RICHARD WEIBEL loves traveling around the country, but when diagnosed with PROSTATE CANCER he was happy to know great care wasn't far away.

I have a history of prostate cancer. For me, it was the TRUEBEAM™ LINEAR ACCELERATOR technology at MINISTRY'S JAMES BECK CANCER CENTER in Rhinelander that made all the difference. I received accurate, precise and comfortable treatments, completed in only a matter of minutes. Because of the wonderful staff and technology available so CLOSE TO HOME, I am now healthy enough to get back to traveling to my favorite places.

Nicolet Players' "The Game's Afoot" perfect for first-time actors; auditions Sept. 15, 16

A murder mystery filled with hilarity is next up for the Nicolet Players and anyone interested in being a part of the production filled with mischievous tomfoolery is invited to attend an audition at 7 p.m., Monday, Sept. 15, and Tuesday, September 16.

The Game's Afoot is set in 1936 and centers around Broadway star William Gillette, admired the world over for his leading role in the play Sherlock Holmes. He's invited his fellow cast-members to his Connecticut castle for a weekend of revelry. But when one of the guests is stabbed to death, the festivities in this isolated house of tricks and mirrors quickly turn dangerous. Then it's up to Gillette himself, as he assumes the persona of his beloved Holmes, to track down the killer before the next victim.

"This is the perfect play for anyone who has little or no acting experience and has always wanted to be in a play," said Jim Nuttall, Nicolet College Theatre director. "It's brilliantly written, which makes it great for first-time actors, and the storyline is hilarious which makes rehearsals a whole lot of fun."

There are roles for three men and five women ranging in age from the late teens to early 70s.

"Auditions are open to everyone," Nuttall explained. "You do not need to be a Nicolet student. All you need is enthusiasm and the desire to be in a highly entertaining production."

All auditions will be held in the Nicolet College Theatre in the Learning Resources Center. The campus is located one mile south of the city just off of Hwy. G. Scripts are available for three-day check-out from the Nicolet College Library.

Anyone with questions is encouraged to contact Nuttall at (715) 365-4476 or by email at jnuttall@nicoletcollege.edu.

"We're very pleased with the interest, variety and quality of projects proposed," said Owen Boyle, who coordinates the Citizen-based Monitoring Program for DNR. "Those receiving awards will contribute valuable information about Wisconsin's natural resources, support many DNR initiatives, and will help stretch state dollars further."

Through the Citizen-based Monitoring Partnership Program, the DNR works with community and school groups, conservation organizations and other agencies to gather critical information on plants, animals, water and other natural resources. Projects are selected through a competitive review process with projects eligible to receive up to $5,000 in funding per year.

Since it started in 2004, the Partnership Program has helped fund 219 high priority natural resource monitoring projects statewide.

Under the Adopt a Spot program, WRISC has started looking for local citizens and groups (clubs, volunteer groups, schools) to adopt spots in Forest, Florence, and Marinette counties to monitor for invasive plants. The WRISC coordinator will work with citizens and groups to find a park, trail, or other spot near them to adopt. Then WRISC will conduct a training on site where volunteers will learn how to identify and map invasives. After a site is mapped, volunteers will also have the option of hosting a control workday with WRISC to remove any invasive plants.

As WRISC's coordinator Emily Anderson puts it; "We provide the training and supplies and you protect a place you love."

To learn more about the Adopt a Spot program, contact Emily Anderson at 906-774-1550x104 or visit or www.wrisc.org/adoptaspot.htm.

survey showed that 27.5% is aspen stands that were cut in recent years. Red Pine makes up 26.3%, and again, the stands were cut closely in recent years. Swamp Conifer makes up 12.2%, and non-productive land makes up 19% of the land in question, and that includes lowland brush and river corridors. The swamp conifer, which isn't considered harvestable timber lands and the non-productive equal about 31.2% of the land desired by WORVPI for the ORV park.

Joe Schwantes talked about Statute 28, which deals with state regulations governing the use of county forests. One of the main thrusts of his talk was that, by law, county forests are to be managed for ".....optimum production of forest products together with recreational opportunities, wildlife, watershed protection and stabilization of stream flow, giving full recognition to the concept of multiple-use to assure maximum public benefits; to protect the public rights, interests and investments in such lands; and compensate the counties for the public uses, benefits and privileges these lands provide; all in a manner which will provide a reasonable revenue to the towns in which such lands lie."

