Small Community Forum in Wabeno August 24

Session provide participants the opportunity to network, share best practices and identify strategies for small town success.

Register at www.wisconsinowntown.org/small-town-forum

More than half of Wisconsin's municipalities are communities of fewer than 2,500 residents. Despite their large number, these small communities represent a wide variety of geographic and economic areas within the state. Because of their small size, these municipalities have unique issues and needs that are often very different from those of larger communities.

Now in their seventh year, the Small Community Forums, to be held in Wabeno on August 24 and three other locations in August and September, allow representatives of these communities to come together, network, share best practices and identify strategies to address shared concerns. Additionally, representatives from many state and regional resource partners will be on hand to connect with attendees and provide guidance on specific concerns introduced during the sessions.

The Wabeno forum will be held on Thursday, August 24, at the Wabeno Elementary School, 4346 Mill Lane, from noon to 4:30 p.m. Registration opens at 11:30 a.m. The registration fee is $20 and includes lunch, starting at 12 noon. Register at www.wisconsinowntown.org/small-town-forum.

In addition, an optional and special tour of Wabeno's new downtown barrier-free boardwalk and nature trail has been added to the schedule. The pre-forum tour will start at 11a.m., leaving from the entrance to the elementary school, and another tour will happen after the forum ends at 4:30. All participants are welcome.

The Wabeno Forum will feature a presentation on the community resources that are working together to move Wabeno forward, including the Friends of Wabeno, the Wabeno Arts Consortium, and Wabeno Area Players.

The Wabeno Forum is open to everyone interested in small towns, including those involved in quality of life issues, business, government, education, civic and community development civic leaders, elected officials, volunteers, business leaders, educators, and local and regional economic development, civic, and planning are encouraged to participate. This convening is all about sharing ideas, learning and networking for people who care about the future of rural Wisconsin.

Anne Katz, a member of the Forum planning committee, had this to say about the forums: "Small business owners and civic leaders can find ways to help our community thrive and grow is important from a personal and professional standpoint. Being able to network and gather creative ideas and best practices from others in similar situations is a really valuable experience. I always come away from the small town forums refreshed and reenergized."

The 2017 Small Community Forums are made possible through a coalition of statewide agencies and organizations involved in rural community development: Wisconsin Economic Development Corporation, Wisconsin Downtown Action Council, Wisconsin Rural Partners, UW-Extension Center for Community and Economic Development, League of Wisconsin Municipalities, and U.S. Department of Agriculture-Rural Development.

For more information, go to <http://wisconsinowntown.org/small-town-forum> or contact Anne Katz, Wisconsin Downtown Action Council, akatz@artswisconsin.org.

Crandon Library News

This is thought to be the Uihlein steam boat from early in the settled history of Lake Lucerne. Or, it could be the same boat with a gas engine, when the Keith family owned it.

Greetings from Lake Lucerne: History on Tap program

The Crandon Public Library's History on Tap program is scheduled for Tuesday, August 29 beginning at 7:00 p.m. at the historic Hotel Crandon. This month's program will include a narrated slideshow presentation of over 200 photos and postcards from the Florence Galassini archives collection. Florence Galassini was a life long visitor to Lake Lucerne and shared many of her memories with members of the Forest County Historical Society. The Society's archives collection, housed in the local history room of the Crandon Public Library, contains letters, notes, photos, postcards and slides that Florence donated to the society prior to her death in 2008.

This program is free of charge and is open to all ages. Complimentary snacks will be provided. Alcoholic and non-alcoholic beverages for sale. History on Tap is sponsored in part by the Crandon Public Library, the Forest County Historical and Genealogical Society and the Hotel Crandon. For more information, please contact Michelle at the library.

Crandon Public Library host Eclipse Party

By Boyd Monte

The Crandon Public Library hosted an Eclipse Party at the Crandon High School football field on Monday, August 21. Children were able to make eclipse cookies and everybody was given the proper glasses to view the eclipse.

It was too cloudy at times, but there were enough breaks in the clouds and everybody had a great time. The next time we will have an eclipse that has a similar path will be August 12, 2045, according to NASA, so hold on to those glasses!

