McCaslin Lioness Swim Program

The McCaslin Lioness Children's Swim Program will be July 6 through 10 and July 13 through 17, 2015.

This program promotes a safe, fun and healthy respect for water by teaching our area youth the basic fundamentals of the major swim strokes in conjunction with a reasonable level of common sense and safety while on, in and near the water.

Children should be at least five years of age. Lessons will be held from 10-11:30 a.m. at Wheeler Lake Public Beach. Children will be placed in one of three groups, according to ability. Contact Tami Goetz at 920-373-4535 with any questions or concerns.

Registration forms are available at local banks in Wabeno, Lakewood, Townsend, and Mountain as well as the Lakewood Public Library.

In the Northwoods, surrounded by lakes, everyone should know how to swim!

Crandon International Raceway hosts record crowd for Londerville Super Challenge

The weekend's big winner was Jason and Andy Shipman from Farmington, Missouri. With veteran rock racer Jason behind the wheel of this W.E. Rock 4400 class vehicle, the team repeated as winners of the prestigious Branik Cup. They took home a prize of $10,000 and a beautiful custom trophy for their victorious effort. (Chris Hord image)

With the last snippets of a brutal winter now a distant memory, warm, sunny skies and an all-day, jam-packed schedule of racing greeted a huge crowd on hand for Saturday's 3rd annual "Londerville Super Challenge Off-Road Weekend" at Crandon International Off-Road Raceway.

After three years of growth, the third "major" event in Crandon International's summer racing series set attendance and participation records for the all-encompassing, dirt-filled event. The track, known affectionately as the "Big House," promoted a kaleidoscope of off-road disciplines utilizing different configurations of the 400-acre facility located in the picturesque Wisconsin northwoods. While officials did not release final attendance figures, they were confident that the event had "doubled in size" since last year's running of the unique competition.

The first race on Saturday's schedule for the Crandon Sportsman Series was for the 1600 Light Buggy class. Representing the largest class of the day, 21 entries fought to take the year's first checkered flag. In the end, #201 Greg Stingle took a flag-to-flag victory with a great battle going on behind him between Matt Mullen and Todd Lemke.

Race 2 combined the Classix and Stock Truck classes. #613 Dale Chestnut beat #601 Bill Wilson and #655 Galen Gee in Classix and for the top three overall positions. The Stock Truck class was won by #520 Brad Milan, with #593 Diesel Shanak and #573 Lon Jaskie coming in second and third.

The ultra-fast Super Buggy class was next, with Rodney Vaneperen putting on a driving clinic in Super Buggy, piloting his #45 car to a first place finish. Number 22 Herman Barnum was in the mix early but suffered the worst roll of the morning. He kept going, thanks to the immediate assistance from the Crandon Track Safety Crew. Crandon veteran Scott Schwalbe took second, with his son, #2 Ryan Schwalbe, right behind in third.

A field of thirteen 1600 Single Buggies cars took the green flag for the 12-lap race, with a tight fight for the opening laps. 2014 Crandon World Champion #331 Mark Steinhardt had to battle with West Coast veteran racer #312 Bruce Fraley (from Las Vegas) after Steinhardt got the hole shot. Hailing from nearby Rhinelander, Steinhardt maintained his pace for the win. Fraley took second and #326 Rob Kinner took third.

The growing crowd was enjoying the midday sun as the 7- to 12-year-old kids in the Crandon Short Course Karts took the green flag. These tiny trucks run under strict safety and competition regulations and are a fan favorite. A slight incident off the start held up 2014 class champion #77 Carter Vanden Heuvel, while an ultra smooth Owen Vaneperen copied his Super Buggy-winning father, Rodney, in taking the win. Gage Garvin took the runner-up spot, with Zack Wirhanowiz in third.