The above is from the first paragraph of 28.11 Administration of County Forests, and long list of other regulations follow, including a paragraph stating that the county can register lands under a "special use" classification, which is the section that WORVPI wants to use for acquiring a park on county forest lands.

It came out at this meeting that Forest County and every other of the 29 counties with county forest have to have on file with the state, a 15-year comprehensive plan on what they intend to do on their forests. Because there is nothing in the Forest County plan for a use like an off-road park on county lands, the Forest County plan would have to be amended to include this activity. We are in about the fifth year of our plan, and to amend the plan might take a year by the time all of the language is worked out and the changes approved by the full county board. Then, the DNR board that governs these matters would also have to approve the amended plan, and this would be to keep the plan consistent with state statute.

As Schwantes pointed out, no other county has a motorized vehicle park, so the DNR would need very specific detail on how the ground would be treated in the proposed park.

Jane Severt added that a private enterprise can't profit by doing an activity on county forest land. She used an example of a man operating a riding stable on his land and charging customers to ride his horses. His trails, however, were mostly on county forest lands, and he was stopped from using these lands and went out of business. That doesn't mean that a horse owner can't use county forests to ride their horse, but it does mean that you can't profit from letting somebody else ride your horse on county forest land. This also doesn't mean that a private entity can't make a profit doing work for the county on these lands or to make a profit from a timber sale.

Supervisor Lemaster asked if loggers had to comply with the same environmental standards as other activities, and the answer was given by Severt that logging regulations are specific to the contract and don't have the same regulations as trails. She pointed out that trails on county forest lands have to meet different standards using storm water runoff permits as an example. Ziolkowski pointed out that there are cutting standards that do affect logging operations, even if they are different.

Severt pointed out that what happens here on the issue of land use on county forests has an effect on the other 28 county forests, as all are held to the same standards.

The next part of the discussion was on the Knowles-Nelson Stewardship program, from which WORVPI hopes to get a grant. As this 3.5 hour meeting progressed, it was at this point that the discussion started to heat up.

As pointed out in previous articles, Forest County and the Forest County Forestry Department, under the direction of Dave Ziolkowski, has been very successful in raising our county forest acreage by about 32% using DNR project loans and stewardship grants. The grants cover half the costs of the land, so a $1,000 per acre purchase can actually only cost county residents $500 per acre. The DNR project loan is then paid back to the state with 20% of the county's timber revenue on an annual basis. For example, if the county sells $500,000 in timber one year, it pays the state $100,000, if it sells none, the payment is none.

Schwantes explained that the money allocated by the state for stewardship projects can vary from year to year. Filing dates are on May 1st and October 15th. If all of the money isn't used, counties can jump in and ask for any remaining for acquisition of forest lands. It came out at the meeting that Ziolkowski and his department had been successful twice using these remaining funds to buy land for Forest County because they had done the work on the purchase ahead of time and when the money was available, they had a plan to submit.

A number of people in the audience and some county board members said that they approved strongly of the work done by the forestry department and wanted them to continue spending their time buying good hardwood lands that will bring a monetary return to the county in one to five years, in contrast to the proposed park lands that have stands that will take as long as 35 years for a return. Nick Samz was adamant in praising the work of the forestry department and a round of applause was given for Ziolkowski and his staff.

Lemaster stated that WORVPI has to work with the county and identify their proposed trails and other improvements and Schwantes added that for application for stewardship money, the location and types of trails should be described now.

Schwantes said that the DNR would review any amendments to the county plan, but also said; "I can't imagine a trail system that wouldn't affect wetlands."

Supervisor Albrecht asked if stewardship lands could be sold or traded.

Schwantes said that the land could not be converted to another use without replacing the land and it would have to be for a higher and better use and would have to be a "win" for the state, not just the county.

So, roughly, the criteria for stewardship funding on the possible park is to amend the plan and submit that plan to the state. If they approve the plan, then submit the idea for the off-road park and get a yes or no from the state.

At about this point, Lemaster moved to the last agenda item, which was to ask the forestry committee to make a motion to put the park idea to the public in the form of a referendum. The motion would have to be approved by the full county board at the next full meeting of the board, and then, if approved, be on the ballot for the November election.