Climate change presentation Sept. 6 at Nicolet College

"When people get sick and are running a fever, they typically trust the thermometer that measures their temperature. Yet some people don't believe the thermometers that are taking the temperature of our atmosphere, our climate."

That's from Pam McVety, who will present The ABCs of Climate Change and Science: Facts You Can Count On at 6:30 p.m., Wednesday, September 6, at the Nicolet College Theatre.

She recently retired after a 30-year career with the Florida Department of Environmental Protection where she worked as a marine biologist and ultimately a deputy secretary at the agency.

"My goal is to make the science of climate change understandable for people," said McVety, who has spent at least a portion of every summer in the Northwoods for the past 40 years.

"Climate change is the most serious issue facing humanity. We are in a very difficult, life threatening situation and the window of opportunity to change the direction our climate is heading is shrinking rapidly."

The rub comes from all of the carbon already in our atmosphere. It's enough to keep the pendulum swinging towards a warmer and warmer planet for the foreseeable future.

The kicker is humans continue to dump tons upon tons of more carbon into the atmosphere every year, largely in the form of carbon dioxide from the burning of fossil fuels.

It travels through Forest County, Langlade County, Oneida County and Vilas County. The bulk of the byway is in Forest County.

On August 22, a dedication of the new byway took place in Hiles at the Hiles Town Hall. The public was welcome to attend to see the beautiful new sign along the highway and to learn about the process of making the scenic byway a reality. A lot of people worked together on this project, The Forest County Economic Development, Langlade County Economic Development, Forest County Chamber, Wisconsin Department of Tourism, and Wisconsin Department of Transportation, just to name a few.

The website, www.nicolet-wolfriver-scenicbyway.com, is a tool to show what you can see and do on the byway. They also have a Facebook page in which you can share your experience of the byway.

Watch for oak wilt signs to help stop the spread of this tree-killing disease

MADISON -- Each year, a tree-killing fungal disease strikes and kills thousands of oak trees in Wisconsin's forests, woodlots and urban areas. Oak wilt is common in southern and central Wisconsin and is becoming increasingly abundant in northern counties. It is difficult to control once the disease takes hold and prevention steps need to be taken to slow the spread.

"We are observing oak wilt in more places this year, probably due to the storms we had in the spring," said Todd Lanigan, a forest health specialist with the Department of Natural Resources Division of Forestry. "The first symptoms of oak wilt are branches with wilted leaves dropping in summer. These are not the brown, dry leaves you see in autumn. These are partially green to bronze-green and are not completely dry."

Oak wilt is confirmed in all Wisconsin counties except Ashland, Bayfield, Calumet, Door, Douglas, Forest, Iron, Kewaunee, Manitowoc, Sheboygan and Taylor counties.

Oaks in the red oak group, including northern red, northern pin, and black oaks, are particularly vulnerable to oak wilt.

"Oak wilt is fatal for the infected tree. Landowners need to know what to watch for to take immediate steps to protect nearby oaks," said Don Kissinger, DNR urban forester. "Trees that die of oak wilt can still spread the disease for approximately a year after they die. It is important to know the signs and have a certified arborist or local forest health specialist help manage and contain the spread of oak wilt."

Wisconsin communities may be eligible to participate in a cost-sharing program to help combat oak wilt. The Urban Forestry Grant Program is not available to individual property owners; however, they can work with their municipalities to take steps to protect their oaks. Grant applications are due October 1. If a community is interested in applying for a grant, contact the local DNR urban forestry coordinator for more information.

"It is important to know the signs and have a certified arborist or local forest health specialist help outline management options, such as applying a fungicide," said Don Kissinger, DNR urban forester.

What to watch for:

- Wilted leaves that drop from the top of the tree first.
- Dull green or bronze leaves that look water-soaked.
- Partially green leaves on the ground which have dropped from the tree.
- Leaves infected with oak wilt drop rapidly and appear bronze-green.

Helpful tips:

Do not prune oak trees from April through July and seal any wounds with water-based paint to prevent insect-caused infection.

Check with your municipality to see if there are local oak wilt ordinances.