Crandon's Limited 4 and Formula 4x4 were next, with eight trucks racing side-by-side into the infamous Forest County Potawatomi turn one. From the onset, veteran #17 Dan Baudoux set the pace, with #497 Jerry Conrad and #69 Milan Mazanec in hot pursuit. The pace took out Baudoux, moving #471 Brad LaMarche into third. Up front Conrad and Mazanec put on the best race of the day, with Conrad smoking for much of the time. Mazanec took advantage at the halfway point, passing Conrad before claiming the checkered flag and starting his season right.

Townsend Flowage Association's 2nd Annual Golf Outing

The Townsend Flowage Association's Second Annual Golf Outing will be held Tuesday, June 16 at the McCauslin Brook Golf Course and Country Club.

"Last year's event was a great success, and we are hoping this year is even better," says Dawn Herlache, event chair. Herlache and Renee Kosch, co-owners of Birch Hills Resort/My Bar in Townsend, are again sponsoring the event. "This is a fundraiser and all proceeds go to the betterment of the Townsend Flowage," says Kosch.

The golf outing features a four-person nine-hole scramble, with a modified shotgun start at 1:30 p.m. The cost is $40 per person, which includes nine holes of golf, cart, prizes and dinner. The outing and dinner are open to the general public and everyone is invited to attend. Dinner and raffles with great prizes will be held after golfing at My Bar at 16688 Nicolet Road in Townsend. To sign up, stop by My Bar or call 715-276-6195. For more information or to register online, visit www.birchhillsresort.com. If you're not a golfer, just come for the party!

New phone scam sounds very convincing

Sheriff John Dennee has received reports recently of a very convincing "phone scam" and feels it vital that this information gets passed on to the citizens so they don't become victims of this.

The scam involves several phone calls offering disability funds up to $2600.00 per month. The calls are coming from a 715 area code but are linked to a company called Citizens Disability that is in Massachusetts. The problem with this and all scams is that the caller is very persistent and offering to give money, leading to individuals letting their guard down and giving up their personal information. Sheriff Dennee wants to remind everyone that you should never give your personal information out to someone who contacts you. You should always be very guarded with your information, because unfortunately these scams are becoming more and more prevalent. Sheriff Dennee also reminds everyone not to hesitate to call the Sheriff's office if you have received a scam type call or if you are possibly a victim of a scam.

Taking a Stand

For the purists out there, yes, I used this title once before but it's so appropriate I need to use it again.

You see, last week on Tuesday (06/02/15) there was a meeting held in the county board room.

Our county board forestry committee held a listening/comment session on proposed amendments to our county's 15 year forestry plan, which if enacted, might have allowed a "for pay" motorized recreation area on county owned forest land.

These proposed amendments, in my own words, "had been shoved down the throat" of the Forestry Committee by the County Board Chairman, and members of a "private corporation" whose membership includes some County Board members. I still think that county board members who also have membership in a "private corporation" wishing to obtain a concession from the county coffers, is a monumental conflict of interest that will sooner or later, come home to roost.

However, back to "Taking a Stand". The meeting that night filled the room beyond capacity and people were still standing out in the hallway. A lot of good, thoughtful people got up to speak and took a stand on the issue of amending the counties forestry plan to allow for a "For Pay" motorized recreation area on our county forest.

I was reminded again and again, of Norman Rockwell's painting, Freedom of Speech which shows a normal American standing up in a public meeting to say his piece. Check it and Rockwell's Four Freedoms paintings out. They are very powerful.

Overwhelmingly, the vast majority of the comments given that night were against amending our county's forestry plan. Anyone that says different wasn't in the same room with me that night.

I really appreciate the efforts of everyone who was there that night and those that have stood to be heard over the last 22 months that this issue has been floating around the county. In the end, I believe that the Forestry Committee did the right thing, and voted not to pass these amendments on to the full County Board, effectively ending Forest County's role in the private corporation's plan to create a 10,000 acre mud bog (at least on county owned land).

My hat is off to everyone who has "Taken a Stand" on this issue. I believe that by standing up for what you believe in, a basic American right, justice for all will prevail.