This idea was opposed by Supervisor Lukas and Supervisor Albrecht as being too early in the process for the public to voice their opinion. County Corporate Counsel Paul Payant said it was premature as well, and said he didn't know what the county would vote on.

Supervisor Connor disagreed. He said that the engineering costs and the responsibility for the preliminary work rested with WORVPI, not the county taxpayer, and he pointed out that they had not shown up at the meeting. Connor pointed out that the current timberland program has been successful, and he didn't think it should be interrupted with work by the forestry people on a project that was so incomplete. Others agreed with Connor.

Lemaster countered Payant's argument saying that this should be put in front of the people before the county spent time and money on a project that might not happen.

Supervisor Collins became vocal and stated that she would like a referendum to determine the interest level of the citizens of the county before time and money was wasted on a project that might not be wanted. Supervisor Chaney concurred and said he intended to "play it straight" with his people on this project, and asked why we should spend two more years on a project that might not be wanted or could fail.

Ziolkowski interjected with talk of the money the county would have to borrow on the project for the campground and extreme park portion, and estimated that the cost could exceed $1 million and on up to $2 million.

A motion was made to send a motion to the full county board for a referendum on the ORV park with the language of the referendum to be composed later. The motion was seconded and a chorus of "ayes" made the motion legal.

It was a long meeting with many ideas flying and an education on the workings of county forests and the state Stewardship Fund. Whether or not the full board decides to go with a referendum on the subject won't be known until the full board meeting on August 19 at 7:00 p.m.

Some of the course is through deep woods, with rocks, hills and mud, with shade for spectators.

check out some amazing off-road action for the first time in Crandon's new Playground off-road terrain park."

Joining the W.E. ROCK Dirt Riot Series to make for an unforgettable weekend of off-road action at Crandon Raceway will be the stars of MORR, racing two rounds of TORC-sanctioned points series in all of its truck bashing, buggy flying far out racing action ... the same local racing legends that share the track with TORC Series PRO division at Crandon and Bark River events)! And, as an added bonus, the side-by-side high horsepower blower & injected mud drag racers return to action to blast down Crandon's famed Forest County Potawatomi Land Rush Start straight at unheard of speeds through the dirt.

With racers and trucks/buggies, crews and off-road fans converging from all points on the U.S. map, the small logging town of Crandon, Wisc., (population: 1,961), is awash in activity. And since 1970 the off-road phenomenon has played out in Crandon, celebrating 45 years and making it the nation's longest-running short course off-road competition.

For the people who would criticize the veterans I would submit these truths

It is the VETERAN, not the preacher, who has given us the freedom of religion.
 It is the VETERAN, not the reporter, who has given us the freedom of the press.
 It is the VETERAN, not the poet, who given us the freedom of speech.
 It is the VETERAN, not the campus organizer, who has given us the freedom to assemble.
 It is the VETERAN, not the lawyer, who has given us the right to a fair trial.
 It is the VETERAN, no the politician, who has given us the right to vote.
 Taken from "The Sortie", the Fifteenth Air Force publication of January 2004.

The Veterans have been performing the Memorial day programs and Veteran Day program for as long as I can remember. We also provide funeral services, at no charge, for any veteran who requests one.

Yours very truly
 Steve Conway
 WW II veteran

To the Editor:

To all those who may own lake property in Forest County, beware. I don't know when or how zoning laws changed, but what happened on a lot adjoining ours on Pine Lake could happen to you.

The owners of the lot have put up buildings which take up at least 80% of the lot, as I see it, and are within 50 feet of the lake. It is an eyesore, and has significantly reduced the value of the homes around it. If you want to see what it looks like, go to 8808 W. Pine Lake Rd. Hiles.

Be careful that this does not happen to you. Keep aware of any building permits in your area. You will NOT be notified.

You need to be proactive.

Kathy Ahrens-Johnson

Letters to the Editor

We welcome letter to the Editor; however the letters should be legible, in good taste, not libelous and pertinent to current issues. Names will not be withheld upon request, except for very special circumstances. NAME AND PHONE NUMBER SHOULD BE INCLUDED FOR VERIFICATION PURPOSES. We reserve the right to reject any and all letters.