Control below-ground spread by severing the root system between an infected tree and healthy trees.

Do not move diseased wood for firewood.

If storing diseased wood for personal firewood use nearby, seal the entire pile with 4 mil plastic.

The University of Wisconsin's Plant Disease Diagnostic Clinic can help verify the presence of oak wilt. Instructions for collecting and mailing samples to the clinic are available at www.plantpath.wisc.edu/pddc/ (exit DNR), or by calling 608-262-2863.

Other diseases and insect infestations can mimic oak wilt. Additional information about oak wilt and other forest health issues can be found at dnr.wi.gov, keyword "forest health."

Looking Ahead!

I think this photo will depress some of you, but others will get a good feeling about snowmobiling, cross-country skiing, and ice fishing.

It is the end of August, there are leaves starting to turn color, and in a few short months we will see snow flakes. If you are hunting deer, you will be happy, but if you hate running a snow blower, you won't be happy.

This is a sober reminder of the months ahead, even if it is a "little" early for a snow photo.

This picture is from the Lynn Paul collection, but we don't know who the people in the picture are. We know it is probably in the 1920's, as you can see the dozer tracks in the snow.

Correction

My apologies to the Lake Lucerne Association Board and Members... in my overzealous quest to meet the Pioneer Express deadline, I stand corrected in my statement in the Pioneer Express editorial piece stating,

"If you were to take a ride to the boat lading on the lake you would find yourself face to face with a sign stating that the DNR, The Lake association and the town of Lincoln can enforce a no wake zone on the lake per the sheriffs department, this is false and deceptive information."

There are in fact two signs, one stating the wake restrictions by the DNR and the Town of Lincoln and one asking people to follow the wake restrictions (among other items) endorsed by FCAL, of which the Lake Lucerne Association is a member.

Sincerely,
Jodie Landgraf

Dear Editor,

I was just thinking about all our government, from county, state, and country. Scary times!

Wouldn't it be nice if the constituents could use ACT 10 on our elected officials, instead of going through all the paperwork to do a recall on any elected official. It would be so easy and simple, you don't need a reason, or if one is requested, it can be a "lame excuse". How sweet it would be!

Seems some elected officials become over confident in their actions, as they have gotten away with events before, They don't listen to the people who elected them, and try different measures to get their way, and succeed in some areas. And when they don't there is pay back.

Do the people of Forest County know that a consulting firm was hired by the County Board to redo the courthouse, jail and the building where the health dept. and ARDC offices are? Depending on which plan the County Board decides on, this would cost between $6 to $28 million dollars to the residents of Forest County. How many people know that? There is a Master Plan for this, the presentation was at a board meeting in July. Where is all this money coming from, the tax payers of Forest County? They must think everyone has money stashed somewhere or really deep pockets to pay for all their ideas. How much did the consulting firm charge the County for the master plan?

What I find interesting is that people are afraid of some board members. Why? They don't want to make waves, because of a payback, but why? We have a right to question, and if not pleased with what is happening in the county we have a Constitutional Right to do what is just and honest. I think people feel bullied by some board members, and shame on them for using their positions to deter people of what is their right. They need to be removed from their position. They were elected to work for the people of the county, in making the county a better place to live. Shame on them!

For Old Time's Sake

Approach to Stone Lake

Things have changed a bit since this picture was taken! For one thing, the name of the lake is now Lake Lucerne, and the road has been blacktopped for quite some time. Plus, the trees have now matured again. The original stand no doubt went through the Page & Landeck sawmill on Clear Lake, in Crandon.

A good guess is that this picture is circa 1910.

Thank You and Personals

Special thanks and great appreciation goes out to Mark, Amy, Carole and staff of Hotel Crandon for their generosity and friendship. My brother was, as I am also, truly blessed to have wonderful friends like you!

With love & friendship,

Lake temperatures are also warming, creating conditions more beneficial to bass than walleye and other species in the pike family that prefer cooler temperatures. During her presentation, McVety will also talk about actions people can take as individuals.

Sponsored by the Oneida and Vilas County Chapter of the Citizen's Climate Lobby and the Nicolet College Sustainability Professional Learning Community, the presentation is part of the Our Changing World Series at the college.