As always, these are my beliefs, and, I'm still Standing.

To the Editor:

I was reading the headlines (Forest Republican) on the roadblock to the ORV Park. I appreciate those board members who voted to keep the Forestry Plan as is. My husband and I, along with many others who live in the Armstrong Creek area, DO NOT WANT AN ORV Park.

To destroy thousands of acres for a few, doesn't make sense. And if this was SUCH A MONEY MAKER, why aren't the banks backing them up? Why do the taxpayers of Forest County have to support an idea that benefits a few? And if it fails, oh well, guess what, the grandchildren and probably great-grandchildren will end up footing the bill, along with us.

I DO NOT APPRECIATE (and I am sure there are others) the comments made by Melinda Otto that we have a "pitchfork mentality." It is because of the pitchfork that the county was established and built, along with logging. I don't like be bullied or labeled. We are a free country, with the right to vote and to state one's opinion on issues. We should not be bullied or called names because we disagree. What an unprofessional comment coming from a professional person.

Wanting something for nothing is not in the scope of things. Like I said, if this is such a money maker, where are the banks? Did you check? Why should the taxpayers of Forest County be liable for a non-profit organization, or so I have been told it is non-profit. Where is the money coming from for police protection, fire, garbage pick up, helicopter pad for serious injuries, ambulance service, road maintenance, etc.? The COUNTY? I don't think so.

The people should have a voice as to whether or not this moves forward. I feel more is known about the ORV park than is being told. I think that there are people we know who could have a part in this fiasco. How much of the taxpayers' money has been spent on this project that we are aware of? I would like the board to provide this information to the general public. After all, it is the taxpayers' money they are spending and the County Board should be accountable to the citizens of Forest County.

Any project(s) done in the county should be to benefit the county as a whole, not just a few. Hearing, "we don't know, we don't know," is a cop-out. Why would one push to go further without knowing anything? It doesn't make sense to me and others.

Also, is there a time set when these vehicles will run through the woods, or is it a 24/7 deal, all day and all night? No mention of that.

Melinda Otto also states that all of us are retired who were at the meeting. I was at the same meeting and saw many young people there as well, and they were not in favor of the ORV park. We value what we have up here and appreciate all the natural resources, but in the eyes of some, that isn't a value. Isn't the new area suggested prime for deer, turkeys and ruffed grouse? Those who are farmers in the area, if they have milk cows, have to ask how is this going to affect their herds? The residents who live close to the area will hear the loud noise. The wildlife will disappear from the area because of too much noise. And during the spring and summer months, that is the time fawns are born, chicks hatched. I would guess LARGE, LOUD, MUD SLINGING VEHICLES would OVERRIDE the Beauty of Nature.

In regards to Melinda Otto's children not able to find a good paying job in the area, they will have to move like others, but come back on weekends to enjoy the beauty that surrounds our area. It is a good experience to move out of an area and see what the rest of world is doing. One gains knowledge, it helps broaden one's views, and gives them goals to achieve. It isn't a bad experience to move away from home. It makes one grow up and appreciate what one does have at home and enjoy it.

Library to offer Kovac Planetarium Field Trip

The Crandon Public Library will be hosting a field trip on Thursday, June 18th for Forest County senior citizens to the Kovac Planetarium, located in Monico. This event coincides with the release of a new book published by the Wisconsin State Historical Society press entitled: "The Man Who Painted The Universe: The Story of a Planetarium in the Heart of the North Woods". The book delves into the life of Frank Kovac Jr. and the creation of the planetarium. Frank's inspiring story has also been featured on CBS News and National Public Radio.

There will be a senior bus pick up at 1:00 pm at the library. There are 22 seats available so please register beforehand by calling the Crandon Public Library. The cost of the event is $3.00 for the bus ride and $8.00 for a 90 minute tour/show given by the owner Frank Kovac Jr. Please contact the Crandon Public Library at 715-478-3784 for registration.