Dear Editor -

I am writing this letter as President of Animal Resource Fund. First, A.R.F appreciates all the loyal and dedicated foster care individuals who have been kind enough to take in an animal that had nowhere else to go. We have been doing this for seven years now, and never encountered a problem until now.

My understanding with all the area veterinarians has been this: I call ahead to the vet's office and tell them we are okaying the office visit and exam of the animal needing help. (This applies both to foster animals and individually owned animals that we are helping). I give the person's name, phone number, and a briefing on the animal needing medical attention. I inform them that the person will be calling, setting up an appointment.

When the animal has been seen by the vet, I am given a call back by the vet's office with an explanation of the situation and an estimate of cost of treatment. It is usually testing, medication, etc; something we will be able to afford. If the estimate turns out to be an amount beyond our means, we offer to pay an amount we feel we can manage, and work with the pet owner and the clinic to set up payments to the clinic by the pet owner. Actually, I believe this has happened only once, and we were able to work it out. No animal has ever been left without help by A.R.F.

I had no idea that any of the clinics were unaware of the procedure we have always had in place. All concerned parties now have a clear understanding.

No vet clinic will now accept a patient for A.R.F. without first clearing it with A.R.F. and been given the approval for payment by A.R.F.

We work very, very hard to make the money to fund these animal welfare programs, and feel both hurt and disappointed when trust has been broken.

Respectfully,
 Cory Campbell, President
 Animal Resource Fund

Smokey Bear turns 70 on August 9

MADISON - Smokey says he is ready for 70 more years of preventing wildfires as the star of the nation's longest-running public service advertising campaign. Who knows Smokey Bear? An Ad Council survey says 97 percent of adults know Smokey Bear and 3 out of 4 adults can recite (without hint or prompt) Smokey's most powerful message: "Only You Can Prevent Wildfires."

So powerful is that message fire experts say Smokey has helped reduce the number of acres lost every year to wildfires from roughly 22 million in 1944 (when Smokey started his campaign) to an average of 6.7 million annually today. Yet, Smokey's message remains as relevant today as 70 years ago because wildfire prevention remains a critical issue and people are still the number one cause of forest fires. Plus, as Smokey's birthday candles are being prepared, wildfire crews are working hard suppressing forest fires in the western United States.

Wisconsin's Department of Natural Resources recently sent a 20-person wildfire hand-crew of members from various government agencies to Boise, Idaho, to assist with the wildfire suppression efforts. Another 6-person DNR hand-crew also is on its way to the state of Oregon. They will become part of another 20-member wildfire hand-crew to assist with fire-fighting efforts in western states. Also, several single resources or overhead positions have been mobilized this past weekend to assist in the western fire situation.

"We are always prepared for the weather to take a turn for the worst, but if we do not find ourselves in a critical fire situation at home, we most certainly are willing to send resources to areas of the country in need," DNR Wildfire Prevention Specialist Catherine Koele says. "This is a two-way street. We send help to other states when requested. And, if we are facing needs in times of emergencies, we also will get that extra assistance in return."

Wisconsin's peak fire season typically occurs in the spring shortly after the snow-cover disappears. This also is the time landowners are outside conducting property clean-up and choosing to burn ground materials instead of composting or recycling.

"Many people think that lightning starts most wildfires. In fact, 9 out of 10 wildfires nationwide are started by humans," Koele said. "Wildfires sparked by humans in Wisconsin are most commonly caused by debris or trash burning on windy days. The easiest way to prevent these fires is to simply obtain a burn permit and follow the rules."

Other common wildfire causes include: campfires left unattended; disposing ashes from woodstoves or fireplaces; and operating hot equipment in dry grassy areas.

To commemorate Smokey's birthday, the DNR will be hosting several events at state parks, state forests, Wisconsin State Fair, DNR ranger stations and local fire departments. In addition, many libraries are conducting summer reading programs to help children understand the differences between good fires and bad fires.

Smokey is giving out bear hugs online, using #SmokeyBearHug. He's also directing fans to his website, www.smokeybear.com, Facebook, YouTube, Instagram, and Twitter for more information about wildfire prevention.

Senior Chatter

Sunscreen 101

Every time your skin tans or burns, it is damaged. As the damage builds, you speed up the aging of your skin and increase your risk for skin cancer.

Using sunscreen is the best way to protect your skin from sun rays. When choosing a sunscreen, knowing some basics will help.

