The Northwoods deer kill

By Mike Monte

The deer kill in our section of the Northwoods isn't anything to brag about. In Forest County, the total kill is 704. Florence County beat Forest with a total kill of 854. None of our northern counties in our region had a large deer kill compared to historic levels.

Oneida County had a total deer harvest of 1,406, but then again it is a larger land area than Forest. Oconto County came in with a total of 444, and while a bigger county than Forest or Oneida, much of this county is in farm country and not public land. Vilas had a total of 755, and this is a smaller area than Forest County. Langlade County had a kill number of 1,678, which is a large number compared to the Forest County total. Marinette came in at 1,340.

It could be said that both Marinette and Langlade Counties both have active and large county forests, with plenty of timber cutting and the generation of new browse. Forest County, with a large amount of the land base in national forest and a lack of active logging jobs in the past decades, has likely lost a great deal of its deer habitat.

There are also less hunters in the woods these days, and that might also be a factor in the lower deer kill. Whatever the reasons, we don't have the exciting deer seasons of years past.

Attention: Farmers are you aware of the cost share program?

By Cassidy Neillitz

Forest County Land Conservation Department has been working on ways to provide farmers and agriculture producers with basic information regarding state regulation which may affect their operations or land and programs which may help in meeting the requirements of those regulations for funding. A cost-share program is a method for sharing installation costs for non-point source pollution controls between a governmental entity and a farmer. This program provides reimbursement for up to 70% of your costs!

More than 90 percent of farms in the U.S. are classified as small, with a gross cash farm income of $250,000 or less. These farms, most of which are family-owned and operated, confront considerable challenges due to current trends, such as increased movement into cities, an aging population, farm consolidation, and changing weather patterns. Forest County has its own unique challenges for small farms including very limited markets, long distances to suppliers, short growing seasons, and challenging soil conditions. Small farms like yours, here in Forest County, are vital to our economy and well-being as a county and a nation. Not only do they support the competitiveness and sustainability of rural and farm economies, they serve to protect our natural resources, provide local food sources, and maintain our population!

As a farmer or agricultural producer, you do have a substantial liability in regards to state statutes with

Oconto County snowmobile trails remain closed at this time

In spite of the recent snowfalls and snow covered trails, all Oconto County Snowmobile trails remain closed at this time. As tempting as it may seem to take a ride down the trails, you could be facing a $232.00 fine from the Oconto County Sheriff's Department or the Wisconsin DNR for riding on closed trails if you did.

According to Oconto County Snowmobile Alliance President Dan Guendert, "Groomers may be out packing down the trails to build a base, and you may see club volunteers in trucks, ATVs, or on snowmobiles working on the trails - but just seeing groomed trails or tracks on the trail does not signal the start of the snowmobile season."

The nine snowmobile clubs in Oconto County work together with the Oconto County Forest Administrator, who gives the final approval before trails may be opened for the season. Once the trails are approved to open, the announcement will appear on the official Oconto County Trail Report web page <https://www.ocontocounty.org/trail-reports/>. For your own safety, and that of the club groomers and volunteers-please wait until the season starts. Do not ride on closed trails. For more information, please contact the Oconto County website or the Forest and Parks Department at 920-834-6995.

Protect yourself from Marketplace fraud

With the Marketplace 2020 Open Enrollment Period approaching (November 1, 2019, to December 15, 2019) it is important to be aware of potential scams or attempts to collect your personal information. After you complete an application on the Marketplace, you may get a phone call to verify or ask for more information. Healthcare.gov has provided the following tips to help prevent fraud related to these calls:

- If your phone has caller ID, check the number. The display may show one of these:
 - Health Insurance MP
 - InsMarketplace
 - 1-855-997-1890
 - 844-477-7500

The customer service representative will say they are calling from the Marketplace and provide a first name and agent ID number. Write them down.

A Marketplace representative may leave a message on your voice mail or answering machine. If this happens, you won't be able to call back. If the Marketplace can't reach you after three tries, you will get a letter in the mail telling you what to do next.

The Marketplace representative may ask you the following:

- To verify your identity, using information you provided on your application, including your full name and address.
- To provide or verify your Social Security number, application ID, policy ID, user ID, date of birth, or phone number.
- To verify or provide income, household, and employment information, but NOT personal financial information, like a bank name and account number. They will also not ask about any personal health information, like your medical history or conditions. (If you're applying for certain Marketplace exemptions, you may be asked to provide medical documentation.)

If you don't want to answer over the phone, ask the representative to mail you a letter with instructions for completing your application. If you are at all suspicious of the caller's identity, you should choose this option.

