Laona School Referendum

Submitted by Laona School District

The School District of Laona Board of Education will ask taxpayers to pass a four year non-recurring operating referendum in the upcoming election on April 7, 2015. The District currently has two referendums that will expire in the next two consecutive years. The proposed referendum will not increase the amount of money taxpayers are paying, but maintain it at our current rate. A property valued at $100,000 pays $415 per year or $34.58 per month under both our current referendums and the proposed one.

The District currently has two community approved referendums in place that are providing $559,000 per year of additional revenue outside the revenue limit. The first one was approved in May of 1995 for 2.2 million to cover building costs. The second was approved in November of 2010 for $350,000 per year to exceed the revenue limit. Within the next two years, both referendums will expire. At the end of this school year, the building debt will expire and reduce revenue by $209,000. At the end of the next school year, the non-recurring operating referendum will expire reducing revenue by an additional $350,000.

Ruffed Grouse Society supports new Great Lakes Region wildlife habitat effort

Over 20 Agencies and Organizations Partner in Effort

The Ruffed Grouse Society (RGS) and its sister organization, the American Woodcock Society (AWS), are partners in a large forest management and habitat conservation effort that will target improvements on approximately 64,000 acres of key habitat in the Great Lakes states of Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin. This $10 million, tri-state project is part of a new Regional Conservation Partnership Program (RCPP) announced on January 15 by U.S. Department of Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack under the oversight of the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS).

The Great Lakes regional project begins in 2015 with funding available through 2019. The project will be managed in partnership between NRCS and American Bird Conservancy (ABC) and is complemented by work being conducted on public lands by approximately 25 partner organizations including RGS and AWS.

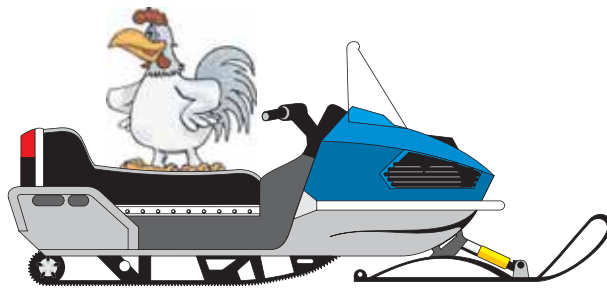

Targeted for young forest-related wildlife species that have had long-term population declines, this major partnership is expected to aid conservation efforts for approximately 20 wildlife species such as American woodcock, ruffed grouse, golden-winged warbler (GWWA), black-billed cuckoo, moose, Canada lynx, and northern long-eared bat.

"RGS has been at the forefront in the fight to provide critical young forest habitat across the Eastern United States for over 50 years," states RGS and AWS President and CEO John Eichinger. "We look forward to working together as a significant partner in this project, providing both funding and technical assistance through our biological staff to help with these efforts." RGS and AWS have pledged approximately $120,000 in funds and biologist's time to this project and will restore an additional 400 acres of young forest habitat in the three states.

The GWWA, which depends on the conservation of key habitat in Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin for breeding, has suffered one of the steepest population declines of any songbird species with a decline of more than three percent annually over the last 40 years across its range. That decline is due primarily to habitat loss, particularly the loss of early successional or "young" forest habitat as existing forests mature or are converted to non-forest uses.

"Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin have the largest remaining breeding population of the GWWA, and habitat management actions there are considered critical to rebuilding populations rapidly," said Dr. George Fenwick, President of American Bird Conservancy, which has been a national leader on the warbler's conservation. "This is the poster-bird for recovery of early successional forest habitat and one that we are proud to contribute to saving for generations of Americans to come."

Funding for this program will provide technical support to private landowners whose properties lie within designated focal areas, helping them develop and implement conservation management plans for their land. Similar to other NRCS programs, financial assistance will be available to qualifying landowners. Prescribed management practices may include aspen management, timber improvement and shrubland restoration.

Early surveillance reveals positive test for the fungus that causes white-nose syndrome

MADISON - Early winter surveillance of 15 caves revealed that two bats in a single Dane County cave tested positive for genetic markers of the fungus that causes white-nose syndrome.

Swabs taken from two eastern pipistrelles from a single site in November 2014 tested positive for the fungus Pseudogymnoascus destructans (Pd), which causes white-nose syndrome in hibernating bats. This find represents both a new county and a new bat species infected with Pd in Wisconsin. The site where Pd was detected was not Cave of the Mounds, a popular show cave located in Dane County.