Sunscreens contain filtering substances that reflect or absorb UV rays. Sunscreens generally use both organic and inorganic ingredients for better blocking. Always use a broad-spectrum sunscreen. Broad spectrum blocks UVA and UVB rays.

The FDA recommends using sunscreen with a minimum SPF of 15. Dermatologists favor SPF 30 sunscreens, which provide slightly more protection. Regardless, always apply sunscreen thoroughly and frequently when you're in the sun, especially if you're swimming or sweating. Sunscreens can be labeled "water resistant" if their labels instruct users to reapply after 40 or 80 minutes of swimming or sweating, immediately after towel drying and at least every two hours.

Using sunscreen can reduce your risk of melanoma skin cancer. Only broad-spectrum sunscreens with an SPF of 15 or higher can claim to reduce skin cancer or prevent early skin damage.

Wabeno volunteers set the stage for building the boardwalk and trail

WABENO—Volunteers gathered Saturday morning July 19th to prepare the 1st phase of the Boardwalk and Trail along the North Branch of the Oconto River in downtown Wabeno. Several residents pulled tag alder, pulled debris from the river and removed dead foliage and trees to create viewing areas and boardwalks along the barrier-free trail. Helping were John and Linda Harter, Ralph and Kathy McHugh, Kevin Jameson, Bruce Beck, Kaye Tallier, Biz McEwen, Mick Ashbeck, Larry Rummel and Nicolet Sportsman's Club members; Alan Pichotta, Doug Piontek, Harlen Brooks Jr., Steve Brooks, and Pat Harrison who spent their Saturday morning readying the shoreline for the Boardwalk and Trail. A nod to Aaron Nelson, Forest County DNR Fisheries Technician, for his work and guidance on protecting fish habitat.

Blackwell Job Corps participants will begin building the trail portion August 4th. After the trail is laid, volunteers will be needed to construct the boardwalks and build log benches along the trail. Donations of logs for sign posts and benches will be sought in early August, dimensions of which are still to be decided. If you are interested in volunteering or donating, please contact Mary Beck (608) 628-0757, mbeck@charter.net.

This first phase of the North Branch of the Oconto River Barrier Free Boardwalk is made possible by the generous support of the following private foundations; Christopher Reeve Foundation, Wisconsin Public Service Foundation, Plum Creek Timber Foundation and the Forest County Potawatomi Foundation plus the invaluable support of community volunteers and the Blackwell Job Corps.

*To Past Patients of Mine:
Thanks to all of you, who have allowed me to provide your medical care over the last 14 years. Thanks for your faithfulness in following me to new places of practice. I have gained many benefits from your confidence in me and in your friendship. I am retiring from primary care and will no longer be seeing patients. I am sorry for your inconvenience and wish your all the best of luck.*

County Cooperative Extension committee member honored

Jim Stormer recognized for 10 years of service

Pickerel, Wis. Jim Stormer of Pickerel was recognized recently for 10 years of service on the Forest County Agriculture and Extension Education Committee.

"Jim is an example of the successful relationship that we in Cooperative Extension have fostered with county board members and county government," said Richard Klemme, dean and director of Cooperative Extension, a division of the University of Wisconsin-Extension. "This strong partnership allows us to deliver educational programming to meet the needs of people in Forest County."

County governments work together with Cooperative Extension to provide local educational programs that address the lifelong learning needs of individuals, families and communities. Wisconsin residents get quick, convenient access to university research and knowledge through Cooperative Extension offices in every county and through staff on University of Wisconsin campuses. WACEC members advise Cooperative Extension about programs and encourage financial support for Cooperative Extension work.

For more information on UW-Extension programs, contact your county Cooperative Extension office or visit online at www.uwex.edu/ces.

We will be flushing the fire hydrants August 11th & 12th, 2014.

You may wish to draw water prior to our flushing dates and refrigerate it for drinking purposes.

During the flushing period your tap water can become discolored. Should you experience discoloration, please flush your water tap until the water runs clear. Hydrant flushing improves water quality.

Should you be interested, we invite you to observe the change in the initial, intermediate and final water quality from the hydrant during flushing. Hydrant flushing can increase water pressure, remove discolored water from the system and increase fire-fighting ability in various parts of our system. This exercise flushes pockets of stagnated water out of the water supply system and improves water quality not only in color, odor and taste but can also remove harmful constituents before they are able to develop. Thank you in advance for your patience during this time period. Should you have any concerns, we ask that you feel free to contact our office at 473-2905.