In certain cases, the Marketplace may request additional documentation. If you need to mail any information, the address is listed below. Do not mail any information to any other address.

Health Insurance Marketplace

Do not stand at my grave and weep, I am not there, I do not sleep. I am a thousand winds that blow, I am the diamond glint on snow. I am the sunlight on ripened grain, I am the gentle autumn rain. When you wake in the morning hush, I am the swift uplifting rush of quiet birds in circling flight, I am the soft starlight at night. Do not stand at my grave and weep, I am not there, I do not sleep. Do not stand at my grave and cry, I am not there, I did not die.

Baldwin announces support for legislation to stop Veterans from being punished for VA mistakes

Bipartisan bill would prevent VA from holding veterans responsible for benefits overpayment
WASHINGTON, D.C. U.S. Senator Tammy Baldwin is cosponsoring bipartisan legislation to prevent the VA from charging veterans for its own accounting mistakes.

The VA annually sends as many as 200,000 overpayment notices totaling thousands of dollars to veterans and their families, sending them into crippling debt and withholding future benefits payments until the debt is paid. These overpayments are often a result of the VA's own accounting errors, but the VA puts veterans and their families on the hook for repaying the debt.

The bipartisan Veterans Debt Fairness Act, led by Senators Jon Tester (D-MT), John Boozman (R-AR) and Sherrod Brown (D-OH), would reduce these overpayment errors and require the VA to hold itself, and not veterans, accountable for its mistakes. The bill requires the VA to shoulder the debt burden of overpayments if the VA was responsible for the debt.

"Forcing our veterans and their families to use their VA benefits for the department's own accounting mistakes dishonors their service and sacrifice. We must do right by our veterans and protect their economic security," said Senator Baldwin. "I'm supporting this bipartisan effort to ensure those who have served our nation don't go into debt or have their VA benefits taken away through no fault of their own."

VA benefit overpayment notices have been steadily increasing, sometimes for a payment period dating back as far as five years. Many of these debt overpayments are at no fault of the veteran or their dependents, but rather VA accounting errors and record mismanagement. Currently, the VA can send out debt repayment notices to veterans requesting the full amount due within 30 days while freezing all benefit payments until the debt is repaid.

The Veterans Debt Fairness Act requires the VA to update its computer systems so veterans can update their own information regarding their beneficiaries, eliminating a key cause of overpayments. Under their bill, the VA would be required to offer electronic notification of debt notices, including information on how to file appeals and hardship waivers. Debt collection would have to adhere to a five-year backlog time limit and no more than 25% withholding of benefit payments.

Nicolet College Criminal Justice program 1st state to have zero student textbook costs

Every college student knows textbooks can get expensive – and fast. But that's not an issue any more for students in Nicolet College's Criminal Justice program. Starting in January, students can complete the entire two-year program with exactly zero textbook costs.

Nineteen-year-old Brielle Tauer is paying her own way through the Criminal Justice program at Nicolet. "I can't tell you how huge this is. Money is definitely tight and not having to purchase textbooks, it's like almost shocking in a very good way. It frees up money for other things, simple things, like decent food."

With this move the Criminal Justice program at Nicolet becomes the first academic program in the 16-college Wisconsin Technical College System to bring textbook costs down to zero.

The cost of college is a concern for many students and for some it even prevents them from earning that credential that paves the way for a better life. By eliminating textbook costs, it opens the door wider for more students to become college graduates.

The 66-credit Criminal Justice associate's degree now has the distinction of being a Z degree, for zero textbook costs. The change is expected to save each student at least $1,300.

Cindy Domaika, manager of Open and Instructional Resources at Nicolet, has been the chief architect at the college to reduce – and in this case eliminate - textbook costs for students in all academic programs at Nicolet.

Domaika worked closely with Nicolet Criminal Justice instructors to assemble a myriad of free instructional materials. These include materials from sources such as the Wisconsin Department of Justice, and oercommons.org, a vast, content-rich website where professional educators from across the globe openly share a wide variety of instructional material that is available at no cost. Materials range from electronic textbooks to videos and PowerPoint presentations to a wide variety of other content that is available entirely in an electronic format. All resources are also hand-picked and vetted to make sure they meet high academic standards.

Tauer, who recently moved to the Northwoods from Milwaukee, is now in her second year of the Criminal Justice program. She said she looked at nearly a half dozen other college's before selecting Nicolet.