"The upper Midwestern states, including Wisconsin, are the last remaining stronghold for the hibernating bats that are susceptible to white-nose syndrome. While researchers continue to work to find an effective treatment for the disease, it is critical that we do all we can to slow the spread of the fungus," said Owen Boyle, DNR species management section chief. "The recent findings reinforce the need for individuals who visit caves or mines to remain vigilant in properly decontaminating items and clothing to ensure the fungus isn't inadvertently spread by people."

Despite the detection of the fungus, there are currently no observed clinical or field signs of white-nose syndrome at the collection site. Bat surveillance crews will return to the cave in March to look for signs of white-nose syndrome. Final results of this hibernation season's surveillance and monitoring will be available later this spring.

White-nose syndrome was first detected in Wisconsin in a Grant County mine in March of 2014, when results from visual inspection and genetic and tissue tests showed that 2 percent of bats in the single site had the disease.

White-nose syndrome is a deadly bat disease that causes hibernating bats to frequently wake, depleting their energy and causing them to starve and dehydrate or die of exposure before the end of winter. The infection does not affect people or other animal species. According to Boyle, the best way to reduce stress and mortality on these sensitive populations is to avoid disturbing bats during hibernation.

Next steps in ongoing efforts to save bats

Cave and mine owners, advisory groups and hibernacula landowners were notified by DNR of the early winter surveillance findings. Efforts to control the human-assisted transmission of the fungus remain in place, including strict decontamination for researchers and DNR personnel and screening of commercial cave and mine visitors. Every hibernaculum owner who allows visitors to their site has a white-nose syndrome prevention plan in place.

The DNR has been actively exploring effective management strategies and continues to monitor bat populations and conduct research to fill information gaps. Through two citizen-based monitoring projects, volunteers are helping to gather crucial data on bat population trends.

Wisconsin citizens can help by continuing to avoid disturbing bats, especially during hibernation; by following all decontamination requirements for those who enter caves or mines and by continuing to volunteer to monitor bat populations in Wisconsin.

People who see sick or dead bats, especially between October and March, are encouraged to report them to DNR. Citizens can find the reporting form and instructions for how to safely collect carcasses of dead bats on DNR's Wisconsin Bat Program website.

More information on saving Wisconsin bats is available by searching the DNR website, dnr.wi.gov, for keyword "bats."

Early snowmobile season accidents are reminders of following too close dangers

EDITOR'S ADVISORY: This news release has been updated to reflect snowmobile fatalities in Wisconsin for the winter of 2014-15 have now risen to seven, with the death of an individual who died from injuries sustained in a snowmobile incident several days ago.

MADISON - Minimal snowfall in the southern third of Wisconsin has snowmobilers heading north to popular trails where officials remind operators snowmobiles are like cars in that following too close may have unintended consequences.

Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources Snowmobile Administrator Gary Eddy says two of this snowmobile season's seven fatalities occurred after the individual fell off the snowmobile and was struck by a following snowmobile.

The Wisconsin Snowmobile Education Course states traveling 15 miles per hour may require a reaction distance of more than 50 feet and a braking distance to close to 100 feet. A snowmobile operator traveling 60 mph may need about 260 feet of reaction time and another 300 feet to brake taking the total distance needed to just under 600 feet.

Eddy says these calculations will change with other factors such as vehicle condition, trail conditions, amount of light and operator condition.

Another factor so far this year may be trail congestion in a small strip of northern Wisconsin where sufficient snow fall has allowed trails to open.

"Trail conditions can deteriorate or become icy, especially in corners or at road crossings. The trails can become more congested and passing oncoming snowmobiles occurs more frequently," Eddy says.

Frozen waterways require snowmobiler safety awareness

Snowmobilers in other parts of the state may choose to take to the frozen waterways which bring its own set of hazards. Lack of adequate snow on the ice affects steering, braking and overall control. Some lakes and rivers may have open or notoriously bad spots for ice.

Riders should use a high degree of caution while traveling on the ice and should always check ice conditions with local law enforcement or bait shops. Carry or wear a personal flotation device, always ride with a companion and refrain from riding at night.