Antlerless deer tags available Monday, August 18

MADISON - Bonus antlerless deer carcass tags are available for purchase starting Monday, Aug. 18 at 10 a.m. Antlerless tags will be sold at a rate of one per person per day. Sales will continue until sold out or until the 2014 deer hunting season ends.

A list of units and tags available can be found at dnr.wi.gov.

Tags will be available for purchase through the Online Licensing Center and at DNR licensing sales locations.

Deer management unit boundaries have changed as a result of an extensive two-year review of Wisconsin's deer management program. Deer hunters are encouraged to check the 2014 deer management unit designations map and 2014 Wisconsin Deer Hunting Regulations booklet for information regarding management units.

To help hunters understand the antlerless tag purchasing process, the department is hosting an online bonus antlerless tags chat at noon on Tuesday, Aug. 12. DNR regulations experts will be on hand to answer all tag-related questions. For more information, visit dnr.wi.gov and search keyword "chat."

In 2014, antlerless carcass tags will be available in 55 county units. Each gun deer, archer and crossbow hunting license will include one antlerless tag. This antlerless tag will be valid in county units within the Central Farmland and Southern Farmland zones.

Those who wish to harvest an additional antlerless deer must purchase a unit and zone-specific bonus antlerless deer carcass tag ($12 for residents, $5 for 10 and 11 year-olds, and $20 for adult non-residents). These tags will be specific to public or private land - hunters will need to be aware of which land type they plan to hunt before purchasing an additional bonus antlerless tag.

Nineteen county units, in whole or portion, have been designated as buck only in 2014 to encourage herd growth. Antlerless tags will not be available for purchase in these units. However, qualified members of the U.S. Armed Forces home on furlough or leave, Class A and C disabled permit hunters, and youth hunters ages 10-17 will be allowed to harvest an antlerless deer in buck only units. Bonus tags for the Northern Forest and Central Forest zones will be available for purchase starting Monday, Aug. 18 at 10 a.m. Tags for the Central Farmland Zone will be available Aug. 19 at 10 a.m. Southern Farmland Zone tags will be available Aug. 20 at 10 a.m. All remaining tags will be available for purchase Aug. 21 at 10 a.m.

Those who purchase a 2014 deer hunting license before Aug. 18 can expedite the tag purchasing process, since hunters must obtain a deer hunting license before they can purchase a bonus antlerless tag.

Remaining tag numbers are updated daily. If a unit is not listed, no tags have been allotted for that unit in 2014. It is important to note that county units with low numbers of available tags will likely sell out quickly.

Hunters are encouraged to check out the frequently asked questions page for more information. The FAQ feature provides brief responses to a wide variety of deer hunting questions, ranging from deer management unit boundaries to antlerless permits.

Car-killed deer assessments shed light on deer nutritional condition

MADISON - Following a record-breaking harsh winter, a statewide effort to assess the condition of car-killed deer is helping researchers understand winter's impacts on Wisconsin's deer herd. This information is in addition to radio telemetry monitoring of deer over the last four years has that has also provided insight into winter's impacts on deer.

In general, deer populations in southern Wisconsin came through the winter in better condition than herds in the north, as indicated by fat stores, according to car-killed deer assessments conducted by Department of Natural Resources wildlife officials. This finding coincides with field observations from DNR wildlife biologists throughout the state and reports from the public.

This spring, 522 deer were sampled statewide during a period when fat reserves were at their lowest point of the year. Local wildlife biologists inspected and gathered data from deer that were killed in vehicular collisions to evaluate pregnancy rate and fat stores at various points within the deer carcass, including the rump, around the heart and kidneys and in the bone marrow.

"Last January, we heard a lot of concerns about the potential winter impacts on the deer herd," said Dan Storm, a DNR research ecologist. "From our radio-collared deer studies, we've learned a lot about how winter impacts our northern deer, but we didn't have similar projects in the southern half of the state. Our research and wildlife staff quickly put a plan in place to look at car-killed deer. This was a very inexpensive and informative way for us to monitor winter impacts on deer throughout the state."