Be a library superhero-READ! : Summer Reading Program Starts June 15th

This year the Crandon Public Library has once again planned a wide variety of educational, entertaining and fun programs to help you and your children relax and enjoy the summer. Summer is one of the busiest times around the Library and everyone is invited to join our summer reading programs for children, teens and adults. Summer is a great time to read for pleasure or pick up that book you have been meaning to read. The Library's programs and events are here for all residents and visitors to the area.

This year's children's program, "Every Hero Has a Story" will run from June 15th until August 13th. Children may register for the Reading Club anytime during the summer. Registration involves filling out a reading record and setting a reading goal. The reading goal can be a certain number of books read over the summer or an amount of time spent reading each week. Children who cannot read yet may participate with a parent or caregiver by signing up for the Read-To-Me program. Reading records will be kept at the Library so children can keep track of their progress. Each week a small prize will be given to every child who comes into the Library to record the books they have read. Children who meet their reading goal by August 10th will receive a book bag full of surprises and an entry in the Grand Prize Drawing which will be held on August 13th. Materials for this program will be available beginning Monday, June 15th.

Summer Story Hour Starts June 17th

Join us for Summer Story Hour on Wednesday mornings June 17 through August 12. Story Hour is geared for children ages 6 and younger but all ages are welcome to attend. Story Hour includes stories, songs, dancing, finger plays, crafts and other activities that bring the fun of reading to your child. No registration is necessary for Summer Story Hour, which will be held in the lower level meeting room.

Super Hero Training Camp

The first Summer Story Hour will be on Wednesday, June 17th and will be a Super Hero Training Camp. Youngsters will be encouraged to move boulders, save helpless babies and earn their superhero masks and capes. This event is sure to be a hit! We hope to see you there.

Adults Can Participate As Well

Kids aren't the only ones having fun at the Library this summer. Adults and teens can sign up for the Adult Summer Reading Challenge, "Escape the Ordinary", also beginning Monday, June 15th. This program is open to all teens and adults ages 13 and up. This is the first year that we will be offering a summer reading program to teens and adults. By doing so we hope to encourage the love of reading in adults as well as provide children with adult role models who show them that reading is both fun and offers something for everyone.

Look for Crandon Public Library "Proud Supporter" Posters

The Crandon Public Library's Summer Reading Program is made possible by the generous support of numerous local businesses and community service groups that contribute funds and in-kind donations for programs, prizes and supplies. Their support truly helps the Library maintain a family friendly calendar of summer events. Look for their "Proud Supporter" posters throughout the community.

All of our programs are free and open to everyone. A complete list of upcoming summer events can be picked up at the Library or by visiting our website at www.crandonpl.org. The Crandon Public Library is open Monday, Tuesday and Friday 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. and Wednesday and Thursday 9 a.m. - 7 p.m. and Saturday 9 a.m. - Noon.

Grapefruit and Rx: What you need to know

If you take prescription medications, ask before you eat. Get your health care provider's OK before eating grapefruits or drinking grapefruit juice. Grapefruit in any form (whole, fresh or frozen juice) can influence the effectiveness of many prescription medications.

The intended effect of a medication can be greatly increased or decreased if grapefruit is ingested. It potentially can cause a serious medical reaction. The list of affected medications has grown since the effect was discovered in 2008.

Interactions with medications can last up to 3 days after consuming as few as 7 ounces of grapefruit. Chemicals in grapefruit called furanocoumarins interfere with the normal breakdown of certain medications. This can cause a possible drug overdose or reduced drug effectiveness.

The risk of side effects is also greater. These include heart rhythm problems, kidney failure, muscle breakdown, difficulty breathing and blood clots. Grapefruit interference with medication is highly individualized. It affects some people more than others, but it is potentially more serious after age 70.