Eddy makes the following recommendations to help everyone have a safe and enjoyable time on the trails: Practice "Zero Alcohol" which is a personal choice to refrain from drinking any alcoholic beverages until you are done operating any motorized vehicle for the day or night and are back at your cabin, hotel or other lodging establishment. With more snowmobile traffic on the trail, the last thing you want to do is slow your reaction time down or make a poor decision.

Ride defensively, under control and with a safety mindset. Watch out for other snowmobile and motor vehicle traffic. Be prepared for trail hazards like icy corners, bumps or uneven sections.

Always stay to the right side of the trail, especially in corners. The trails are public; never ride like there is no one else coming.

Be courteous and safe while riding in a group. Pull over at a safe location and let faster traffic pass. Faster traffic should also pass only at safe locations, at courteous speeds and distances.

Always come to a complete stop at all stop signs and road crossings and yield to motor vehicle traffic. Each snowmobile in a group must come to a complete stop prior to crossing a road. Never wave or allow someone to wave snowmobiles across a road. Each snowmobile should stop, look both ways and cross only when they know it's safe.

Take a Snowmobile Safety Education Course. All riders at least age 12 and born on or after January 1, 1985 are required to complete a course before they can legally operate. That means anyone turning age 30 after January 1, 2015 is required to hold a valid safety certificate to legally operate. Riders age 16 and older may complete the course over the internet. Riders younger than that must complete the course in a class room setting.

For more safety tips, information on safety classes or to view a copy of the snowmobile regulations, search the Wisconsin DNR website, dnr.wi.gov, and search keyword "snowmobile."

Maple Syrup program at Florence Natural Resource and Wild Rivers Interpretive Center

An International program on maple syrup techniques will be held on Thursday, February 5th, 2015 at the Florence Natural Resource and Wild Rivers Interpretive Center. Our panel of experts is Fred Hedmark and Ernie D'Agastino.

These two men are maple syrup producers of varying production, so we will have all levels of production present from small to very big. Both men have been making maple syrup their entire life and are vastly knowledgeable in the production of maple syrup. Hedmark's Maple Ridge, who is a maple supplies dealer, will also have maple equipment and supplies on display and for sale. This program should be of interest to those considering making maple syrup, those who want to compare experience and techniques and to those curious about the process of obtaining this tasty and necessary pancake product

If you would like to learn more about maple syruping, please join us! The program will be held from 6:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. in the lower level conference room at the Florence Natural Resource and Wild Rivers Interpretive Center located on the corner of U.S. 2 and Highway 101/70 in Florence.

The Environmental Stewardship Program Series are put on by the Friends of the Wild Rivers Interpretive Center and are open to the public and free of charge.

For more information on this or any programs, contact Lori Moore in the Florence Natural Resource and Interpretive Center at (715) 528-5377.

Tips to Save Energy (and Money) During Cold Weather Months

After the (in)famous winter of 2013's sub-zero temperatures, polar vortices and sky-high energy bills, winter and more freezing temperatures have seemingly returned to Wisconsin a month early. To help keep energy costs low and save money for what may be a long cold season, the following tips are useful in managing energy usage.

Heating

- Lower your thermostat at night and when the house is unoccupied. Lowering the thermostat by 5 degrees at night may reduce heating bills by 5-10%.
- Change the furnace filter each month. The dirtier they are, the harder a furnace needs to work. Close off and do not heat unoccupied rooms.
- Use electric space heaters sparingly and keep materials away that may catch fire.
- Keep any fireplace damper closed unless a fire is going. Keeping the damper open is like keeping a window open, as it allows warm air to escape through the chimney.
- Remove any window air conditioners and close and seal the windows.
- Cover the windows with plastic during the cold season.
- Block any drafts or air paths under or around the edges of doors or windows.

Lighting

- Replace incandescent light bulbs with compact fluorescent lamps, especially in the most commonly used fixtures.
- Compact fluorescent lamps use a quarter of the energy of a standard incandescent bulb.
- Reduce the wattage of remaining bulbs, if replacing all bulbs is not an option.
- Use LED-type lights for holiday decorations, as they cost less to operate than standard holiday lights.
- Turn off any lights when not in use or when out of the room for more than five minutes.