Fat stores are a key indicator of nutritional condition as deer rely on these reserves, accumulated during summer and fall, to survive winter. Does with more fat are able to provide better care to their newborns, which increases survival and is important to herd growth rates - fawn survival is closely linked to doe nutritional condition.

In the southern portion of the state, 40 percent of adult deer sampled had rump fat, while rump fat was present in only 14 percent of adult deer sampled in the north. A greater proportion of deer in the north had little or no organ fat, as opposed to deer in the south. Similarly, bone marrow condition was better in the south than the north, and adults were more likely to have fatty marrow than juveniles in both the north and south.

Regardless of where in the state deer in the study were collected, the evaluations revealed that nearly all adult does were pregnant. "Pregnancy rates among adult does were greater than 90 percent across the state, even in the northern forest," said Storm. "We wouldn't expect the severe winter to impact this year's pregnancy rates, because the deer became pregnant before winter began." However, Storm did indicate that pregnancy rates of the youngest deer will probably be impacted this coming fall. While adult pregnancy rates did not differ between regions of the state, pregnancy rates of juvenile deer approaching their first birthday and the average number of fawns being carried were found to be quite different from north to south and between major habitat types throughout the state.

"The rate of adults carrying twins exceeded 60 percent in both the central and southern farmland zones, while the rate of single fawns for these zones was approximately 9 percent," said Storm. "In contrast, fewer does in the northern forest zone were pregnant with twins and many were carrying a single fawn."

Juvenile does (under one year old) exhibited much lower pregnancy rates than adult does. Less than 10 percent of juveniles in the northern forest and nearly 20 percent in the central farmland zone were pregnant. Differences in litter size between the farmland and forest zones likely reflected differences in habitat productivity and the late spring experienced in 2013 in the Northern Forest Zone. A late spring limits the food supply available to deer, which in turn limits the amount of resources deer can use to create offspring.

Randy Robison, on the left, Ray Hoffman, center, and Dave Bula told about the old days of the moonshine business to those that came down the trail and found the still. Of course, Ray Hoffman was always a teetotaler and could only talk about the experiences of others. Right Ray?

Look, in the window! Is this a ghost of one of the Mecikalski women in the living area of the Stovewood Building? Naw, it's just Nancy Bauknecht wearing appropriate period dress, who volunteered to spend her afternoon chatting with the visitors about the antique articles on display upstairs.

Stovewood Daze another great day with friends & families

By Mike Monte

A trip to Jennings for Stovewood Daze is always worth the ride. This event isn't a wild and raucous time, but it is a pleasant trip to yesteryear, a great time to meet old friends and a time to contemplate the lives of the pioneer families who came north to find a better life and built places like the Mecikalski Stovewood Buildings and communities in the woods like Jennings. And, I haven't forgotten the great food served at this event. Chef Donnie Sparks does a great job roasting a pig, and this year, he did two, just to make sure they didn't run out of grub. It is delicious, and so are the offerings at the bake sale.

A moonshine still was discovered in the woods behind the building. It was obviously built close to the saloons so there wouldn't be a transportation problem. Randy Robison and Dave Bula were caught redhanded by numerous visitors to the event, so they explained how corn was turned into a potent liquid that was used to "nourish" the loggers and farmers in the area.

This is a great time to be an eavesdropper. It is enjoyable to listen to an older family member with roots to Jennings and the sister town of Lennox point out the great grandfathers and grandmothers to a member of the family that is a couple of generations younger, or talk of events that happened when they were a kid in Jennings or the surrounding area.

If you want to visit the Stovewood Building, it is open on Saturday and Sunday 1-4:00 p.m. until September 7th. If you stop during the week, check the names and phone numbers on the door, give a call and someone will come and give you the tour!

Some roast pork, potato salad and beans kept stomachs from rumbling, and the Sprechers Root Beer hit the spot too.

FOR SALE: Three Oak twin size platform beds with mattresses. Bookcase headboards and two drawers in base. Asking $200 each or all three for $500 or best offer. Cash only and buyer must pick up. Call (715)-649-3269 or (715)-902-134. If no answer, please leave a message. P18

Vintage cars, trucks, tractors and engines are always on display at Stovewood Daze.

This young bar tender in old Mecikalski Saloon plays a mean honky tonk piano. Of course, it is an old player piano, and all he had to do was pump the piano and the roll did the rest.