Other upcoming presentations include Adapting Forest Management to a Changing Climate October 11 and a screening and discussion November 7 of the film Chasing Coral, winner of best documentary at the Sundance Film Festival.

All presentations in the Our Changing World series are free and open to the public.

Tips for Dealing with Flooding

Submitted by Kathy O'Melia
 Some areas of Wisconsin flood every year. These floods are usually created by rivers and lakes overflowing or too much surface water run-off in low-laying flat areas. Here are some steps you can take to protect yourself and your home if you live in an area likely to flood:
 First, talk to your insurance agent about whether you need flood insurance. Second, you may want to think about moving your furnace or water heater so that they are above flood level. You also might want to think about installing a sump pump with a backup generator so that it can remove water even if the power goes out. Finally, you might want to put together an emergency kit with a supply of water and nonperishable food and a flashlight, and make sure that you can easily find your medications as well as your cell phone and charger.
 When a flood happens, the most important thing to do is avoid flooded areas. Flood water may have sewage or large pieces of debris that you can't see under the water. Only two feet of rushing water is enough to carry away most vehicles.
 If your home floods, make sure you have safe drinking water. If your town issues a "boil water" notice, make sure you follow all directions. If you have a private well, it may need to be disinfected before you drink or bathe in water from the well. Disinfecting a well is something that should be done by a licensed well driller or pump installer.
 In addition, don't turn your power on or off while standing in water. You may need to have your electrical system inspected, and your electrical appliances must be completely dry before you use them. If they have been sitting in water, your appliances may not work.
 Flooded buildings should also be inspected for structural damage. In addition, any hard surfaces that touched flood waters should be disinfected with a bleach solution. Any damaged flooring or furniture may need to be removed to prevent mold.
 You can find more information about dealing with flooding at the Department of Health Services website, <https://www.dhs.wisconsin.gov/flood/index.htm>.

2017 Fall Turkey Hunting leftover permits go on sale August 26

MADISON - Hunters who were successful in the fall turkey permit drawing will begin receiving notification in the mail early next week. Please note, it is possible that the notifications may arrive after the leftover permit sales begin. Leftover fall turkey permits go on sale August 26 for the season that opens Sept. 16.

Hunters can check to see if they were successful in drawing a fall turkey permit by logging into their accounts at GoWild.WI.Gov. A fall turkey license needs to be purchased, along with the turkey stamp [PDF], unless the stamp was purchased for the spring turkey hunt. Conservation Patron license holders already have their fall turkey license and stamp privileges and they will receive their fall turkey permits in the mail, if they were successful in the drawing.
 Those not successful in the drawing will have the chance to purchase a leftover permit. All remaining fall turkey permits will go on sale Saturday, Aug. 26 at 10 a.m. Leftover permits can be purchased at a rate of one per day until the zone sells out or the season ends. The fall turkey hunting season for zones 1-5 runs Sept. 16 to Dec. 31 (season may be extended to Jan. 7, 2018, consult online regulations for updates), while the season for zones 6 and 7 runs Sept. 16 to Nov. 17.
 Leftover permit availability in each Wild Turkey Management Zone is as follows - total permits made available prior to the drawing are in parentheses:
 Zone 1: 15,486 (27,500);
 Zone 2: 5,073 (22,000);
 Zone 3: 18,531 (30,000);
 Zone 4: 7,936 (15,000);
 Zone 5: 180 (4,200);
 Zone 6: 0 (1,900); and
 Zone 7: 0 (1,500).
 Remaining fall turkey permits may be purchased using the online license center or through any license agent. Leftover fall turkey permits cost $5 for 10 and 11 year olds, $10 for residents, and $15 for nonresidents. This is in addition to the cost of the fall turkey license and turkey stamp (if not already purchased).
 The 2017 Fall Turkey regulations are included in the 2017 Wisconsin Small Game Hunting Regulations pamphlet, available now on the hunting regulations page of the DNR website and at DNR Service Centers.
 For more information regarding turkey hunting in Wisconsin, search the DNR website, dnr.wi.gov, for keyword "turkey."