Water Usage

- Turn down the water heater to 120 degrees or the "normal" setting when home, and to the lowest setting when away. Water heating accounts for approximately 13% of home energy costs.
- Install low-flow faucets and shower heads.
- Promptly repair leaky faucets, as this will prevent the waste of gallons of water in even a short time.
- When purchasing new appliances, purchase efficient, Energy Star-rated items if possible.

Oughton family donates $1000
to Townsend
Town Park

Submitted by Kathleen Marsh

Town chairman Bruce Karow announced at the January Townsend Town Board meeting that Illinois residents Barbara and Ray (Bud) Oughton Jr. have sent the Town a check for $1000 to be used for Oughton Park on Pickerel Lake. This is the backstory to the donation.

In 2013 Kathleen Marie Marsh was working on her history of the township called The Truth About Townsend III: Bust to Boomers. While reading Town Board minutes from 1960, she came across an entry detailing the donation of land and playground equipment for a public park given by "Ray Oughton and Family". She remembered seeing a sign at the park "Donated by the Ray Oughton Family" and wanted to include Mrs. Oughton's first name in the book. She asked around and no one had any idea what it was. When she checked online at People Search, she found a listing for Ray Oughton Jr., Woodstock, Illinois. She crossed her fingers and dialed the number. No one answered, but she left a message on the generic voicemail response. After not hearing back for weeks, she thought it was a wrong number and gave up. Then one night a very apologetic Ray called. He and Barb had been away on one of their many trips and had just gotten her message.

"We had a wonderful chat," Marsh says. "I told him how much I love the park, how beautiful the site is, and how it was almost lost in a land trade in the 1960s, but residents valued it so much they refused the deal. I added that there is a public boat landing there, and that on weekends families picnic on the grounds. I added that the McCaslin Lions had built a very nice shelter there some years back which is used for family reunions and community gatherings."

Eighty-year-old Bud says he was delighted by their conversation: "I hadn't been to Townsend in over 50 years, but I remembered my folks had donated land for a park before they sold their cottage and moved away. I wondered what happened to it and assumed it was long gone. I also thought Townsend was pretty much the same as the last time I was there in the 1960s. When Kathleen told me that was definitely not the case and invited me to see for myself, I knew I had to go. Barb and I drove up the first weekend of October. We got the full "up north experience" by staying at Lee and Bev Gerndt's cute and cozy northwoods rental cabin in Townsend. We drove around to the few places still there that I recall, explored the park, ate at the Old Town Hall and Hillcrest, and got front row seats at the Red Light Saloon Show on Saturday night. We had a really great time.

"When we got home, Barb and I decided we wanted to send the Town a donation designated for Oughton Park. I know my folks, Ray and Lucille, would be happy to know that their generosity is remembered after all these years, and that the park is being put to such good use."

Condolences for the family may be left at weberhillfuneralhome.com. The family would like to thank the staff at NuRoc Community Healthcare Center for their special care and kindness shown during their dad's stay.

Lillian M. Breeden, 91, of Wabeno, passed away on Saturday, January 17, 2015, at Nu-Roc Community Healthcare Center in Blackwell. She was born on August 22, 1923, in the Town of Norrie, to John and Katherine (Groshek) Tomski.

Mrs. Breeden graduated from the Antigo High School. She was the first in her family to make that accomplishment. The former Lillian Tomski married James Breeden on September 6, 1944, in Fort Myers, FL, where he was stationed; he preceded her in death on August 22, 2013. During WWII Lillian worked in Milwaukee at a factory making super chargers for fighter jets. When the war ended the family began dairy farming until 1978 when they switched to veal farming. They retired in 1996. Lillian enjoyed making crafts and volunteering at the Senior Snoop Shop. She was a 4H leader and also sold Avon. She was a member of St. Ambrose Catholic Church in Wabeno, and taught CCD classes out of her home.

Lillian is survived by three sons, James (Mary) of Mosinee, Chuck (Yvonne) of Wabeno, and Daniel of La Crescent, MN, and two daughters, Deborah Miller of Onalaska, and Laura Breeden of Victorville, CA. She is further survived by 12 grandchildren, 20 great-grandchildren, and sister-in-laws Erna and Adeline Tomski of Kempster. She was preceded in death by her husband, son Gregory, three brothers, and five sisters.

Funeral Services for Lillian will be held on Thursday January 22 at 11:00 a.m. at St. Ambrose Catholic Church in Wabeno. Visitation will be from 9:00 am until the time of service at the church. Burial will be in the Elcho Cemetery. Weber-Hill Funeral Home is assisting the family with arrangements.