Grapefruit is not the only culprit. Grapefruit relatives such as pomelo (shaddock, pamplemousse) and tangelo (honeybell) also contain furanocoumarins. Seville (sour, blood) oranges and limes can have a similar effect.

You can also discuss potential interactions with your pharmacist.

The men who were left behind

This article was previously published in Northern Logger magazine.

By Mike Monte

There has been much written about the early days of logging and the colorful characters who lived in camps and cut logs with the old misery whip, as the crosscut saw was called. Those early loggers thought the big timber could never be completely cut. Like most young people, those men thought that the way of life they chose and often were addicted to, would never end. Of course, we all know that it did. So what happened to the men left behind?

Growing up in a small town in northeastern Wisconsin during the 1950's and early 1960's, these men who were left behind made up part of our population, and while many were well-liked, they were never a full part of the community. They lived in poverty, making do with a miniscule social security check. Most lived in a small, one-room shack with an outhouse in the back. Some still drank their check up as soon as they could and spent the rest of the month eating poorly and waiting for the next check. Most of them, as I remember, didn't drink like they did in the old days, having an occasional beer and stretching that check as long as they could. I might add that there was no food stamp program back then, and people were pretty much on their own.

The one-room shack had become a way of life for many of these men after the logging camp days were over. When the logs were cut, logging turned to cutting spruce and balsam stands to feed the growing pulp and paper industry in Wisconsin. These leftovers from the big logging days made their living with an ax and a one-man saw cutting and bunching spruce, and many of them stayed in the woods in a small shack they knocked together, coming out in the spring. The jobber would keep them in groceries, and their diet consisted largely of meals cooked on a frying pan on top of a small woodstove. Remains of these shacks are still to be found in the woods to this day.

As a kid who liked history, these men were walking books on what life was like in our little community of Argonne in the decades before I came along. Some of these people I only knew by their nicknames, and some of them, while I knew their real name, never saw it written out, so I don't know the correct spelling. Here are some of the old-timers I remember.

Jack O'toole lived on a farm a few miles from town. He was snugly living in what was once a milkhouse constructed from field stone. He did some work around the farm and earned his rent. Speaking with an Irish brogue and wearing what we call a touring cap, he was colorful. With black hairs growing from the bridge of his nose, he did his best to fill in any gaps we may have had in our sex education. Fortunately, at age fifteen, we already knew better, so our minds were not completely twisted on that subject. I think Jack was a teamster, who drove a team pulling sleighs filled with logs, but his favorite memories were of his drinking days, and he liked to tell of winning a whiskey-drinking contest at Mrs. Tom's tavern. He was the last man standing, and he was proud of his feat. I don't know when Jack went to the Big Tavern in the Sky. I think I had left for college when he passed, and I don't know where he was buried.

Not all of the old Jacks were drunks. Bill Kruse lived in what was supposed to be an old travel trailer that had an oil burner added for heat and an outhouse. His small plot of land was next to the Argonne Dairy, and he was an avid Milwaukee Braves baseball fan. He like to fish trout, and always went to one of our many trout streams by himself, returning with trout that made other trout fishermen envious. Nobody that I can recall ever knew where or how he fished. He left with his old Ford pickup and returned with plenty of great eating. Hard of hearing, he rode the clutch on the truck, with the motor roaring, slowly backing out of his parking place in front of King's Tavern, where he might have enjoyed a glass or two of beer. I was probably a freshman in high school when he passed. It was in April, and a cold spell was followed by a very warm string of days. Because he didn't come over to talk about the Braves game a few days back with the owner of the dairy, Leo Pelek walked next door to check on him. The little trailer was somewhere around the ninety degree mark, meaning the oil stove was turned on high during the cold spell when he had obviously died. Needless-to-say, Bill was well on his way to returning from whence he came, and Leo, when I saw him, had emptied his stomach more times than he cared to remember. Bill had family, and he has a stone in the cemetery. He died alone, much as he had lived his life.