"Cost, quality, and small class sizes were the biggest factors I was looking at, and Nicolet came out on top," said Tauer, who someday would like to be a detective. "Not having to spend a ton of money on textbooks was a big part of that."

Along with full-time Nicolet faculty instruction, the free materials Tauer and her classmates use are supplemented with guest lectures by law enforcement professionals in the Northwoods with specific areas of expertise.

Nicolet first incorporated free Open Educational Resources materials in classes in the Fall of 2017. Twenty-three classes launched the initiative. Today, that's increased more than five-fold with 121 classes using free materials.

To date Domaika estimates the move has saved students about $434,000. "Next semester we'll easily top half a million dollars in savings for students, which is fantastic," she said.

Domaika and faculty are now working to make other programs Z degrees with zero textbook costs.

For more information about the Criminal Justice program and the many other academic programs at Nicolet, visit nicoletcollege.edu or call the college at (715) 365-4493, 1-800-544-3039; TTY 1-800-947-3529.

special attention to soil erosion and water quality. Two primary statutes that affect your operations are, Chapter NR 15 RUNOFF MANAGEMENT and Chapter ATCP 50 – SOIL AND WATER RESOURCE MANAGEMENT PROGRAM.

DNR is primarily responsible for adopting performance standards to prevent pollution runoff from farms. The department of agriculture, trade and consumer protection (DATCP) must prescribe conservation practices to implement the DNR performance standards. DATCP must also establish soil conservation and farm nutrient management requirements. ATCP 50 spells out a single set of farm conservation practices that incorporates DNR performance standards by reference. Counties play a major role in implementing conservation practices on farms. Conservation requirements are contingent on cost-sharing. The Forest County Land Conservation Department has contacts with State and Federal Agencies to provide resources and cost sharing to assist you in meeting the requirements of the State Laws.

The Forest County Land Conservation Department works closely with DATCP and the Natural Resource Conservation Service to find resources to assist farmers and agriculture producers in meeting requirements to protect our natural resources. The following are some practices that qualify for cost share assistance that may apply to you:

- ATCP 50.68 Cover Crop
- ATCP 50.62 Manure storage systems
- ATCP 50.64 Barnyard runoff control systems
- ATCP 50.65 Access Road
- ATCP 50.70 Diversions
- ATCP 50.705 Feed storage runoff control systems
- ATCP 50.71 Field Windbreaks
- ATCP 50.72 Filter Strips

INSURANCE TIP ATTICS & ICE DAMS

It is the time of year where the temperatures are dropping. Here are some homeowner tips to help prevent ice dams.

- Keep the attic well ventilated. The cooler the attic, the less melting and re-freezing on the roof.

- Keep the attic floor well insulated to minimize the amount of heat rising through the attic from within the home.

- As an extra precaution against roof leaks, have a contractor install a water repellent membrane under the roof covering.

realizes there is something more. After the death of her mother, she does not know if she can handle a broken heart but in loving these two boys, she is barreling right towards heartbreak.

If romances aren't your thing, and you'd rather cozy up with a story of mystery and suspense, check out The Wives by Tarryn Fisher. Fisher delicately crafts the story of a woman in a polygamist relationship, but that woman is you. Your husband has many wives. However, you have never met any of them. One day you come across a note in your husband's pocket. The note is a reminder for a meeting with a woman named Hannah. You can feel it in your heart that Hannah is one of the other wives. You thought you were fine with your situation. You thought you were fine with this type of marriage, but you just can't help yourself. You track down Hannah and develop a friendship with her. Not long after, you begin to notice bruises on Hannah's face and arms. Suddenly you realize her husband, which is also your husband, is beating her. You've never known your husband to be violent. How far are you willing to go to discover the truth and how many more wives are out there? What do you do?

Finally, for the adventurer in all of us, the last library feature is That Wild Country by Mark Kenyon. In this work of non-fiction, Kenyon takes readers on a journey through America's public lands. Along this journey, Kenyon describes the animals and resources that live and are found in these public lands. He also delves into the controversies and debates for and against capitalizing on or "exploiting" these natural resources. This work is a combination of a travelogue and a historical monograph and seeks to outline how America's public lands came to be and what their future might hold.

If you would rather curl up in front of the TV, we invite you to check out our newest DVDs including Hustlers, IT: Chapter 2, Judy, The Overcomer, Rambo: Last Blood, Hobbs & Shaw, and Downton Abbey. To reserve any of these items ahead of time, please call the library at 715-478-3784. If you don't have a library card, don't worry! You can sign up for a library card at no cost to you by stopping into the library at 110 W Polk Street in Crandon!