Eunice E. Samz (Thompson, Gilmore), 99, of Crandon, passed away on Monday, January 19, 2015 at the AGI Healthcare Center in Crandon. She was born in Crandon on September 12, 1915 to Peter and Melita (Langemack) Thompson.

Eunice married Ervin Gilmore on July 11, 1936; he preceded her in death on November 10, 1972. On November 6, 1976, she married Alloys Samz; he preceded her in death on September 30, 2001. Eunice learned shorthand and was able to get jobs with local lawyers because of it. She also worked at the bank in Crandon, A&P store, Ella Sparks' clothing store and as a secretary for the Crandon School District, where she retired from in 1977. She enjoyed traveling playing cards, camping and crossword puzzles.

Eunice is survived by four children, Tom (Barb) Gilmore of Wauwatosa, Bill (Janet) Gilmore of Crandon, Jim Gilmore of Crandon and Susan (Frank) Mitchell of Racine; step-children, Pat Schneider of Wausau, Al (Janine) Samz of Rhinelander, David (Kay) Samz of Rhinelander, Paul (Connie) Samz of Rhinelander, Kris (Bill) Maney of Sugar Camp, Mary (Dennis) Richmond of Schofield, Cindy (Stanley) Pryor of Gaastra, MI, Sharon Flannery of Argonne and Penny (Gary) Long of Three Lakes; step-son-in-law, William Graffron of Three Lakes and many grandchildren; great-grandchildren; and great-great-grandchildren. She is further survived by many nieces, nephews, other family and friends.

She was preceded in death by her parents, Melita and Peter; husbands, Ervin and Alloys; sisters, Althea Ison, Pearl Schalegar and Carolyn Hill; twin brother, Edward; brothers, Pete and Willmore Thompson and step-daughter, Carol Graffron.

Honoring Eunice as pallbearers will be Jeff Gilmore, David Gilmore, Edmund Gilmore, Joe Secanky, Jake Dobrzynski and Julie Gilmore.

Visitation will be held on Monday, January 26 from 9 to 11 a.m. at St. Luke's United Methodist Church in Crandon. Funeral Service will follow at 11 a.m. with Pastor Richard Rogers officiating. Interment will be in the Crandon Lakeside Cemetery. Weber-Hill Funeral Home is assisting the family. Condolences to the family may be left at www.weberhillfuneralhome.com.

The family would like to thank the staff at the AGI Healthcare Center for the excellent care that was given to Eunice.

Letters to the Editor

We welcome letter to the Editor; however the letters should be legible, in good taste, not libelous and pertinent to current issues. Names will not be withheld upon request, except for very special circumstances. NAME AND PHONE NUMBER SHOULD BE INCLUDED FOR VERIFICATION PURPOSES. We reserve the right to reject any and all letters.

To the Editor:

On December 19th, 2014, a U.S. District Court Judge overturned the November 2011 decision by the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service which had removed the Gray Wolf in the Western Great Lakes from the Endangered Species List. This is a huge problem for Wisconsin and the Federal Judge's decision must be reversed.

I believe this ruling will either be reversed or Congress will act to de-list the Wolf and give management back to the Wisconsin DNR. When this happens I do have some concerns and I am increasingly concerned that prominent Wildlife Organizations and the DNR are considering raising the minimum wolf count above the 350 wolves in Wisconsin. While the DNR claims there was a reduction in wolf numbers in the Annual 2014 count, outdoors men & women see no signs of the reduction in numbers, in fact, they see a large increase.

Like most sportsmen and women, I prefer the Legislature to not set harvest goals, bag limits, etc. However, we will have no choice but to go to the Legislature if some in the DNR, the University of Wisconsin and some Wildlife Organizations persist in their efforts to increase the wolf population in Wisconsin to lofty levels.

We were told, twenty-seven years ago, the wolf goal should be 80 in Wisconsin. As their numbers blew through the goal of 80, now some say 350 is not enough. Let's be honest, there are not 350 wolves in Wisconsin. Their numbers are clearly North of 1500 and growing. Unfortunately, it may be time for the Legislature to act.