Charlie Pratt was another who lived in a small dwelling that was about eight feet wide by twelve feet long. He was an avid reader, and he was almost crowded out of his small home by the magazines, newspapers and books that he had accumulated. He lived behind our old town hall, and his empty cabin was still there until a few years ago. One day I drove by and realized it was missing. I never remember him drinking, but my father said he was a heller when he was a kid. His cabin, I think, sat on property owned by a lumberjack named One-armed Bill, who had a small brick house and must have been in on the very last days of the old lumbering era. He worked in the woods until he died working in 1965. Bill had a left arm that ended a few inches from the elbow, but that didn't stop him from running a chainsaw, hooking the forward handlebar in the crook of his left elbow. He was also a good man with an ax, and had a right arm bigger than the top of his leg.

Old lumberjacks often took a job working on a farm, like O'toole, but some took jobs swamping a tavern, living in a small room or the basement of the saloon. Swamping, by the way, means cleaning up the saloon after hours. They also would have kept the wood stove or furnace fired both day and night. George Weed was the swamper at King's Tavern, that was across the street from my father's garage in Argonne. As a kid, I watched this stooped old guy carry out the garbage and clean the spittoons. I remember that he wore his wool Malone pants summer and winter, was congenial, and lived in a small room in the back corner of the tavern. One day, Manny King announced that George had "woke up dead" that morning. I don't remember any funeral or burial.

There were numerous other characters like this in my younger years. There was big Hans, who claimed that he could make a baby any time a woman wanted one! I don't think many took him up on that offer. Walter Sebastian was another old Jack that frequented town, and I don't remember him very well, other than he was found dead in the woods one spring, and he was long past his working years. I often thought that this was the place where he wished to die.

Whispering Paul had a small shack about a quarter mile out of town with a nice spring just a few steps from his door. He must have had something wrong with his voice box, because he earned his name by whispering all of the time. He must have passed when I was away at college, and when I came back, he was no more. I never knew his last name.

There was a big raw-boned Native American that had an affliction that caused his hair to fall out, and bald as a cue ball and with scarey, light colored eyes, minus eyelashes or eyebrows seemed to look right through you. His passing went unnoticed as well, but I heard that when he was living in a shack in the woods and cutting spruce for Magnus Sjoquist, Maggie, as he was called, plowed the road with his crawler and Oscar was rolled out of the road and into the snowbank. It was said that Maggie took him into his shack, built a roaring fire and thawed him out. He was unhurt from his brush with the dozer blade, and he was cutting spruce that afternoon. He must have had great circulation, because I never saw him wear socks summer or winter.

John Skeezi, and I am spelling this phonetically because I never saw his name written down, used to be in either the Prussian or Polish Army at one time. At this late date, I doubt that it matters which one. He talked very broken English and like to drink. When in his cups, he liked to demonstrate his marching technique in the taverns. He was actually a decent guy when he was sober, and would give the kids a coin for ice cream or other treats if they talked with him awhile.

They came from all corners of the earth, and for some reason, were drawn to the logging game and to the solitary lifestyle. I would bet, however, that when the evenings grew long in the winter woods, they had dreams of home, parents, and brothers and sisters. There had to be some sad and lonely times for these people, yet they did contribute to society.

The logs and pulpwood they produced was used to build the cities and economies of communities downstate, and men working in paper mills and making good wages probably never realized that their job was made possible by the toils of men like these.

They are all gone now, and so are many of the younger people who remembered them. Ceil Gayhart, who grew up in an old hotel in Wabeno, Wisconsin said that much of their business was from lumberjacks that needed a place to stay during breakup and sometimes through the summer months when they did farm work. Ceil said that after she took over the hotel, she had some of these old and worn-out jacks as full-time residents. They paid their rent and she fed them every day from the hotel kitchen. When they died, they were put in the potter's field part of the cemetery, where they still lie, with not any known relatives. In fact, said Ceil, she often didn't know their last names. They went by their nicknames, like "Old Pete" or "Big Joe." She said it didn't matter to them that their real names would pass into obscurity. They lived the life they chose and accepted the consequences.

Cemeteries throughout the Upper Great Lakes have their areas that look untouched, but can't be used for modern burials. Unmarked graves are often disturbed when digging a new grave, so a large area is mowed, but never dug in. The cemetery in Cavour Wisconsin is such a place. When standing in the gate and looking to your left, headstones abound, but on the right side is a large area of mowed grass that they have learned not to disturb. Who is there? Nobody remembers, but at one time, they were bulls of the woods, a terror in the saloon, and they had some fun while it lasted.

Greg Stingle, hailing from Black Creek, Wisconsin, took the year's first hole shot in Crandon's infamous Forest County Potawatomi Turn 1. The veteran racer went on to win the crowded 1600 Light Buggy division on Saturday morning. (Chris Hord image) category was next, with a huge and competitive field 17 vehicles strong. It was #826 Danny Beauchamp that raced into the spectator-friendly Crandon "short course" first, with #897 Mitch Dorr in second. Matt Siorek, driving the #827 was third. That order was shuffled with Beauchamp and Siorek putting on a great race. In the end, Beauchamp used lap traffic to get some breathing room, with Siorek and Dorr battling for the runner-up spot with #833 Nick Byng. In the end it was Beauchamp, Dorr and Siorek crossing the line after the best battle of the day. Crandon native, Jay Schaefer, earned a special award from track sponsor Amsoil for taking the seventh-place finish in Super Stock Truck.

The final, and fastest, Sportsman Series race of the day was for the Super Truck division. With nine trucks entered, it was Eric Ruppel with the hole shot in his #237 truck. In second came #248 Tim Nelson and then #222 Mark Peterson. Ruppel's racer looked like it was on rails as he led the field through the halfway point and to the checkered flag. Nelson held on to second, with a smoking truck of Peterson making home in third.

With an intense morning of Sportsman racing concluded, the on-track attention turned toward the W.E.Rock Dirt Riot competitors. Using both the track's "short course" and part of the new "forest" and rock crawling section of the facility, first up were the UTV classes. In Pro UTV, Brian Strane beat Blake Knabe and Scott Wasz, while the UTV class was won by Jack Szymik over Jason Soule and Bob Murphy.

The next race featured the $10,000 Branik Cup race for the radical 4400-class 4x4 vehicles, as well as W.E.Rocks more production-based "Trail" class. Taking home the big prize for a second consecutive year was Jason Shipman, who beat Doug Jackson and Darrell Gray in convincing fashion. Jesse Oliver took the Trail class win, outrunning Josh Jackson and Tom Yash.

The hills near the rock crawling area were packed for the rest of the afternoon, as spectators enjoyed the noise and muddy fun of the West Michigan Mud Run group taking on a wet and wild track specially built just for the occasion.

Sadly, an all-night rainstorm late that evening and into the following morning forced Crandon officials to cancel the day's racing and postpone the second round of racing until Friday, June 26th as part of the 22nd annual Forest County Potawatomi Brush Run event.

"This weekend was really positive and also a bit disappointing, but we control everything but the weather," said Crandon's Cliff Flannery. "We had a large group of racers entertain an equally impressive group of fans, which is what every event promoter wants to see. Growth is the goal. Our summer is off to a great start."

Crandon International will next open its gates June 26-28 for the 22nd Annual Forest County Potawatomi Brush Run, featuring a full slate of The Off Road Championship (TORC) Pro classes and Crandon Sportsman series racers.

All weekend and camping tickets for the Crandon Brush Run race will be available at the gate.

Crandon International constructed a specially made mud pit for the West Michigan Mud Run group. Saturday's action-packed race day concluded with various classes of these unique off-road machines putting on an entertaining show for the Super Challenge fans. (Chris Hord image)