If some fine folks in Wisconsin want wolves so bad, we would be happy to help live trap and transport the magnificent creatures to your county. Would it change the direction the DNR, pro-wolf advocates, the USFS and some in the Wisconsin Conservation Congress want to go if we released these live trapped wolves in your county? Maybe, but I doubt it.

One thing for sure, it would have a huge impact on those who believe wolves do not need to be managed, when they are in their backyard feeding on their deer herd, Fido, Tabby and domestic livestock.

Joint Replacement: Should You Delay?

For the right patients, joint replacements can be life changing. It is relatively safe and effective but not without risks, and recovery can take weeks. Even if you meet the medical requirements for joint replacement, here are some reasons you may want to delay or avoid the procedure:

Have you tried less invasive treatments? Ask your health care provider about possible non-surgical methods.

Have you tried losing weight? For every pound you gain, you add pressure on your knees, hips and feet. If you have arthritis, losing just 15 pounds can significantly reduce knee and lower back pain. Tip: Proper exercise is essential for weight control and joint health; even if you have tender joints, you can still exercise and strengthen the muscles surrounding your joints.

Can you postpone? The average joint implant only lasts 10 to 15 years, according to Dr. Scott Martin, associate professor of orthopedic surgery at Harvard Medical School. Many patients are seeking replacement earlier in life. But having the procedure done at age 50 instead of 70, for example, could mean a second procedure when you're older.

Dr. Martin's bottom line: "Stick with your own joint if you can, but if it's physically, mentally and emotionally wearing you down, then it's time to consider joint replacement."

Five important steps for Marketplace enrollees

Mary Agnes Cary recently published a very helpful five step checklist on Kaiser Health News for new and already enrolled individuals looking at Marketplace insurance. The relevant portions of the article are below and can be found on KaiserHealthNews.org.

1. Shop Around. Just because you're enrolled in a policy now doesn't mean it's the best deal for you next year. If you're currently in the federal Marketplace and don't take any action, you'll be re-enrolled in the same plan you're in now. Federal officials, as well as many analysts, are urging consumers to go back to the exchanges to compare plans and prices. You might discover that you have more -- or different -- choices than you had a year ago.
2. Don't Get Billed Twice. Insurers have expressed concerns that if a consumer changes plans, problems with the federal website might keep insurers from learning of the change and consumers could get billed for both plans. Keep your proof of payment to answer any billing questions. Further, once you've cancelled the old policy, watch your credit card statements or, if the payment was deducted directly from a bank account, watch those charges to make sure you aren't paying for two policies. And don't cancel your current insurance until you have confirmation from your new carrier that you're covered.

3. Find Out If You Qualify For Financial Help. Enter your most up-to-date income information on healthcare.gov or with your state exchange to see if you are entitled to receive a tax credit toward the cost of your health insurance. Even if you are like the majority of those enrolling in marketplace plans who receive a subsidy, update your income to make sure you get the correct amount next year. This is important because if you get too much of a subsidy, you'll have to repay it when you file your taxes the following year.
4. Know All Costs. It's not just the monthly premium that will cost you. Understand a policy's out-of-pocket costs -- like co-pays, co-insurance and deductibles -- before you enroll. The health law allows out-of-pocket maximum caps of $6,600 for an individual policy and $13,200 for a family policy in 2015, but some of your health care expenses -- including out-of-network care -- might not be included in that cap.
5. Get Help If You Need It. Confused? There are several ways to get help. Work with a local insurance agent or broker. Find one of the law's trained navigator or assistants. Or call the federal consumer assistance center at (800) 318-2596 for extra help or to find out if you are eligible for a subsidy. Folks there can also help you enroll in a health plan or in Medicaid -- the federal-state program for low-income people -- if you qualify.

Even with the measures the District has already taken to reduce costs, once these referendums expire, the District will face a significant gap between revenue and expenses. The school district's revenue limit set by the state will not cover current programming. Under the current state formula, the school district's declining enrollment will not bring in enough revenue to cover our educational needs. Referendums are the only method allowed by law for districts to seek additional revenues. While all students can learn, the District needs adequate financial resources to continue our quality programming that will give all students the best chance to be successful.

The District has three priorities with this referendum. They are as follows:

- 1) After this year, we will have $388,000 in unfunded liability debt. We will use $108,000 per year to pay off this debt by the end of this four year referendum. This will allow the district to be debt free by 2018-19.
- 2) To continue to provide the current academic programs, the primary goal is to keep class sizes smaller using technology to provide academic programming specific to student needs.
- 3) To decrease the gap between revenue and expenses so we can decrease the amount needed to be taken from fund balance to $50,000 - $70,000 per each year of the referendum. We will do this by decreasing the gap between our revenue and expenses by $100,000 each year of the projected referendum.

The District will be holding four informational meetings for residents to ask questions and learn more about the referendum. You can also visit the district website at www.laona.k12.wi.us for information or fill out a form at our website if you have specific questions. We will try to get all questions answered within 24 hours of submission.

Date of Information Meetings:

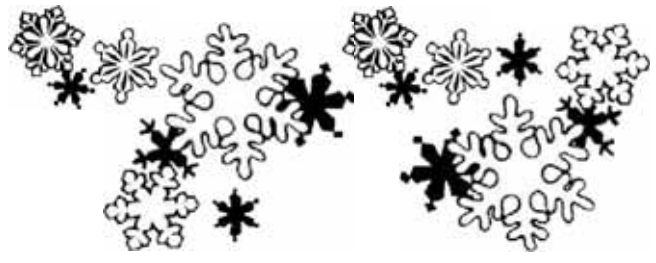

- January 29th - Laona School Library - 6:00 p.m.
- February 10th - Newald/Popple River - Newald Town Hall - 6:00 p.m.
- February 28th - Cavour Town Hall - Noon
- March 11th - Laona Community Building 2:00 p.m.
- April 1st - Laona School Library 6:00 p.m.

It is believed that booyah is derived from the French words for "to boil" (bouillir) and "broth" (bouillon). However, how the word booyah came into common use is due to a spelling error.

A story reported in the Green Bay Press-Gazette in 1976 tells of a teacher holding a community picnic fundraiser for his school which would feature a traditional Belgian soup as the main dish. When the teacher went to the newspaper for publicity for the event, the teacher told the reporter that the picnic would feature bouillon. However the reporter was not familiar with this French word and spelt it as he heard it pronounced, booyah. The spelling error ran in the newspaper and the word booyah became a common term for the soup.

It just goes to show you that before spell check was invented, so were some new words.

Ministry Weight Management rated as the nation's #2 Best Diet for Weight-Loss

Woodruff, Wis. (January, 2015) - A program offered by Ministry Weight Management and created by HMR Weight Management Services (HMR) has been named the No. 2 Best Weight-Loss Diet in U.S. News & World Reports' Best Diets of 2015. The ranking was based on both short and long-term weight-loss ratings of the HMR Program.

HMR's programs focus on integrating diet, physical activity and healthy lifestyle skills through weekly coaching. This is the first time that HMR's diet program has been included in the annual rankings list. HMR was evaluated against 34 other diets in categories including easiness to follow, ability to produce short and long-term weight loss, nutritional completeness, safety, and potential to prevent and manage diabetes and heart disease.

During the ranking process, reporters and editors from U.S. News & World Report created in-depth profiles of each diet, and a panel of nationally recognized experts on diet, nutrition, obesity, food psychology, diabetes and heart disease rated the diets and their effectiveness.

Ministry Weight Management has offered the HMR program since 2007 to community members who are interested in losing weight.

"We are pleased that HMR's weight-loss program which we offer at Ministry Weight Management has been recognized by U.S. News & World Report as one of the most effective diets for weight loss," says Pam Morton, program coordinator, Ministry Weight Management. "The program is effective at helping our patients achieve weight loss, which can result in improvement in risk factors for the development of conditions such as diabetes and high blood pressure. The weight loss may also lead to a decrease in the need for medications for some individuals who have developed these conditions."

The HMR program is available in hospitals and medical centers or can be used by participants at home. Studies have demonstrated the effectiveness of the HMR program in supporting weight loss. Research shows 47 lbs. average weight loss for a mix of HMR Decision-Free® and Healthy Solutions® clinic patients with a BMI of 40 or greater who completed the program for at least 12 weeks.

Anybody who burns the candle at both ends is probably trying to read the menu.

Most flatfish lie down on their left side. This makes them right handed (finned) The Pacific sand dab is one of the few that lies down on the other side. This makes it left-handed.

There are even a few sea shells that curve left-handedly. They are prized by collectors.
